

NANCY WYNNE ANTICIPATES BIDDLE CONCERT WITH PLEASURE

The Annual Concert for the Drexel-Biddle Bible Classes Will Be Held Tonight in the Bellevue-Stratford. Mr. Wright to Entertain at Country Club

TONIGHT'S night! And we will all be on hand for the famous concert which Tony will give for his Bible classes at the Bellevue-Stratford. Once more his supporters will rally their forces together and appear in the ballroom of that hostelry. And our genial host will welcome all the "brothers and sisters" between the songs as he introduces the "foremost singers" of their time.

I think one of the best things in the whole performance is the presence of the members of the classes in rows about the room and the general singing of hymns when he gathers them all up before the audience two or three times during the evening. Then back they go to their seats as Mrs. Willie Whelen sings "Butterfly" or "Dan" Donovan elaborates in the high notes.

There is no doubt about it, the concert is the most unique affair given in the annals of Philadelphia's social life, and every one wishes our inimitable Tony great success in all his undertakings for we are all convinced, and rightly so, of his absolute sincerity. So we will be there in crowds tonight.

Mary Biddle is going to sing, and I am quite curious to hear her, as "they say" her voice is really lovely, and it will be the first time she has sung in public here.

The proper thing without doubt to do, now, even if you have not announced your engagement is, when the light is low in the Opera house, steal a surreptitious kiss and hope that no one sees you!

The trouble was I did see them, though they did not know it, and it seemed a shame even to laugh because they were so like the proverbial ostriches. Only two weeks ago I predicted that their engagement would soon come out. Now I think it will be sooner, don't you?

Of course, it was perfectly natural he had to go leave her for a little while; but, of course, he was "going to meet her later," so I guess they ended up down at the Ritz for the supper dance. She has the most wonderful titan hair.

Eleanor Hopkins looked lovely last night in a gown of canary yellow trimmed with dark fur. Just as she came out of the box for the promenade an usher handed her a box of flowers, and Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox and Sidney Keith, who stood by, were teasing her with ohs and ahs!

Mrs. Stotesbury has changed her hair back to her regular way of wearing it, and it is much more becoming. She looked stunning last night in American beauty satin. Mrs. Charlie Wright was marvelously gowned, as usual, in Persian Rose with traceries of silver, according to Burton Donnell Hughes. Mrs. Francis Lloyd, who was Mary Lowell, of Boston, was wonderful. She does wear such beautiful gowns. Last night she was in the Converse box with Mrs. Converse and the Tom Ridgways. Her frock was of white lace and crimson, and she wore gold earrings, which were exceptionally becoming.

The Hanson party for Agnes Allen was lots of fun. There were twenty of the girls and boys. They went to see Gaby Deslys and then afterward to the supper dance at the Ritz.

The girls in the party were Rachel Piter, Beth Scott, Agnes Smyth, Eleanor Vogels, Helen Gleason, Julia Hamp, Esther Boehman, Denise Mercier and Louise Grey, and the men in the crowd were John Mears, Bert Roussel, Clayton McElroy, Nookle Fottrell, Brooke Edwards, Ted Gletherton, Alfred Barton, Alfred Norris, Bill Davis and Matts Mercier.

A gay little party that attended the theatre last night and finished up with supper at L'Aiglon included Mrs. William Coleman Freeman, Evelyn Chew, Tom Evans and Roddy Wister.

An affair which will occupy the buds this evening will be the dance Sydney Wright will give for Eleanor Pepper and Frances Scott out at the Philadelphia Country Club.

There will be some of last year's girls at the affair. Eleanor and Frances are cousins and are in several cases sharing their good times. Eleanor is larger than her sister Adeline, with rather golden hair which is naturally curly. She has a delightfully fresh complexion and very pretty manners. Frances is equally attractive, and they are such good friends. Mrs. Scott is Mrs. George Wharton Pepper's sister. I saw Frances receiving at a tea last week, and she has the dearest dress on. It was of palest pink and just a cloud of tulle with the faintest tracery of silver.

The debut who will go to the dinner-dance tonight will be Molly Thayer, Freda Lewis, Annie Merrick, Sarah and Marguerite Myers, Martha McAllister, Barbara Benson, Marie Wright, Margaret Remak, Marian Grant, Basile Downs, Sarah Nelson, Eleanor Cuyler and Mariana Gowen.

The other girls will be Adeline Pepper, Gertrude Hanley, Gertrude Hecker, Marion Myers, Margot Scull, Susie Ingersoll and Cornelia Leidy.

I was so pleased at a little romance in which the perpetrators were utterly unconscious of being detected, though, after all, detection is not the word, for it will be a pretty little romance. The man is a foreigner, tall and dark and very good looking, and the girl, who came out several seasons ago, is petite and of a brunette type, with soft brown hair and large, very trustful brown eyes.

There is the dearest tearoom on one of our side streets, and only a few people have found it out, and it is here that they drop in now and again for tea and a gossip. NANCY WYNNE.

The Footlights, a new dramatic organization composed of prominent suburbanites who have previously won a name for themselves in amateur performances, will present Jerome K. Jerome's well-known comedy "Miss Hobbs," in the Bala-Cynwyd auditorium tonight. Miss Del Rose Macan, a former member of the Barn Stormers Club, a dramatic society of Ridley Park, who has achieved success not only as an amateur actress, but as a clever coacher of various children's plays, will act the part of Miss Hobbs, a young lady of very decided opinion against men, but finally won over to the other side of the question by an unknown bet. She will surely win much applause from tonight's audience. Mr. George Pedigone, a member of the Barn Stormers of Ridley Park, and who is well known for his successful interpretation of leading roles, will be Wolfe Kingscarrle.
