

LAKEWOOD LAUGHS
UNREDEEMED AFTER SUNDAY PREACHES

Wealthy Townfolk of New Jersey Winter Resort Fail to Be Impressed by "Billy's" Energetic Sermon

"MA" ADDRESSES THROUG

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 10.—"Billy" Stough came here to spend his regular holiday. Incidentally, he preached a sermon to an audience of 170 persons, composed of the townfolk and wealthy patrons of the hotels and villa colony.

Stough's first visit to a real, live winter resort. He made the most of his brief opportunity and sermonized upon "Hope."

In the crowd that filled the church were Mrs. Marjorie Jamison and a party of eight from the Laurel House; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald D. Davis, Colonel Archibald J. McClure and Mrs. McClure, Jay Gould, Jr., A. C. Soper, W. J. Taylor, W. W. Wilcox and many other notables.

A song service directed by George A. Brewster, one of Sunday's party, was under way when "Billy" and "Ma" entered quietly by a side door at the left of the pulpit.

"Billy" was in good form. He made his audience laugh when he said: "The President said to me today, 'Billy, I'll swap jobs with you.' I'd reply, 'Nothing doing, Woody.'"

Then he made the audience gasp and murmur when he said, "It's nothing where you spend today or tomorrow, but it is something whether in heaven or hell—for hell doesn't keep a halfway house."

For the most part the sermon was the same one preached by "Billy" Sunday in Pittsburgh, in Philadelphia, in Syracuse and elsewhere—and read by nearly all adherents of his work everywhere. Many of his hearers evinced familiarity with it.

"Billy" warmed up well toward the end of his sermon as he told about the man who drank himself from wealth to poverty, then resurrected his soul, came back again. He shoved back his big chair and leaped upon it, jumped down and mounted the pulpit rail, and across the platform, and with each move slammed his slank to higher gear. But he couldn't awaken his hearers more than a good-natured interest.

He closed shortly before noon and "Ma" Sunday took the pulpit. She talked prettily. But none came forward over the altar; only raised a hand for prayer, and "Billy" and "Ma" returned to the Laurel-in-the-Pines with Lakewood laughing but unredeemed.

REV. ISAAC WARD AIDS
SUNDAY IN TRENTON

Philadelphia Minister Taking Active Part in Campaign

The Rev. Isaac Ward, pastor of the Fourth Reformed Church of Philadelphia, is taking an active part in "Billy" Sunday's campaign here. Mr. Ward is in charge of men's work and should Sunday be called away to some distant city, such as occurred in Syracuse, when he went to Chicago for a brief interval, Mr. Ward would preach at the tabernacle.

Mr. Ward is conducting meetings in shops and factories here. Mr. Ward will also visit the police stations, the fire stations and the trolley barns where he will meet the men. In Syracuse Mr. Ward held meetings at the car barns from 1:30 to 2:30 a. m., after the men had quit work, and there were many converts.

Police Court Chronicles

Whoever Bob Campbell imbibes intemperately he becomes the enemy of all animals. The sight of a cat or dog is as insupportable to him. He is especially opposed to dogs under such circumstances. Unfortunately he seems to encounter more dogs on these occasions than at any other time.

Whether it is due to telepathy or something else no one knows, but at any rate the dogs seem to know that Bob is drunk when he is "intoxicated." They snap at him and frown ferociously when he approaches. Two dogs of defiant demeanor encountered Bob as he was rolling near Fairmount Square, at 4th street and Lehigh avenue. One was a pugacious dog and the other a sleepy looking spaniel of the frayed out variety.

"Ver-liss gittin' in the road to intoxicate me, ain't yer?" said Bob to the dogs. "Br-er-dog," replied the dogs. "Jeezawickspickel," growled Bob. By a sudden lurch he caught both by the tails and carried them down Lehigh avenue. Several women told Bob they would "intoxicate" the creatures, but as Bob was swinging the animals like Indian clubs they did not venture near.

Fireman O'Donnell, attracted by the growl of the dogs, asked their custodian what he meant. For reply Bob threw both dogs at the cop. The pug struck him in the nose and the other landed on his head. Two other dogs, which smelled the conflict, also became involved. O'Donnell recovered quickly and brought Campbell and the dogs to the 4th and York streets station.

Bob was so mad that he couldn't explain anything except to say that he could lick any bunch of dogs and cats in the northeast.

Magistrate Glenn informed him that most of the dogs in that section were peace-loving animals and the cops around shared with him. Bob declared that he would continue his crusade no matter what the law thought about it. Believing that the animal hater would reconsider his views if given a chance to cool off, the Judge allowed him to spend three months at "Holmesburg-on-the-Delaware," where the breezes blow kindly from the Jersey shore.

STOUGH CHALLENGED TO PROVE CHARGES

Atlantic City Police Chief Says He'll Take Revivalist on Raid Trip if He Names Place

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 10.—Evangelist Henry W. Stough will have to prove the existence of organized gambling in Atlantic City or virtually admit he was dealing with glittering generalities yesterday, when he told a "men only" crowd at the tabernacle shore authorities should be compelled to suppress games here.

Malcom B. Woodruff, chief of police, l'called' the evangelist this morning. "If Evangelist Stough will come down here with any responsible person and sign an affidavit charging the presence of gambling in any specific place I'll take him along with us while we raid the place. I do not say there is no gambling in Atlantic City, but I do say there is no 'organized' gambling of which we are aware. If Doctor Stough can supply specific information on that line we shall be indebted to him."

Christian Science Church officials here will answer Stough's attack upon their beliefs, made last night. Congregational officials today took up the matter with State representatives, Edward R. Donnelly, former city clerk, who is president of the large and growing church in Chelsea, will issue a statement today.

Not only the Christian Scientists, who today maintained Stough's attack upon Mrs. Mary Eddy, founder of the scientistic religion, was uncharitable and uncalled for, but Elks and local admirers of Pastor Russell are also camping on Stough's trail. Stough spoke scornfully of the practice of the Elks in holding an annual memorial service, and also belittled the practice of the fraternity in distributing thousands of dollars every year in benevolence.

He maintained Christian Scientists are trying to get away from the fact of sin, and said their religion is a "hideous form of agnosticism, seeking to rob Christ of Deity."

He called Pastor Russell a faker of the worst kind.

Mayor Riddle, who was so taken with Stough at their first meeting that he drew a $100 check for "campaign expenses," also is at a loss today to account for the evangelist's acrid arraignment of him yesterday. Stough said the Mayor's famous declaration that Atlantic City needed gamblers, chorus girls and prizefighters was twaddle, and the town must hold itself responsible if public opinion does not force the resort administration to repress gambling.

Pastoral supporters have advised Stough not to accept the Mayor's invitation to dine at his home some day this week, and they are distinctly opposed also to permitting the Mayor to speak from the tabernacle platform on the subject of "Hypocrites at Home."

Last night's crowd, while the largest of the campaign thus far, was also one of the chilliest, although composed very largely of church members. There was but little response when he prayed that the city might be made aflame for God and made to atone for what it has done.

PHILADELPHIAN SHOT
BY GIRL COMPANION

Mrs. Lillian Ogden Piper Then Kills Herself—Tragedy in Joliet, Ill.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 10.—A girl, known among church folks of Joliet as Miss Lillian Ogden Piper, fired a bullet into her brain today and died in the office of John R. Robart, a manufacturer, after she had wounded him. The young man had been seen much in her company lately. The girl left a note requesting that news of her death be sent to her father, William Ogden, of Richmond, Va. She was waiting in Robart's office when he arrived this morning.

"I'm through with you. I don't want to have anything to do with you," said the young manufacturer. Then he turned his back and began opening his mail.

The first letter was from a hardware store and showed that a revolver had been charged to him. As he glanced at the bill there was a shot. A revolver bullet tore into his neck. As he sprang to his feet the girl fired again, but the bullet went wild. Then she turned the revolver on herself. In her purse was the note she had written. It said:

"The wages of sin is death. I have been terribly wronged. Please notify my father, William Ogden, in Richmond, Va."

At the hospital Robart told his story. "My real name is John Ulrich," he said. "Six years ago I left my wife and four children and good business in West Philadelphia, Pa., to run away with this girl."

"She, too, was married. Her name was Mrs. Lillian Ogden Piper, and her father, in Richmond, Va., is a prominent man, of an old family."

Coming to Joliet and calling himself as Robart he prospered. The pretty young woman had her automobile, her home and her friends. Lately Robart had been showering attentions upon another woman.

Mrs. Piper bought a revolver. It was charged to Robart—as her husband. Today she went to his office to force a choice.

BAPTIST MINISTERS URGED TO PUSH CHURCH PROGRAM

200,000 Converts Yearly and $6,000,000 Contributions Are Good

According to Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, Boston, who was the principal speaker at today's Baptist Ministers' Conference, held in the First Baptist Church, 17th and Sansom streets, the Baptist denomination has the greatest opportunity for advancement in its history. He plans for a countrywide, concerted effort in fostering and aiding the five-year program, which aims at obtaining 200,000 new converts per year and $6,000,000 per year for the promulgation of Baptist doctrine throughout the world.

Doctor Johnson said that if every member of the Baptist Church would contribute the value of two postage stamps per week beyond the sum now contributed from all sources the needed $6,000,000 would be raised. He said also that as very few ministers or laymen now make any effort at personal evangelism, despite the fact that there are an average of $5,000 Baptist converts in the United States yearly, a slight personal effort upon the part of the 1,250,000 church members in this country would easily produce the goal for converts.

Doctor Johnson urged the ministers in Philadelphia to make these facts clear from their pulpits to the end that Baptist laymen might understand thoroughly the exceptional opportunity the five-year program offers for making their church the most powerful numerically of all Protestant denominations in the United States.

About 125 ministers and church-workers were present.
