"AL" SHIELDS, NOTED LAWYER, DIES AFTER TWO MONTHS' ILLNESS

Continued from Page One called to represent one of the defendants in the State Capitol scandal.

Mr. Shields was hailed as "chief" not only by lawyers, but by Judges as well, on account of his wide range of legal knowledge and great fighting ability.

That Mr. Shields had varied tastes is shown by his beautiful art collection which was gathered from many art...

BORN SON OF FARMER. Albert Steppay Letchworth Shields was born near Coatesville, Chester County, Pa., September 27, 1850.

He was a man of kindly disposition, and quietly helped many over the stony road of poverty in the city after a suit.

SECURED $25,000 FOR BOY. To Mr. Shields goes also the honor of procuring for a client the largest verdict for personal injuries ever returned in the State courts.

He also successfully defended Adolph Seegal, of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, in the celebrated "Sugar Trust" suit, securing an acquittal for his client.

Mr. Shields was one of the counsel in the suit of D. J. McNeel and Co., contractors, against the city in 1912, against Mayor Weaver annulling the contracts for the filtration plant.

He was also a member of the Pennsylvania City Committee, chairmanship in 1881-82 and the office of delegate to State and national conventions.

Mr. Shields was a member of the Philadelphia Bar Association, and was a member of the Philadelphia Bar Association, and was a member of the Philadelphia Bar Association.

"COME KISS PONTIUS," RIDDLE TELLS WIFE

Continued from Page One of us and so much had in the heat of us that it little behavior," etc.

"Who on's last night a woman was in my house, a woman so poor that under her coat she had on only a chemise, she went on."

The Mayor stopped—he was sweating—and set himself to think up one of his stock of epigrams. He brought forth this:

"You know," he said, "these people back of this campaign remind me of the Mr. Hennessey described by Mr. Dooley."

"Now, as for Stough, I'm not going to say whether or not he even means well, but I only make it as emphatic as I please when I assert that he isn't a second Christ."

"Why, then, Mr. Mayor," he was asked, "do you always let yourself be pictured as just the man he calls you—the wickedest man in Atlantic City?"

"That's right," the Mayor returned; "that's just what I am—the wickedest man in Atlantic City!"

"He's truly valiant that can wisely suffer the worst man can say,"

"I like," he continued, "that part of 'The Scarlet Letter' where it says, 'Be true, be true, if you have a falling, let the world know it, if you have no falling, let you know of, assume that you have one in order that the world may size you up for worse than you are.'"

About that time Mayor Riddle decided he had talked enough about Mr. Stough and kindred topics.

Another story told of Mr. Shields' warm-heartedness is about a Russian woman, a newcomer in this country, accused of assault and battery, whose release he secured by securing the watch to the jury.

At a club dinner the fiasco was attempted, but the "conspirators" were horrified to see Nunez break down and weep with emotion under the fire of Mr. Shields' oratorical powers.

Another case which was argued five times before the United States Supreme Court, was that of United States vs. Keck, a famous smuggling case.

In the field of will litigation Mr. Shields excelled. He took part in the will case of Peter Culen, the Jacob Mahr estate, the William M. Sinker estate and the Wister will case.

The celebrated school directors case of 1902, which went to the Supreme Court, found Mr. Shields defending Thomas F. G. Seiva, accused of bribery and extortion.

He was the representative of Governor Tener, the late Mayor Ferguson and the former Mayor Smith in political libel suits and also successfully defended a libel suit against a newspaper brought by Thomas Ordway.
