TAX ON TOOTH PASTE BAR TO CLEANLINESS. DRUGGISTS CONTEND

Dealers Here Enter Protest Against War Levy on Commodifies That Heal and Help Humanity

SUGGEST OTHER REVENUE

Why Tax Tooth Paste? Why Not Tax Shells?

Druggists say: "Instead of taxing tooth paste, which contributes to human cleanliness, comfort and health, let the war tax be paid by those who are making inordinate profits from the manufacture of war munitions.

tax on tooth paste is unfair and unjust. "There are many ways of raising revenue without taxing human cleanliness. "In view of the extraordinary protection and backing given by the Government to those engaged in making money out of the war, it is only fair that the beneficiaries of that pretection should contribute a reasonable amount of their profits in the form of a tax on war exports."

There should be no penalty on human cleanliness, according to more than 50 representative druggists of Philadelphia representative druggists of Philadelphia who have united in a process against the propersed continuance of the emergency war tax on tooth pasts. "In making tooth pasts pay a part of the war tax," the druggists' statement mays, "the Treasury is putting a penalty on human cleanliness, and is not only charging a tax for the privilege of keep-ing mently does but here of the privilege of keeping morally clean, but also for the privi-lege of protection from the inreads of insldious The druggists contend that there are plenty of other ways of raising revenue without taxing cleanliness, and suggest that fax ought to be paid by those who are masing extraordinary profits out of the manufacture of munitions.

FIREMEN FIGHT HARD TO CHECK PITMAN FIRE

Blaze in Stable Ignites Roofs of Seven Houses-Loss $3000

PITMAN, N. J., Jan. 5.-Firemen here were given a hard fight early this morn-ing when fire destroyed a large livery stable in the centre of the town, owned by O. B. R. Coles. Sparks showered near-by property and at one time the toofs of more houses were on the seven houses were on fire.

Glassboro firemen, with their auto fire truck, aided the local fire fighters in checking the flames.

The fire started when a horse kicked over a lantern while Coles was feeding his horses. Coles was severely burned in removing the horses and wagons from the blazing stable before the firemen arrived. One horse, six wagons and a quantity of harness and feed were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $3000, partly covered by insurance.

FUNERAL OF HENRY MILLER

Merchant Died of Illness Contracted During Civil War

Henry D. Miller, retail clgar merchant, militarism before they emigrated to your Henry D. Miller, retail cirar merchant, who died on Sunday of an illness that he contracted during the Civil War, will be buried Thursday. Funeral services will be held in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal Church. Broad and Venango streets, at 2 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. Forrest E. Dager, will preach the militarism before they emigrated to your hospitable shores. The point of view of virtually every Briton I know, and one which is shared by Canadians, Australians, New Zea-landers and South Arrieans, is that the English-speaking end of the war is a matter for the British Empire, and that, desults our lack of percention, we do lespite our lack of preparation, we do not need any help from the United States. Another section of British thought, and Members of the Grand Army and the Knights of Malta will be in attendance, as well as members of other fraternal this also applies to almost all French thought, is that the intervention of the United States would be a calamity to the Allies. Ill-balanced, ignorant, but well-meaning people like your Mr. Ford are and military organizations to which Mr. belonged

Mr. Miller fought at Gettysburg, in the siege of Port Hudson and other important engagements. He was under fire for two months, and, although he was never wounded, he suffered from fevers and exsupposed to be typical of many in the United States, though I confess I have never met them during the many jour-neys I have made throughout your councosures that crused his death several days ago. He was 74 years old. He was one of the organizers of the Knights of Malta in this country and was the hearer of the secret ritual brought to this cour try from England.
