

200,000 TURKS FREED FOR EGYPT RAID AS FOE QUIT

Anglo-French Complete
Evacuation of Gallipoli
Peninsula

TURK SUPREMACY AT STRAIT

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Turkish forces, estimated at more than 200,000, have been released for use in other theatres of war by the action of the Allies in completely abandoning the Gallipoli campaign.

They comprise the prize corps of the Turkish army, hard fighters seasoned in fierce battles on Gallipoli. The greater part of this force, it is believed here, will be thrown at once into the proposed Egyptian campaign or sent into Mesopotamia to aid the attempt to drive the British out of the Garden of Eden.

With them will go several thousand heavy guns and field pieces of all calibers employed by the Turks in withstanding the nine months' assault of the Anglo-French troops from Seldul-Bahr and Sulva Bay. Less than 20,000 men, it is estimated here, will be required to garrison the Dardanelles forts for the remainder of the war.

No hint as to what disposition will be made of the Anglo-French forces withdrawn from Gallipoli is permitted to be made public by the censor. There is considerable speculation, however, as to the possibilities, both in the Balkans and in Egypt. Climatic conditions in Gallipoli have particularly fitted the Dardanelles troops for operations in Egypt should they be needed.

A large fleet of battleships, cruisers, submarines, destroyers, mine-sweepers and other war craft were set free for operations elsewhere with the abandonment of the Dardanelles attempt.

Details of the evacuation of the last positions at Seldul-Bahr were still lacking today. The public, however, takes no stock in Constantinople dispatches transmitted through Amsterdam reporting that the Allies' losses were extremely heavy. The London Daily Express, commenting on the official report of General Monro that British casualties consisted of one man wounded and that the French suffered no losses, declared that the withdrawal was "the most glorious failure in history." Other papers viewed similar expressions of satisfaction that the troops had been withdrawn without heavy slaughter.

That complete evacuation of the Gallipoli positions was inevitable was generally understood here through the surrender of the positions at Sulva Bay and in the Anzac region to the Turks. The Turkish commanders at once transferred their Sulva Bay forces to Seldul-Bahr and were preparing an attempt to overwhelm the Anglo-French troops at the tip of Gallipoli.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—A violent battle lasting for three days preceded the Anglo-French withdrawal from Gallipoli Peninsula, according to Constantinople dispatches today, reporting the greatest Turkish victory of the war.

"Turkish artillery sank an enemy transport filled with soldiers," Constantinople reported. "All the enemy troops were captured by Turkish troops and enormous piles of booty, as yet uncounted, were taken. In the final fighting a Turkish aeroplane shot down an enemy biplane of the German type near Seldul-Bahr."

Schools in Constantinople have been closed and the city decorated in bunting in celebration of the Turkish victory at Gallipoli.

The Berlin newspapers today point out that the British suffered a severe loss in prestige, as well as enormous losses in men, ships and money.

MINE SWEEPERS COMB WATERS ABOUT BRITAIN

Loss of Edward VII Indicates
Presence of Fatal Explosives in Seas

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Mine-sweeping operations on a vast scale have been inaugurated since the destruction of the British battleship King Edward VII, presumably by a mine planted by a German submarine.

Although all the members of the ship's crew, 77 men, were saved, the loss of the King Edward VII is a serious blow to the British fleet, for it is the finest of the last class of pre-dreadnoughts.

Since the German U-boats gave up their campaign of destruction against merchant shipping evidence has developed that many of these underwater craft have been equipped for mine-laying purposes, and are carrying on this work in the most unexpected places around the British Isles.

The King Edward VII was the 23d important warship lost by England since the war began.

The loss of the battleship coming at the same time as the announcement that the allied forces have completely evacuated the Gallipoli peninsula caused gloom, but Government leaders, referring to the old adage, "It's an ill wind that blows no good," believe that this disastrous news will have a good effect on recruiting and further ally opposition to conscription.

THE WEATHER

Official Forecast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—For eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Rain and warmer tonight; Tuesday cloudy and colder, with probably rain in north portion; moderate to fresh southwest to northwest gales.

A storm area covers the lake region this morning and extends in a narrow trough southwestward to Texas, while a second disturbance overpreads the plateau region and the Pacific States. These disturbances have been accompanied by general precipitation, which has covered the greater portion of the country. The temperatures have risen throughout the southern half of the country and are mostly above the normal this morning, with mild conditions in the Ohio basin. A cold wave governs western Canada and is spreading southward over the Missouri basin.

BRITISH CUT OFF IN MESOPOTAMIA

PRINCIPAL RAILROADS OF ASIA MINOR

Kut-el-Amara, where 10,000 men are reported to be in danger of destruction or capture by the Turks, is southwest of Baghdad, the objective of the British drive under General Townshend, which recently got a severe check from the Ottomans. The successful Turkish forces are believed to have been concentrated at Aleppo and rushed suddenly to Baghdad over the partly completed railroad line. The British were prepared for no such numbers and had to fall back when almost in sight of Baghdad.

L'ARTIGLIERIA TUONA SU TUTTO IL FRONTE TOLMINO-DOBERDO

Un Censimento di Tutto il
Grano Che Si Trova in Italia
E' Stato Ordinato dal
Governo

GIOLITTI E SALANDRA

ROMA, 10 Gennaio. Da un comunicato austriaco si apprende che la battaglia di artiglieria continua davanti a Gorizia e su tutto il fronte dell'Isonzo, e che gli italiani ha no bombardato le posizioni austriache nella zona di Tolmino e le posizioni a nord di quella città. Gli italiani hanno pure bombardato le posizioni austriache nella regione di Osavica e di Dobberdo.

Il comunicato ufficiale italiano pubblicato ieri sera, dice invece semplicemente e brevemente che la giornata di sabato scorso calma su tutto il fronte, ad eccezione della zona di Gorizia, dove si ebbe un violento cannoneggiamento.

La Gazzetta di Venezia dice che il presidente del Consiglio on. Giovanni Giolitti si incontra tra non molto a Torino con il presidente attuale del Consiglio, on. Salandra, ed a questo incontro, dopo quello che successe nel mese di dicembre, si preannuncia la dichiarazione di guerra, si da naturalmente molta importanza politica.

Un altro decreto stabilisce le norme per la requisizione del grano per l'esercito, e chiunque resiste a questa requisizione sarà punito con una multa di 200 dollari e con la confisca dei cereali.

Questi provvedimenti sono intesi ad impedire che coloro che posseggono grandi quantità di grano speculino sul prezzo a danno della povera gente. Chiunque possiede più di cinque quintali di grano deve denunciare all'autorità, e indicare la quantità di grano che è necessario per il mantenimento della sua famiglia e del suo allevamento.

Inoltre qualsiasi venditore di cereali in quantità superiore ai cinque quintali deve essere denunciato all'autorità, e il prezzo di cinque quintali di grano deve essere indicato nella quantità di grano che è necessario per il mantenimento della sua famiglia e del suo allevamento.

Un'altra commissione nominata dalle autorità militari, e se i cereali suddetti non sono subito presi in consegna, il proprietario da cui sono stati comperati ne sarà responsabile.

LA REGINA ED I FERITI. In occasione del suo compleanno la regina Elena diede ieri l'altro una festa in teatro ai soldati convalescenti che si trovano negli ospedali di Roma. Alla risposta, assistevano la regina, il principe Umberto e le principesse Yolanda, Mafalda e Giovanna ed il duca di Oporto. La comitiva reale fu continuata, e si fece una dimostrazione di parte di coloro che erano in teatro.

La spedizione turco-tedesca contro l'Egitto, di cui si parlava qualche tempo fa, è stata sospesa a causa del rifiuto di Djalal pascia di mettersi in marcia verso il Canale di Suez senza avere un corpo di avanguardia di almeno 5,000 tedeschi scelti. Djalal è comandante delle forze turche in Asia Minore.

Intanto si sa che si sta lavorando attivamente alla ferrovia a sud di Gerusalemme, e si dice che la linea è giunta ora fino a 50 miglia dal Canale, boccione il lavoro è difficile la costruzione procede lentamente. Percio a Roma si crede che, se si avra, l'attacco contro il Canale non sarà iniziato prima della primavera, anche perché si hanno forti dubbi sulla lealtà degli arabi, tanto che le truppe siriane sono state mandate ai Dardanelli ed in Armenia perché si temeva che disertassero.

COP HALTS SUICIDE EFFORT

Louis Hunsicker, Out of Work, Rescued From Gas Fumes

Prompt first-aid treatment by Policeman Barford, of the 4th and York streets station, early today, saved the life of Louis Hunsicker, 50 years old, of 2148 North Reese street, after the man's two children had been driven from the house by the heavy fumes of escaping gas.

Barford broke open the door and dragged Hunsicker from the dining room, where he lay on the floor with a gas tube near his mouth. The man has a chance for recovery, it was said at the Stetson Hospital.

Hunsicker's children, Elizabeth, 17 years old, and John, 12 years old, were awakened by the odor of gas. Remembering that their father had told them that he "would be dead today," they attempted to go downstairs, but were driven back by the gas. They escaped through a window and summoned the policeman. Hunsicker, who is a widower, has been out of work since October.

SLAVS SWEEP ON IN BIG OFFENSIVE AGAINST TEUTONS

Austrian Loss Heavy in Vain Endeavor to Save
Bukowina Positions

GERMAN PRESS ANXIOUS

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Russians continue to hold the upper hand in the gigantic battle which has been raging for more than a week on the huge battle line stretching from Kovel to the northwestern corner of Bessarabia. Carpaty, on the Kovel-Sarny Railway, is firmly held by the Czar's forces, two Austrian attempts at its recapture having been repulsed.

Terrific losses to the Austrians in vain attempt to halt the Russian advance northeast of Czernowitz, the capital of the Bukowina, are reported in the official report issued tonight in Petrograd. In that region alone, the report says, the Austrians lost 1175 men and 20 officers.

By pushing their Carpaty gain through continued onslaughts the Russians also compel the Teutons to weaken their Bukowina lines and send reinforcements to the Volhynian theatre. Thus they are gaining a step toward their ultimate aim, the withdrawal of the Teutonic forces from the Rumanian border.

Berlin dispatches quoting German press comment on the new developments in the eastern theatre reveal a note of anxiety with regard to the strength and attacking power of the Czar's newly grouped and equipped forces. The foremost naval critic, Count von Reventlow, frankly admits that the Russian offensive if successful will bring both Greece and Rumania on the side of the Entente Powers. He concedes that the Russian army is well equipped and that the Czar has enormous reserves to draw on for the new drive.

TEUTONS LOST 60,000 MEN ON STRYPA, SLAVS DECLARE

PETROGRAD, Jan. 10.—In the two-week battle that culminated in the capture of Carpaty and the driving of all Austro-German forces from the east bank of the Strypa River the Teuton losses totaled at least 60,000 men, according to official estimates made here today. Official reports to the War Office state that the Russians have taken more than 20,000 prisoners and that twice that number of Austro-German soldiers have been killed or wounded.

During their successful operations between the Strypa and Strypa River the Russians have advanced 30 miles along a front of 60 miles. This was accomplished under severe weather conditions, but they are now improving and it is expected that the able to direct a devastating fire upon the enemy's trenches.

The railway town of Buczacz, on the west bank of the Strypa, is already being shelled by the Russian guns and has been set on fire in several places. The capture of this town will give the Czar's troops complete control of a railway line leading to the Dniester River and put in a dangerous position the Austro-German troops opposing the Russian advance northeast of Czernowitz.

AUSTRIANS NEAR ADRIATIC ON MONTENEGRO DRIVE

VIENNA, Jan. 10.—Austro-Hungarian troops in their campaign against the Montenegrins. An official report, issued by the War Office today, announces that fighting is in progress in the region of Cattaro. "Montenegrins offered resistance northeast of Berane," said the report, "but the Austro-Hungarians stormed the heights occupied by the Montenegrins and took one cannon. On the Tara there were skirmishes."

"On the Herzegovina frontier and in the Bocche di Cattaro district engagements against the Montenegrin troops are going on."

SLAVS QUIT ONSLAUGHT, VIENNA SAYS OFFICIALLY

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The Russians have abandoned their heavy onslaughts against the Austro-German lines in Volhynia, Galicia, and Bessarabia, at least temporarily, according to official statements from the German and Austrian War Offices today. The German War Office reported this afternoon the repulse of a strong Russian detachment near Belestany, but added: "Elsewhere there is no change in the general situation on the eastern front."

U. S. TO PROTEST AGAINST BRITISH TRADE BLOCKADE

President Drafts General
Note on American Policy
Regarding Neutral
Commerce

APPLIES TO ALL NATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Administration will make further concessions to Congress in its international policy. Satisfied that in view of the efforts made by Germany and Austria to meet this Government's views on submarine warfare, little further adjustment need be felt on that score, the President was today busily compiling an outline of a general trade policy.

It will apply to all countries but naturally will affect under existing circumstances only England and France. It marks, officials say, an earnest effort on the part of the President to meet the views of the Senatorial delegation led by Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, who have presented statistics to show that British illegality was strangling American trade.

The President also is expected to reply to Ambassador von Bernstorff's latest laudatory note without any further delay. State Department and embassy officials expect him to accept the suggested settlement. In principle it has been approved by Secretary Lansing. The only thing hanging fire is the phraseology of the note. As the document submitted by the Ambassador is informal, it can be changed if the President so desires without jeopardizing final settlement. And officials say that Germany has met this Government far more than half way in its contentions.

So far as the Persia sinking was concerned there have been no new developments. Ambassador Penfield still is waiting word from the Austrian Admiralty. But officials say that they now are convinced that the sinking of the liner with the loss of two American lives probably never will be fully explained. But that this incident of the war no longer is considered a serious menace to the United States is best indicated by the fact that on the part of the Administration leaders that no further effort will be made to gag Congress in discussing the international situation.

STRIKERS IN PITCHED BATTLE WITH POLICE

2000 in Mob That Attacks
Aluminum Plant at Niagara Falls

NAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Two thousand strikers and sympathizers attacked plant No. 1, of the Aluminum Company of America, today. Heavy calls for police reserves brought out several hundred men. Within a few minutes after their arrival a pitched battle was in progress, the strikers hurling stones and clubs at the officers. Drawing their pistols and sticks, the strikers fired into the air and began attacking the leaders of the mob. The rioters soon retreated. Many suffered cuts on the scalp.
