Miss Eleanor De Graeff Cuyler Will Be Given a Luncheon and a Dinner Dance Today-Miss Edith Gracie of Washington Is Given Dance

ELEANOR CUYLER will be a much-reted Jobutante today. A luncheon Hampton Barnes, Mrs. Daniel M. Barat the Rabbit, at which her sister, Mrs. Cap Morris, will be hostess, will start Constance R. Beale, Mrs. Alexander the festivities, and in the evening the Williams Biddle, Miss Mariamne Bid-Bos Montgomerys are giving a dinner- die, Mrs. R. H. Bayard Bowle, Mrs. sance for her. Eleanor is certainly a Henry Williams Biddle, Mrs. Samuel T. stanner, both for looks and gowns. She Bodine, Mrs. Edward Browning, Mrs. very tall and stately, and her head Alexander Brown, Mrs. Mason Campparticularly well set on her shoul- bell, Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, Mrs. ders. She gives one the impression of Robert K. Cassatt, Mrs. Henry C. Chapbeing so well bred, and has such ease man, Mrs. Henry B. Coxe, Mrs. T. Deand charm of manner. I think she is Witt Cuyler, Miss Samuel Chew, Mrs. very much like her mother, who has also a very stately beauty. She was, you know, Miss Frances Lewis, a sister of Mrs. Edward F. Beale, Mrs. S. ton Downs, Mrs. George W. C. Drexel, Pemberton Hutchinson, Mrs. J. Ogden Hoffman and Mrs. William W. Mont-They are the daughters of romery. the late John T. Lewis and first cousins of Mr. John T. Lewis, Jr., Dr. Morris Lewis, Mr. Saunders Lewis and Mrs. George G. Meade.

The dinner-dance to be given at the Montgomerys' will be rather a small affair, but very smart, and no end of fan. Mrs. Montgomery was Hope Tyler. and is without doubt one of the most charming of the younger matrons; Bob is Eleanor's cousin. The dance will be given at their country place, Androsen, Villanova, a wonderful house they built in recent years, which is ideally fitted for home entertaining.

I hear Beth Scott and Gertrude Pancoast are both visiting up in Boston. Those two are perfectly inseparable, and so, when one goes to Boston, the other decided to accept an oft-repeated invite and go, too. They took their skates with them, and they are going to several parties, dancing and skating

Well, I can't say I am at all surprised about Mary Alice Clay and Louis Borle having finally announced their engagement, for it was a very evident fact, and I have been expecting it for more than a year. It is a decidedly nice engagement. I don't know any girl who is more popular than Mary Alice Clay. She is very pretty, with an exceedingly fai, complexion and titian hair, by the way, Louis' locks are also of that rare hue. Mary Alice came out two years ago at a large ten. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Clay, of 1229 Spruce street. Louis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Louis Borle, Jr., and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Beauveau Borie. His mother was Miss Helen Sewell, daughter of the late General Sewell, and is one of the handsomest matrons in Philadelphia society.

All roads led to the Ritz last night and branched off at that section toward the two big attractions of the evening, the party given by Mrs. Frank Clyde and that of Yale Dolan The Dolan party was delightfully feative, and was, of course, attended by the young marned couples, debutantes being concuously absent. The ballroom and restaurant were gaily banked with paims and ferns and trailing smilax, and at the innumerable small tables, seating parties of eight and six, there were tall, slender vases, holding snapdragons, with smilax and snapdragons wreathed about the soft lights, which cast a golden glow.

"When the Elephant Walks Around, and the Band . . ."

"The good old days," you say. Take care, now. Don't speak as tho' they were forever lost and gone. There are signs that the tented arena is preparing to secure its share of these piping times of prosperity. So says George Hartzell, "The Millionaire Clown," and surely his 35 lively years of circus life entitle him to speak. The death of the head of the Ringling Shows has stirred his memories of former days in the sawdust ring, and, in tomorrow's Public Ledger, he writes of them interestingly.

Mrs. Howard Read, Miss Sue Read, Miss Elizabeth Read and Miss Alloe Statzell are enjoying a week's stay at Atlantic City. Notices for the Society page will be accepted and printed in the Evening Ledger, but all such notices must be written on one side of the paper, must be signed in full, with full address, and when possible telephone number must be else.
