

NANCY WYNNE WISHES A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL HER READERS

The Heckscher Ball and the Peppers' Affair Were Huge Successes—Boston Opera Company Returns—The P. Williamson Roberts Entertain Tonight

BEST wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year and many of them all that sort of thing, those of us who can but an eyelash after seeing the old year out and welcoming the new one in last night, will say to each other, and then off to the Mummies' parade to watch their usual pranks while we sit snug and laugh over the sights of the night before, for no matter how mild our dissatisfactions were, we all saw funny goings on. Of course, the fun was great at the Heckscher dance, which, by the way, occupied the whole top floor of the Bellevue-Stratford with two orchestras going, Europe from New York, and Conrad's of this city, kept the ball rolling to the late hours of the morning and as late as 7 a. m. guests were to be seen coming out of the hotel in fancy costumes. Gee had three other men receiving with him, Sam Chase, Sam Chew and Stevens Heckscher.

The Alfred Norrises gave a dinner for Dorothy and Susan Bruce before the ball, their guests including the Charlie Wrights, Antonio Stewarts, Andrew Wheelers and Harry Hodge, Bob Le Conte, Harry Brengle and Mr. X. Constantinidis.

The debutantes had a wonderful time at the Peppers' affair, which was held in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford, which was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens and New Year's oddities. Nearly all the debutantes of the season were on hand and voted it a great success.

The Boston Opera Company returned last night with another performance of "Madame Butterfly" with the cunning Japanese prima donna. The house was brilliantly filled as it seemed a splendid way to spend the early part of the evening and the "Snowflakes" ballet was quite short, so we all had time to get down to the hotels, etc., for the mid-night hour. Tonight the opera will give "I Pagliacci" and the ballet "Coppelia," and then Mrs. Scott's Supper Club will be the chief attraction for the gay monde.

Mrs. Scott is such a delightful hostess and these supper club meetings are so interesting it has been decided to hold a second series of 10 dances to start on January 22. Mrs. Scott has also become the chaperone of the Saturday afternoon dansants in the Rose Gardens.

Mrs. Temple having resigned from that post owing to ill health.

While on the subject of the Scotts, I hear Beth is quite one of the belles of the season. She has the most wonderful eyes and charming vivacious manner and is a great favorite with young and old.

The W. Howard Pancoasts gave a breakfast this morning at their home on De Lancey place, and many of the Heckscher's dance guests went to it. Among them were the Ned Crovers, Norman MacLeods, J. R. Evans Roberts, Barkley Henrys, Harry Dissons, Sam Chase, Sam Chew, Mrs. Betty Madeira, the George Horwitzs and a host of others.

Tonight the Peety Roberts will give a small dinner dance at their handsome new home in Villanova. They took the old Garrett place there and pulled down the house and built a scrumptious new one, which their guests will have the opportunity to see this evening. Mrs. Peety was Mary Disston, a sister of Mrs. Sydney Carpenter and of Jacob Disston, of Chestnut Hill, and, of course, has quite a bit of the Disston millions.

Every one is laughing very much over a certain small girl who, though she has not announced her engagement (we all believe it to be), still talks all the time about her wedding and plans for her bridesmaids' gowns and her own frock. She says, of course, she was engaged even before she came out, but what is the use of announcing anything like that and spoiling a perfectly good time, and, let me tell you, a perfectly good time she is having. She says she will probably announce it soon and be married in the spring, now that she has had a winter out. I think her fiancé is pretty amiable to stand for it, but, then, young people do look on a good time, as they call it, before all other things and think there is plenty of time to settle down.

The small girl is very pretty, has bright brown hair and very beautiful soft eyes, and the fiancé's name is the same as that of a well-known and very rich New York family.

AMATEURS IN EXTRAVAGANZA TO SWELL ART SCHOOL FUND

Performance for Benefit of School of Industrial Art Will Take Form of Musical Fantasia, in Which Many Debutantes Will Appear

THE Gamble of the Gods at Monte Carlo, a delightful extravaganza devised by Mr. Alfred I. Barton, will be given in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford for the benefit of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art. Virtually all of this year's buds will take part in the production, which is one of the loveliest that has ever been given by the committee, of which Mrs. C. Leland Harrison is chairman. The costumes have been designed by Miss Frances Watts and are charming creations. The program begins with the ballet, "The Perpetuation of Spring," and is taken from the legend told on the Riviera that Hercules, after becoming a god, visited the now famous resort and being charmed with its beauty conferred on it perpetual spring, banishing frost and snow and raising the mountains which to this day preserve its equable climate. The first scene opens on the towers of the Casino. Here a young nymph, Miss Gertrude Graham, wanders forth playing on pipes, followed by other nymphs known as the "Dance of Spring," who make merry until the nymphs of frost and snowflakes, headed by Miss Gertrude Heckscher and Mrs. Albert Smith, frighten them away. Then enters Mr. J. Kearney Harrison, as Hercules, accompanied by the Sun and a group of goddesses. The rising Sun gradually melts the snowflakes, who are subdued and banished, and Spring, with her handmaidens, returns to her rightful domain. Miss Gertrude Graham is Mrs. J. Shipley Dixon, Miss Agnes Kennedy, Mrs. L. Rodman Page, Miss Mary Brown Warburton, Mrs. C. A. Heckscher Wetherill, Miss Charlotte Bain and Mrs. R. Ingersoll.
