Unionist Chief Opposes Laborites' Resolution to Reject Conscription

REDMOND PLEDGES IRISH

Unexpected Announcement That Nationalists Will Not Oppose Compulsion Act

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Rejection of the Government's conscription bill was moved in the House of Commons this afternoon by J. Anderson, Independent Laborite.

Amid wild cheers Will Thomas, Labor leader and general secretary of the National Union of Glass Workers and General Laborers, declared that Anderson did not represent the views of the Labor party in the House.

John Redmond, Irish leader, announced in the House this afternoon that Irish opposition to the Government's conscription bill has been withdrawn.

The Government's decision to open in Commons this afternoon in defense of the conscription bill.

First Minister of Munitions David Lloyd-George, virtual leader of the Government, will answer the criticisms of Labor advocates.

The conscription measure came up for a second reading today, with the understanding that debate would continue for two days, the vote being taken either tomorrow night or Thursday.

DOCTOR OTT'S BEQUEST TO PENN EXPLAINED

Late Professor in Medico-Chi Foresaw Merger With His Alma Mater

Dr. Isaac Ott, who for 29 years before his death in Easton on last New Year's Day was a professor of physiology at Medico-Chirurgical College, probably foresaw the consummation of the proposed merger between the college of his teaching and his alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania.

Even after the merger of the two institutions comes off there will be no conflict between the two chairs of physiology, for the one at Medico-Chi is for teaching, while the one to be established at Penn expressly provides that it is for original research and that its occupant must not teach while holding it.

There is a provision that the occupant may study here or abroad, as the trustees see fit to allow, and they have the privilege of replacing whoever is chosen provided nothing new on the subject of physiology is discovered within one year.

Dr. Seneca Egbert, dean of Medico-Chi, said today that Doctor Ott had always been very liberal during his lifetime, and had done a great deal for Medico-Chi, as a teacher and a donor.

HIS FAMILY STARVING, HURLS BRICK THROUGH GEM-LADEN WINDOW

Desperate Man Caught in Effort to Obtain Jewels Valued at $300,000 to Sell for Bread

FORTUNE WITHIN REACH

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Thomas Woods, 25 years old, of 21 East 90th street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempted burglary. He was out of work and desperate because his wife and two children are ill and starving.

According to the police, he hurled a brick through a window in the jewelry store of Lambert Brothers, 3d avenue and 58th street. In the window was displayed more than $50,000 worth of watches and diamonds.

Captain J. A. Jackson, of the United States Coast Guard Service, frustrated the robbery. The captain told the police he saw the man hurl the brick through the window and grabbed him. A. B. Lambert, of the jewelry firm, noticed the scuffle. He and clerks ran out and held the man until Policeman Stoffer arrived.

The point where the brick was hurled through the window is just above an iron grating. The hole was large enough to let out a tray of 18 diamond pins worth about $500.

Woods was questioned in the store by Lambert. He said he had been a brewer in the employ of the Interborough, but lost his position. His wife and two children were ill in bed and there was nothing to eat in the house, he said.

Robert Lissauer, another member of the firm, accompanied Woods to the police station. He requested the police investigate the man's story, and a detective verified it.

The detective found Mrs. Woods ill in bed. The children, Thomas, 13 months old, and Katherine, three years old—were in bed with the mother. Mrs. Woods said her husband had worked in the Interborough machine shop seven years. He was laid off six months ago.

The three rooms the family occupies are given them for janitor work the husband does in the building. Yesterday Mrs. Woods became so ill her husband went to the Union Settlement to get a nurse. He came back without help. He left his home again saying he was going out to look for work.

When told her husband had been arrested Mrs. Woods asked the detective to be lenient.

Lissauer is expected to appear as complainant against Woods when he is arraigned in the Yorkville Court this morning.

The attempted robbery is the second at the Lambert Brothers' store. In 1887 two robbers put a wedge through a door and escaped with a tray of diamonds. Bernard Tucker, a clerk at that time, who still is employed at the store, was present yesterday and assisted in holding Woods.

GEORGE T. ATKINSON

MAYOR KEEPS TWO MORE 'CRACKERJACKS'

Shows Appreciation by Retaining Assistant Transit Director Atkinson and Engineer Quimby

The reappointment by Mayor Smith of Assistant Transit Director George T. Atkinson and Chief Engineer Henry H. Quimby, of the same department, to their respective positions under the new administration, is being pointed to by transit supporters today as proof that there were more "crackerjacks" in the Blankensburg regime than indicated in the newspaper advertisement recently published by Morris L. Cooke, former Director of the Department of Public Works.

The newspaper advertisement called attention to the fact that there were several "crackerjacks" in the Department of Public Works who would be valuable to any large firm. The retention of the two men in the Transit Department, the friends of Mayor Smith say, is proof that he, too, recognizes "crackerjacks" and will keep them in office if possible irrespective of politics.

Assistant Director Atkinson is a transportation expert of recognized ability. He has been identified with the plans for rapid transit development in Philadelphia for more than three years. He was one of the principals in conducting the investigation of this city's transit requirements in 1912, prior to the creation of the Department of City Transit. It was the ability displayed by Mr. Atkinson that led to his appointment as assistant 3d former Director Taylor. Mr. Atkinson lives at the Bartram.

HELD AS ABDUCTORS

West Chester Men Charged With Motoring Away With Girl

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 11.—Josef Di Francesco and Garman Di Francesco, two Italian residents of Tredyffrin township, were held by Justice of Peace R. J. Patrick last evening for trial at court on the charge of abducting Rosie Assetta, the 17-year-old daughter of Frank Assetta, of Devault.

It was testified that the two men entered the girl to take a ride in a motor and drove her to an Italian settlement near Glen Mills, where she was taken into a house. Later she escaped and told her story to the authorities. The arrest of the two men followed.

Firemen get paint bath. Smoke Makes Work Difficult for Them at Iron Works Blaze

Firemen, who were called to fight flames which started today in the painting and oil shop of the Belmont Iron Works, 23d street and Washington avenue, were hampered by thick, dense smoke, and put out the flames at the cost of many of their rubber coats, which were splashed with paint.

The fire, which was confined to one building, caused a loss of $1500. It is thought by the police that it was caused by a workman, who, while looking for a paint brush with a lighted match, ignited the fumes of gasoline.

TONE—above all, TONE!

TENDER and soft or clear and ringing, breathing the rich sweetness of the 'cello or thundering out an orchestral passage in all its tremendous power—the tone of Columbia Records is always flawlessly true.

Every quality of voice and instrument is brought out with force and clearness—perfectly preserved and superbly expressed, unmistakable even in the harmonious confusion of orchestral music. To hear Columbia Records played on the Columbia Grafonola—or on any other instrument—is a revelation of what tone-perfection can be.

Ask the nearest Columbia dealer to play your favorite orchestral selections. Note how you can listen for the recurrence of the theme—how beautifully distinct is the thread of harmony carried by each individual instrument. Compare this with the best rendering of the same composition you have heard by an actual symphony orchestra—and you will know how truly Columbia Records are called "The Mirror of Music."

You'll have to apply the inductive method in your study of Reduction Sales

For Perry's is different, root, branch, and berries, from any other sale.

You'll not find between our regular and our reduced prices any very startling disparity, for the reason that we mark our regular prices on costs—and sell the goods all season at those prices!

The values under our regular prices are as solid as central real estate, and the prices themselves are as immutable as the laws of the Medes and Persians; wherefore, the savings shown by our reductions are as dependable as William Penn's word to the Red Man.

If you don't jump into the breach made by the break in our prices today, you may find the quarry gone when you DO go after it!
