NANCY WYNNE'S DAILY GOSSIP OF THE BUSY SOCIAL WORLD

pr. and Mrs. Charles Bingham Penrose Will Give a Ball for Their Daughter at the Bellevue-Stratford This Evening-Several Affairs Are Scheduled for the School Set

THE first ball of the season will be tertain informally this evening at her siven tonight in the large ballroom bome 313 South 10th street, for her grandson, Mr. Hugh Roberts Parrish, prior to the meeting of the class. Charles B. Penrose for their gaughter Sarah, who is one of the bestliked debs of the year.

There will be a number of people frem out of town. The Dahlgrens, Madeleine and Kathwine, will come over with their mother. Mrs. Drexel Dahlgren, who is a sister of Mrs. Penrose, you know, and the Bristed girls, for whom the Alfred Norrises will give a dinner. It will be a very brilliant affair, and I am getting quite excited over the prospect.

Judge and Mrs. William Wilkins Carr are giving a dinner before the ball for their daughter, Helene Martin, and their niece, Catharine Robinson. other guests will be Sarah Franklin, Resamonde Fisher, Helena Robinson, a elster of Catharine, Elizabeth Wheeler, William Robinson, Dicky Harte, Roderick Tower, Jarrett Ingersell, Colket caner and William Mackie. And, too, Helen Marshall will be given a dinner by Dr. and Mrs. Dercum.

Excitement has been very intense lately about the story which has been circulated about one of our popular see buds, who, on being dared to remove her shoes and stockings and take the part of an ancient goddess in the centre of a fountain in the conservstory of a private house recently, took the dare, and with dire consequences, for one of the perpetrators of that dare turned the fountain on full tilt, and rom all I hear the tableau was unique in the extreme, and the deb amost lost to our fond view forever. Be that as It may, this same young person seems of an extremely venturesome disposition, and one evening was seized with the desire to visit one of her friends is Chestnut Hill at the early hour of 11 p. m., when all good little children are usually in "beddy bye," and so our young heroine persuaded some of her numerous suitors to motor her over from her home or, the Main Line te Chestnut Hill. Arrived at the point of her desire, the said small girl, who sevidently of a romantic disposition s well as a venturesome one, proceeded with the able assistance of her chosen escorts to fire small pebbles at the window of her friend. Alack and also alas, the tale does not end

In the dark the house did not seem so familiar as usual, but finally they deeided on the proper window and the attack was on, with the result that it was not little friend's window, but Father's, and Father proceeded to appear in a wrothy manner, with such evident intent to make inquiries it was very hard for the small deb and her gay young friends to make a good get-

The Triangle performances yesterdy afternoon and evening were splendd. I think it is wonderful how well those men act and dance and sing, and the best part of the whole thing is that it is all home talent. Even the scene shifters are members of the this, and the large orchestra is made up also of Princeton students. The words and music were written by Mudents, and the only outside aid at all was the master who taught the dancing. I was crazy about the song "Nobody Home," with the verse about the Ford factory being obliged to close, as Ford had token all the Nuts on the Peace Expedition with him.

But the thing I like most of all was the general singing at the end of the play of "Old Nassau." It is rather a remarkable thing to see the men standlar with hats raised in the air, waylag time as they sing "In Praise of Old Namau, My Boys, Hurrah, Hurrah, Hurrah!" with the most earnest exression on their faces, just as if it brought out the best that is in them. All over the room as I looked about were older men with gray hair, many bald and bewhiskered, as well as the younger ones, singing lustily. It is a beautiful tribute to their Alma Mater.

I hear that Mrs. Jimmy Sullivan has rone over to New York to await the arrival of her son and daughter from England, where they have been for some time. Frances joined her brother E London some months ago and, lidging from the letters she has been writing home, has had a most interesting experience, visiting the numercos hespitals in and around London and dodging Zeppelins "between Whilea." Their home-coming at this tenson is particularly fortunate.

Hrs. Sullivan's second daughter, Lets, is having her Christmas tree sarty again this year for the children of those less fortunate than themsives. It is nice to hear of these litto kindly acts being performed when this are as busy as they are just at Bresent, particularly Leta, who is entiged in preparing for the Gambol of the Gods, on January 13, when she will have a solo dance.

JUST STORIES By GERTRUDE M. O'REILLY

MISS O'REILLY'S book wins straight to your heart. These are charming stories, told marvelously well. They are fresh with perennial childlike fragrance of Irish character and gay with the irrepressible Irish humor that smiles and weeps and smiles again. They are sweet with breath of the fields of home.

A splendid book, written by a native Irishwoman who understands her people as truly as she loves them tenderly. In humor, in delicate pathos, in naturalness of situation and dialogue, in story-telling power, "Just Stories" is one of the notable books of the year. It raises the soul in you like a bright Irish morning. Agnes Repplier, world-famous essayist—'I have read 'Just Stories' with keen pleasure. They suggest bits of real life. The book is charming."

Tom Daly—"Miss O'Reilly is a natural story teller. She couldn't be dull if she wished. In 'Just Stories' each tale has a charm of its own."

Newark News—"No one who likes a good Irish story can afford not to read the 'Just Stories' of Gertrude O'Reilly, and that means no one who likes a good story. For these tales are lively and amusing combinations of humor and pathos."

America—"Just Stories' is a gale of merry laughter, shot through, now and then, with a fine spray of tears. The greatest fault of this book is its length. It is entirely too short."
