

NANCY WYNNE ANTICIPATES GREAT FUN AT GAMBOL OF THE GODS

Large Charitable Performance to Benefit the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art. Alfred Barton in Charge

EVERY ONE is much excited over the big spectacular performance and dance, "The Gambol of the Gods," which will be given for the benefit of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art on Thursday night, January 13, in the Bellevue ballroom. It is very interesting to learn that Nancy Wynne and her inseparable Mary Mitchell and her inseparable Mary Gretchen Clay, are actually friends, some of the costumes for the making of the dancers at the "Little Shop" on 15th street, which was started last year in connection with the Emergency Aid. This set will be under the guidance of Valentine Mitchell, and Frances Watts has designed the frocks. There are to be various groups of dancers, and judging from previous affairs of the kind this will be very wonderful from an artistic, graceful and musical point of view.

The scene is laid in the Casino at Monte Carlo, and among the choruses will be 15 roulette girls. Marion Grant, the debutante daughter of Mr. William Grant, will lead this group. The girls who will take the part of spring nymphs will be headed by Corinne Freeman, and their frocks have a stencil design, done by Mildred Post, who is a School of Design pupil. Helen Ellis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Struthers Ellis, will be in charge of the actress group.

Another set will be a "Rouge et Noir," one which will be most striking and effective.

It will be on the order of a Cabaret and already a number of tables have been engaged for the evening. Mrs. Charlie Harrison, Jr., has one, so have the Bob Longans, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grove, Mrs. John Harrison and Mrs. Joseph F. Simont.

I understand from 15 to 20 individually designed posters have been gotten up by pupils of the Industrial Art School, and they will be placed in various parts of the city. These include one for which a prize was given, and so creditable are they all, it has been decided to collect them after the "gambol" for an exhibition at the school.

Did you know Joe and Ella Du Barry are back from their honeymoon. They tell me they had a wonderful trip. They are going to spend the winter at the Brock House, 2101 Spruce street. Mrs. Brock, Sarah and Elizabeth are going to stay out in San Francisco all winter, so the little newlyweds will have plenty of time to look around for a house of their own, and in the meantime gain experience in practice.

This week will be very gay. There will be the Frazier Harrison ball tonight for Mariana Gowen, who is Mrs. Harrison's sister; opera tomorrow night and Benedict's ball, Sarah Nelson's ball Wednesday night, the Weidensheim dance Thursday, Friday night the Boston Opera Company will come back and give "Madame Butterfly," and then there will be the George Wharton Pepper's ball for Eleanor and Geckhacker's party, too, and on New Year's Day there will be opera again. I wonder how it is we can keep it up, for just think besides all these dances, of the luncheons, teas, dinners, theatre parties and suppers, which are a regular part of a society woman's daily life.

Can it be true that staid Quakerdom is following in the wake of its more-chic, much more-frivolous sister and is even abandoning the fireside on Christmas Day for the lure of the bright lights and the music of hotel life? For certain it is that on Saturday night the gayest and smartest of fashion's favored forsook the home circle to attend the Supper Club, which, under the guidance and chaperonage of Mrs. J. Hutchinson Scott, has become a rare success. Mrs. Scott brought over from New York for the occasion the charming little semi-professional dancer, Gladys Jackson, who, with Mr. Frederick Hamilton as a partner, quite captured the hearts of Terpsichore's disciples. Miss Jackson, who was not unknown to a number of this city's fashionable, danced this autumn at the Greenbrier Hotel, at White Sulphur Springs, and while there excited much favorable comment. This winter it seems she has been a feature of the Baltimore dancers.

But to return to Mrs. Scott's club. It met in the Rose Garden instead of the ballroom, and so great was the crowd that it was found necessary to seat many latecomers outside in the lobby. The decorations were, of course, suggestive of the season, and with the Meyer Davis orchestra quite outdoing itself the occasion was a very festive one indeed.

A very interesting party included Mr. and Mrs. James Potter, who had with them their daughter, Mrs. Frank Polk, of New York; then Sam Reeves had a number of guests, also the Jay Lippincotts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Evans Roberts also entertained, and another quite genial host was "Gee" Heckacher. Mrs. Scott herself had a large party of young people for her debutante daughter "Beth," as she is affectionately known to her intimates.

Others entertaining included Mrs. Edmund H. McCullough, the Walter Steels and the Harry Distons.

PERSONALS
Miss Jean Lister Austin will give an attractive luncheon of 30 covers tomorrow, at her home on Gulf road and Ithan avenue. The decorations will be in pink.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wharton Lippincott have just opened their new house at Edgemoor, and will spend the winter there.

The engagement of Miss Emma M. Lister, of this city and New York, to Mr. Douglas Potter, of East Orange, N. J., has been announced.

Emily Bartlett, who is home from school for the holidays. The friends, who will be from the school set, will include Miss Nancy B. Dunning, Miss Margaret Earle, Miss Dorothy Ely, Miss Mary Fahrenstock, Miss Lucy Grey, Miss Eleanor Bachman, Miss Marie L. Hurburn, Miss Jane S. Hurburn, Miss Frances H. Hammond, Miss Mary Kay, Miss Mary Knight, Miss Esther L. Rhoads, Miss Mary Lytle, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Helen Shellen, Miss Frances W. Leech, Miss Carol Levy, Miss Margaret McAdoo, Miss Charlotte Poney, Miss Frances J. Rose, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Beatrice Vollrath, Miss Anna W. Germantown

Miss Helen Garmley will entertain about 75 guests tomorrow at a house dance in honor of Miss Mildred Bousher. The house will be attractively decorated with holly and other Christmas greens.

Mr. Arnold Jennings, a student at Princeton Seminary, has returned to Germantown to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents, the Rev. William H. Jennings and Mrs. Jennings, 602 Greene street.

Mrs. John Walker, of Buffalo, is spending the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. B. F. Dewees, of Magnolia avenue.

Mr. E. Ross Carver has returned to his home on Newhall street from a three-months' stay in the mining regions of the far west.

Friends of Mrs. Alice Booth, who, with her daughter, Mrs. Grennell, closed their apartment in the Wissinickon, Queen Lane, in November, and left for a year's stay abroad, have received Christmas greetings from Mrs. Booth, bearing a tiny photograph of her country place in Ireland. Mrs. Booth also has a house in London, where she intends turning over to the Government as a retreat for wounded soldiers. Surely herein lies the true Christmas spirit.

Members of the Board of Education, heads of schools, teachers and alumni have been invited to attend a reception, to be given to Superintendent of Schools Dr. John P. Garber at the Germantown High School on Wednesday, January 5, at 3:30 o'clock. The affair will be under the auspices of the Council of the Higher Schools.

Miss Adele Bartram West, of 428 Chestnut avenue, entertained her card club last week in honor of Mr. William Murphy, who sailed on Saturday for New Orleans to spend the month of January.

Roxborough

The following Christmas entertainments were given on Friday and Saturday in this section: Emmanuel Methodist Episcopal Church entertained at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, for the members of the Junior League, and at night the annual Christmas exercises for the Sunday school of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church; at 5:30 o'clock Christmas morning the choir of the Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Arthur S. Wells, pastor, rendered Christmas carols from the churchtower; two services were held in the Fourth Presbyterian Church on Christmas Day, one at 8 o'clock in the morning, when a choir of 50 voices, under the leadership of Miss Kate Blair, organist, rendered the carols, and in the evening the Sunday school, under the direction of Mrs. Isaac Ward, sang the cantata of "Santa Claus."

Frankford

Mrs. William Carroll, of 2096 Rhawn street, has as her guests Miss Edith Alleyway and Miss Marguerite Sykes, of Atlantic City, who will remain until after the first of the year.

Miss Jessie Clark Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Hammond, of Paul street, is entertaining over the holidays Miss Edith Clark, Miss Marion Clark, Miss Josephine Cromley, Miss Alice Brenty, Miss Bertha Martin, Miss Fannie Ward, Miss Josephine MacNamara and Miss Pauline Graham.

Miss Nancy Northrop, of 309 North 34th street, is home from Columbia University to spend the holidays with her mother.

Mr. James Pancoast, of 305 Cooper street, has been spending several days at the shore, where he motored with a school friend.

Southern Resorts

ATLANTA, Dec. 27.—Christmas week in Atlanta, one of the gayest in its history, found its climax in the Black and White ball, Wednesday night at the Georgian Terrace Hotel, when all society combined to make the occasion memorable from the social and picturesque standpoint and profitable to the French relief fund for which it was a benefit.

Two hundred and fifty guests were assembled, and the stately banquet hall, simpson in its rose-colored decorations, threw into effective relief the brilliant variety of costumes in the modish "Noir et blanc."

Garlands of deep pink roses were festooned from the ceiling to the large crystal chandelier, which was showered with roses and amaranth. Flat baskets of pink roses were silhouetted against the white paneled walls and great white pillars, and many happy faces made a formal contrast to the rose baskets and garlands.

There were many large parties, among them that given by Colonel Willis E. Hakan to Miss Harriet McDaniel and Miss Agnes Gray, belles of the debutante set. Mrs. Kelly Evans, of Toronto, Can., and Atlanta, who is prominent in Southern society, was the centre of another group.

Lieutenant Commander Walter Gordon Roper, United States Navy, and Mrs. Roper, of Philadelphia, who are spending the holidays here, were interesting out-of-town guests. Mrs. Roper was the beautiful Miss Robert "Bob" Hildley Venables of Atlanta.

The entertainments of Christmas Day included an egg-nog party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Speer at their home on Peachtree street, where they kept "open house" from 12 to 2 o'clock.

Another happy reception, which has come to be one of the brightest anticipations of the social world for Christmas Day, was that given by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyd McRae and others were "at home" Christmas Day and at all the clubs there were bright celebrations.

At the Piedmont Driving Club "open house" all day was followed by an elaborate dinner-dance.

At the Capital City Club an informal dinner dance was the Christmas Eve festivity, and "open house" Christmas Day gave all the members and the ladies an opportunity for a greeting.

At the Druid Hills Golf Club several hundred people enjoyed the Christmas afternoon tea dance, and many golfers spent the day on the beautiful Druid Hills course, or on one of the other three, which are 18-hole, giving Atlanta the unique position as a Southern golf centre.

At the East Lake Country Club an elaborate tree party on Thursday for the children of the members was a memorable occasion, and each bachelor member was allowed to take somebody's else child. Dinner and dancing followed the gift making.

A masquerade dance on Tuesday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club, given by one of the societies at Washington Seminary, and a dance at Druid Hills Golf Club Wednesday night by another society of the same school, were bright events among the college set, whose time is well filled with dances and tea dances until the New Year.

One of the prettiest dancing parties at home was that given by Miss Anne Patterson for her guest, Miss Gladys Madigan, of Houston, Tex.

GOWNS WORN BY MILADY OF FASHION ARE INTERESTING TO READ ABOUT

Tailored Suit Worn by Miss Elizabeth Cartwright Is Very Smart—Mrs. Victor Mather's Beautiful Gown, Stunning Frocks Worn by Recent Brides

THE past week, full to the fifth hour with shopping and teas and charming amateur productions, gave all of us who watch the kaleidoscope of fashion a chance to study a perfect constellation of distinctive tailored costumes and the ultimate word in restaurant frocks. Whoever one goes one is impressed with the extreme simplicity and quaint demureness of the gowns chosen, the simplicity, that is, of a Domet of Callot, which, needless to say, is the despair of the amateur copyist. One of the smartest of the tailored suits an evidence is that worn by Miss Elizabeth Cartwright, who looks with special favor on simple gowns. This particular model, sleek, with the extreme simplicity and quaint demureness of the gowns chosen, the simplicity, that is, of a Domet of Callot, which, needless to say, is the despair of the amateur copyist. One of the smartest of the tailored suits an evidence is that worn by Miss Elizabeth Cartwright, who looks with special favor on simple gowns.

for the charities in which they are interested, have adopted rather mannish but comfortable sport suits of Tyrolean wool. Miss Kitty Penn-Smith, who is such an able exponent of outdoor sports, looked charming in a suit of this "genre," which she wore at the Christmas Bazaar at the Ritz. It was carried out in tan tweed, the jacket being decidedly loose and carrying two capacious pockets. A pair of brown leather buttons occupied a prominent role on the skirt; a fitting accompaniment to this suit was her unobtrusive hat of lilac-colored felt, of the type our most-loyal English cousins adopt for their daily tramp across the moors. A long motor coat of opossum gave the finishing touch to a delightful picture.
