We dined at a long table in a stone shed. The shed was new. It had been built next to the railroad station for a dining room for General Baillaud's staff...

PROUD OF WORK

But only one end of the room caved in, so we were able to go on with our dinner. Bardat, an old man from Paris, whose name and face are often on the billboards there, and who looks like Raymond Hitchcock, spoke funny pieces...

CHATS WITH PRIVATES

It isn't often in this war that a newspaper man finds the opportunity to sit in a campfire in the midst of tents and talk with ordinary soldiers...

There were lights in many of the tents, though it was after 11 o'clock. I heard the sounds of a poker game coming from one tent. In a brightly lighted automobile ambulance I discovered another poker game under way...

Most of the talk I heard was happy talk, banter and joking. This was not to be wondered at. These men had been fighting in mud and snow against odds for several weeks in a position which was no longer of use to the allied cause...

SYMPATHY FOR TIRED

LOOKING PIG COSTS $19

John Amatis, of Richmond, Regrets Bargain With John Kaslovsky

Sympathy for a tired looking pig cost John Amatis, of 2324 Richmond street, $19. Amatis bought two bulky pigs from John Kaslovsky, a farmer living in the Neck. He hauled the porkers all the way to the Richmond street address, and after giving them a cursory glance, Amatis paid Kaslovsky $35 for them, he said...

But shortly after the departure of Kaslovsky, Amatis noticed that both pigs looked tired, and one of them was especially wabby. Furthermore, one of the animals appeared to be cross-eyed and walked opposite to the way he looked. This puzzled Amatis, who concluded that the pig was suffering from aphasia or some weird ailment. It is known that the pork of eccentric pigs cannot be eaten upon. Therefore, Amatis informed Chief Martine of the Department of Meat Inspection. He discovered that both pigs were decidedly uncertain and ordered them killed...

Kaslovsky was arrested and brought before Magistrate Collins. The testimony of the men who figured in the pig transaction was rather complicated. So, by way of making a compromise, the Judge ordered Kaslovsky to return the price of one pig, $18, to Amatis. Kaslovsky was also fined $2.50 to pay the costs.

Other defendants, who were fined $5 and costs for various violations of the food laws, were Joseph Spinoza, of 2509 North 5th street; B. Lasowski, 2039 South 7th street; Pasquale Ingimeto, 820 Christian street; Sophia Sandler, 1715 Reed street; John Klar, 191 Reed street; M. Dorfman, 1223 South 17th street; Hyman Blum, of 142 South street, one of the batch of 42 paroled by Judge Brown, in the Municipal Court, two weeks ago, objected so strenuously to a $5 fine that Magistrate Collins raised it to $20.

"This does not include," said Senator Cummins, "the contracts of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company for shrapnel shells or the du Pont Powder Company for explosives, or the Electric Storage Battery Company or the General Chemical Company, or the General Motors Company, or the Lackawanna Steel Company, all of which are immense concerns and have been largely engaged in the same general business..."

Senator Cummins urged support for his resolution directing the President to appoint a commission of five Senators to investigate the feasibility of Government manufacture of all war munitions. He explained that he was strongly in favor of adequate preparedness, but declared that it ought to be made impossible for any one to make money out of war...

"The men who die and the women who mourn in war have the God-given right to a public sentiment untouched and unmodified by those whose coffers are filled with the bloody gold of traffic in war," declared Senator Cummins. "I agree that war may come, but if it comes it must be the result of calm, dispassionate and loyal purpose to meet the awful scourge, because there is no other way of defending our civilization, our institutions and our honor..."
