

AUTO KILLS SCHANG'S YOUNG BROTHER-IN-LAW

Nine-Year-Old Edward Aubrey Fatally Injured When He Jumps Off Wagon

EDWARD AUBREY

Dr. R. Furman Shute, of 1514 Mount Vernon street, the owner and driver of the automobile which struck and killed nine-year-old Edward Aubrey, of 2726 North 13th street, at 15th street and Lehigh avenue yesterday, was held without bail to answer the action of the Coroner by Magistrate Pennock in the Central Police Station today. Aubrey was a brother-in-law of Wallace Schang, of the Albetics.

Incidentally, Edward's death may indirectly be attributed to the grip, as it had caused him to be away from St. Columba's Parochial School, and he left his home to go to a barber shop when the fatal accident occurred.

The police say the boy had been stealing a ride on the back of a brewery wagon which was proceeding Dr. Schute's automobile, and that he jumped off the wagon and stepped in front of the machine at Lehigh avenue and 15th street.

The physician answered the machine, but not speedily enough to permit the lad to escape. As young Aubrey, struck by a mud guard, staggered from the impact, Mrs. Janette Shute leaped far out from the side of her husband's automobile, at the risk of her own life, grabbed the child's clothing and lifted him bodily from the street surface.

The clothing tore, however, and the boy fell to the street. Mrs. Shute nearly fell from the moving machine herself, but Doctor Shute with one hand managed to help her keep her balance. Doctor Shute placed the child in an automobile driven by Horace Pys, 5910 North 12th street, which was passing, and took him to the Samaritan Hospital. His skull was fractured, but he did not recover consciousness before his death, which occurred last night.

Doctor Shute surrendered himself to the police after leaving the hospital. He was liberated, however. The boy's sister, Marie Aubrey, married Schang in August. It was said at the Aubrey home that the Schangs had just left to attend the wedding of a brother, Bob Schang, which was scheduled to take place in Buffalo on January 5. Because of the death, it is believed that the couple will return to Philadelphia at once.

TO SEE! PROMISE TO BLIND

George M. Garman Will Recover From Accident, Says Physician

George M. Garman, owner of a shoe store, 28 North 52d street, is a happy man today. He has just been notified by his physician, Dr. John C. Crook, 2325 Powelton avenue, that his eyesight can be saved and that the accident, which he suffered New Year's night, would not cause permanent blindness.

The accident occurred when Mr. Garman, wearing glasses, standing on a chair at his residence, attempted to turn on the electric light. He slipped and his eye hit the top of the chair. The splinters of the lens were ground into the eye.

Rooster's Wink and Majestic Stride Were Recognized by Levin Murray, He Says, After Turning Bergainers Over to Police

Caesar had a peculiar wink. He also had a majestic stride and cocked his head to one side with most austere contempt for things in general. Is it any wonder, then, that his master, Levin Murray, a persevering negro, recognized Caesar today and knew that the rooster and eight noisy chickens which he discovered at Haines and Baynton streets had been stolen from his coop?

MOTHER AND HER THREE BABIES IN SAD PLIGHT

Husband in Hospital and Family Must Sleep on Floor of Their Desolate Home

What is known to many as charity has been instrumental in giving a certain amount of food to Mrs. Frank Boski and her three children, and this food has kept them alive. But there was not enough charity to keep her off the floor of her room at 1037 South 6th street. Upon the floor she sleeps.

So do the children, but it does not hurt them so much, because they get the lion's share of the food that comes into the house and so are better fortified against the cold; and besides, children do not worry about their discomforts. But Mrs. Boski worries about her health, because it is of vital importance to her to be at least reasonably taken care of just now, as she expects another child within a month.

There was a report of the case in a morning newspaper, and an investigation today has verified statements concerning the plight of the Boskis. Her husband is in the Philadelphia Hospital with typhoid fever. It will be many a long day before he is able to do anything for his family. Before his present illness he had been steadily employed. A few weeks before Christmas he accepted a position as an extra clerk in a local express office.

In a few days he began to feel ill. Mrs. Boski heard her husband's complaints in a fever of trepidation. She had never been compelled to ask assistance from anyone outside the family. He became weaker and weaker, one day had to stay home. A doctor told him he had typhoid. He would have to go to a hospital. "But how shall we get along?" said Mrs. Boski. The moment he stopped work their system of hand-to-mouth living fell like a house of cards.

Boski made for the door, to go to work, but he was so weak that he fell down, and he had to be helped to the hospital—the hospital where the poor do not have to pay and which is, therefore, in a dilapidated and neglected condition—the Philadelphia Hospital.

The Society for Orphaning Charities has done the best it could do for Mrs. Boski. But there are many claims upon the society, and in order to be fair to all it cannot give too much to any one person. For this reason, Mrs. Boski, unable to work because of her condition, could get enough to eat for herself and her children, but not blankets and sheets and beds—for beds had gone by the board, to the pawnbroker's.

For a month now the woman has been struggling alone. There is no coal in the house, and there has been but little fuel there for a month—stray bits of wood. The cold is deep-seated in the walls and floor of the room of the Boskis.

Job Sought for Would-Be Suicide

A position is being sought today by the police for Frederick Hess, 29 years old, of 129 North 8th street, who yesterday attempted to end his life by swallowing several poison tablets. Hess bought the tablets after tramping the streets all day in search of work. He is in the Jefferson Hospital. Physicians say he will recover. His tale of hard luck so impressed the police that they are doing all in their power to get him employment.

ROOSEVELT WITHDRAWS NAME FROM BALLOTS

Colonel Not to Run in Any State Primary, Announcement Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—If Colonel Roosevelt is seeking the Republican nomination for President, as a number of politicians have asserted, he is at least determined not to permit his name to appear on the ballots in any of the States where delegates to the national conventions are chosen at the primaries. This order will apply to the ticket submitted by the Progressive party as well.

That much was settled definitely yesterday when the Colonel sent a letter from Oyster Bay to the office of Secretary of State Vaughan at Lansing, Mich., requesting him to see to it that his name was not placed on the ballot as the candidate of any party. He had received a message from Mr. Vaughan informing him that his adherents in both the republican and Progressive parties had filed a sufficient number of names to put his name in the ring.

As soon as this letter was sent, the announcement was permitted to go out that Colonel Roosevelt would not appear as a candidate in the primary elections in any of the States. The position the Colonel takes is that he is not a candidate in any sense of the word, at this time at least.

But the chances are that the Colonel, thus in a sense "unattached," will put in an appearance at Chicago on June 1, when, by all present signs, both Republicans and Progressives will assemble in that city to hold their national conventions. He will go, if he has his way, as an observer of a situation unique in the political history of the country.

PARIS TOLD KAISER SUFFERS FROM CANCER; UNABLE TO SPEAK

Matin Tells How Surgeons in 1911 Considered Removal of Larynx to Stay Disease

HEIR MAY USE SIGNATURE

PARIS, Jan. 5.

The Matin affirms, notwithstanding denials, that the German Emperor is suffering from cancer of the throat and is no longer able to speak.

"In February, 1911," according to the Matin, "the doctors were considering whether it was necessary to remove the entire larynx in order to stay the progress of the disease. They raised the question as to whether the Emperor would be able to speak if such an operation were performed. The leading specialists of every capital in Europe were consulted. It was learned that an eminent surgeon of Paris had, with artificial larynx and a breathing tube opening into the trachea, restored the power of speech to numerous patients who had undergone total ablation of the affected organ."

"This doctor, whose name the Matin withholds for reasons of professional etiquette, was asked to go to Berlin by the German Ambassador. He was offered 100,000 francs ($20,000) and all his expenses, and was requested to bring with him a patient who had been fitted with the apparatus, so that the Emperor himself might learn if he was able to speak."

"Meanwhile, as a result of a minor operation with a bistoury and a few weeks' absolute rest, the Emperor's condition improved, as is often the case in this disease, the progress of which is implacable but slow. It is another operation of this kind which has just been performed. But it is only palliative. The German Emperor must either make up his mind to complete removal of the larynx or be stifled by the growth."

"This explains why the Emperor went neither to Warsaw, Constantinople nor Brussels."

"The seriousness of the Kaiser's illness is now openly admitted," says a Daily News dispatch from Rome. "It is said to be due to blood poison, g. although no statement of the specific cause has been made. The Kaiser already has been operated upon twice, but his condition is not improved."

"Nevertheless, a Berlin dispatch says that Grand Admiral von Tirpitz conferred with the Kaiser yesterday. It is believed the discussion dealt with the signing of the P. and O. liner Persia in the Mediterranean."

"The Chancellor alone was allowed to visit the Emperor on New Year's Day."

EX-BOXING CHAMP OF NAVY HELD FOR TRYING BLACKMAIL

Charles E. Atkins Accused by Mrs. Hanna Carter—$8000 Bail

Charles E. Atkins, 26 years old, who says he is the former champion feather-weight boxer of the United States navy, was held under $800 bail this morning in the 32d street and Woodland avenue police station by Magistrate Harris, accused of attempting blackmail on Mrs. Hanna Carter, 3212 Woodland avenue.

A little urchin came to Mrs. Carter's door, according to her testimony, and handed her a letter which said that the writer had "heard something about her" that might "embarrass her if generally known," but that the writer would not tell if she would "give $25 to the bearer. I need the money right away."

Mrs. Carter skipped out the back way to the police station, which is next door.

A Series of Eye Talks No. 83 Our Next Talk Wed., Jan. 12 By Joseph C. Ferguson, Jr.

Most everyone can arrive at a wise decision, provided the facts of the case are understood and the rule of reason applied.

Your eyes are very precious to you—fact not to be disputed.

The Oculist has made a special study of the eye in addition to the other subjects that must be mastered by the medical man.

He sells no glasses—has no reason to advise glasses unless they are the necessary treatment.

Apply the rules of reason and you must conclude that when your eyes require treatment, the surest and surest method is to have an Oculist make the examination.

And when glasses are required, surely your best course is to take your prescription to an Oculist who specializes in prescription work and who is thoroughly capable of making and fitting your glasses correctly.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

UNDER date of December 13th, the following cable was sent from London: "King George, who suffered severe injuries by being thrown from his horse at the British front in France, October 28th, has recovered sufficiently to take up affairs of state under certain restrictions. Respecting the King's condition, Sir Frederick Treves, sergeant-surgeon to the King, and Sir Bertrand Dawson, physician extraordinary to his Majesty, have made the following statement:

"WE ARE happy to report that the King has so far recovered from the grave accident of October 28th, as to be able to resume work with certain limitations.

"THE King has lost seriously in weight, and until a normal state of health is attained, it is essential that his Majesty should avoid any cause of fatigue. It has been necessary on medical grounds that the King should take a little stimulant daily during convalescence. As soon as the King's health is quite restored, he will resume total abstinence, which he imposed upon himself for public reasons!"

THE most extraordinary FALLACY is here apparent—for if the worthy King of England takes, to quote the cables, "a little stimulant daily during convalescence," and it does him so much good, why in the world, when his Majesty gets better should he lose sight of the FACT that "a little stimulant daily" will continue to be beneficial?

A "LITTLE" stimulant never does anyone harm—for the moderate drinker is the true disciple of Temperance. The FACT that George of England found "a little stimulant daily" a distinct gain to his health should dispel the FALLACY that the moderate indulgence in alcoholic beverages is harmful.
