NANCY WYNNE ATTENDS THE OPERA AND VARIOUS THINGS

Mrs. J. Ogden Hoffman Will Entertain at the Theatre on February 2 in Honor of Miss Eleanor de Graeff Cuyler-Other Affairs

THE theatre party which Mrs. Og-den Hoffman will give for Eleanor den will be a delightful affair. Mrs. covier will be a delightful affair. Mrs. Hoffman, you know, is a sister of Mrs. De Witt Cuyler. She was Miss Helen Lewis, a daughter of the late John T. Lewis, and her other sisters are Mrs. Pemberton Hutchinson, Mrs. W. W. Montgomery and Mrs. Edward F. Beale. Mrs. Hoffman leads rather a retired life at her beautiful home, Ithan Derlwyn, in Radnor, since the tragic death of her son Lewis some years ago, when he was killed, together with his friend, Arthur Ryerson, in an automobile accident. Mrs. Hoffman has never loved society very much, but she has always given some affair for her nieces, of whom she has many. Last year it was for Almee Hutchinson and Hope Beale, the latter now Mrs. Oliver Eaton Cromwell, and on various other occasions she has entertained for her other nieces, who include Mrs. Burton Chance, who was Maria Beale, known among her friends as Rydie Beale: Mrs. Arthur Morton Wilson, who was Emily Beale; Agnes Hutchinson who by the way, will be married on Saturday, of this week, to George Whitney Martin, of New York; Mrs. Samuel A. Crozer, who was Helena Benlet Miss Mary Cuylor, Miss Frances Cuyler, Mrs. Caspar Wister Morris, Helen Cuyler that was, Miss Mary Montgomery, and Bertha and Margaret Montgomery, so there are a goodly array. If I am not mistaken, Eleanor Cuyler is the youngest of all the cousins. At the party on Wednesday of this week the guests will be Aimee Hutchinson, Elizabeth Griffiths, Eleanor Pepper, Molly Thayer, Charlotte Cheston, Alfreda Lewis, Sarah Myers, Margaretta Myers, Mariana Gowen, Edward Biddle, Charlie Biddle, Edward Law, Joe Thayer, Ned Buckley, Dick Tilghman, Frank Bohlen, Jr., Ned Page, Joe Ewing and Jack Thayer. There will be a supper at the Ritz

There was certainly the loveliest set of children yesterday afternoon in the Clover Room, at the Bellevue, when the Misses Mixter gave their cunning exhibition of "Cinderella," with tiny exhibition of "Cinderella," with tiny doll marionettes; when Mary Garden, day for a visit of four weeks. as the Prince, fainted with sorrow at the loss of Cinderella, and Gaby Deslys, in her diamond frock and tall hat of white goura, did her famous glide across the stage. The dolla did every conceivable thing, Rosina Galli danced, two dolls skated, a clown performed and a bear stood bravely on his head. The children were enchanted, and laughed and clapped. It was a pretty sight-all the kiddles in their white frocks, with pink-and-blue ribbons on their curly heads. It was a short performance, so there were many very tiny tots there, scated on their mothers' and nurses' laps. It was al-after the theatre.

"La Boheme." I have never seen a more enthusiastic audience nor a more linson, Mrs. E. H. The grand tier was brilliant beyond expression with Its smartly gowned and jeweled women. Mrs. Paul Denckla Mills wore a gorgeous necklace of diamonds. She has an exceptionally charming manner, I think. Susie Ingersoll wore quite the lovellest frock I saw. The upper part of the bodice was fashioned of creamy lace, and there was a wide Watteau plait of pale blue silk, embroidered in allver fastened at the shoulders. The skirt was made with wide puffs over the hips, and the shade of blue combined with cream lace was most hecoming to Susie's fair complexion. Mrs. Alexander Van Rennselaer was handsomely gowned in old rose velvet, and Mrs. Tom McKean wore dark blue chiffon embroldered in silver.

Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge gave a luncheon of 12 covers at Meadow Lodge, Bryn Mawr, yesterday, Among the guests were Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. William Struthers Eillis, Mrs. Horace Mrs. Robert E. # CAPACITY HOUSE WELCOMES BOHEME

Scotti Sings on His Fiftieth Birthday in Splendid Voice

It is impossible to overestimate the en-thusing which the Metropolitan's per-formance of Puccini's "La Boheme" evoked at the Opera House last night. The crowd which came to bear Carues, Paccial, Scotti, Italian music or Boheme (or all put together) filled every seat in the house, and there was nearly 200 standees, so that perinaps 4000 persons beard the work. Conservatively, it is estimated that half as many again were Many went from the opera to the Ritz-Carlton, where the James Francis fullivans gave a supper and dance for Sarah Penrose and Bessle Downs. The ballroom was elaborately decorated with paims and blossoming plants and Apring flowers were used on the tables. Mrs. Penrose, Mrs. Downs and Mrs. James Clews, the latter Mrs. Sullivan's sister, received the guests with the hostess. Mrs. Sullivan wore an exquisite gown of white satin, Chinese lace and silver cloth.

Our wee debs are gay little things. are they not? But sometimes galety goes rather far. What do you think the young things did at a recent affair? "I sold my other car through advertising it in the classified columns of the PUBLIC LEDGER."

66 KNEW that the quickest and easiest way to sell or exchange an automobile was to focus my selling efforts upon the possible market en masse."

"And the best way to do this is by advertising in the classified columns of the Public Ledger. A recent investigation proved that the Public Ledger reaches 70 per cent. of the automobile owners of this cityand the largest number of men who can afford a machine."

The medium that reaches the largest number of interested prospects with the least waste circulation is the most economical-and the most efficient salesaid.
