JAPAN GETTING CROCKERY TRADE OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

The Japanese are capturing a great deal of the trade that formerly went to Austria and Germany. They are clever imitators, but they adhere to their own artistic style of decoration and do not try to imitate the designs of other countries. All their goods are hand painted, while the German and Austrian have the designs and colors on their ware transferred by decalcomanie, which is often helped out with hand decoration. I ampreced to the control of the opinion that Japan will strongly of the opinion that Japan will hold this trade when the war is over, "In glassware we only handle domestic

HOSIERY OUTLOOK CHAOTIC.

According to G. J. Healey, who in this city represents Winship Boit & Co., formerly Lord & Taylor, manufacturers of hoslery, the prevailing colors in hoslery this summer will be all the light shades, such as "sweater-rose," "turquoise,"
"American champagne," etc. Stripes will also be largely worn, one house having placed an order for 15,000 dozen.

Mr. Healey says that the outlook in the hosiery business is so chaotic, both as regards materials and dyes, that 60 per cent of the hosiery manufacturers in this country will not take any further some of them cancelling orders already booked.

The colors most difficult to obtain are navy blue, yellows, greens, tans and good

"As a matter of fact, there are no goods coming from Germany, and Augria today," said J. G. A. Fisher, of pigher. Bruce & Co., Importers and wholesalers of china, ercockery and glassware, 22 Market street. "We are getting goods from England and France, but they are subject to vexatious delays on account of the scarcity of steamships to bring them over.

"Only some factories in England and France can take and execute orders. Some are closed down, or being utilized for sar purposes. At least one in France is used as a hospital, and this may be the case with others.

"There has been quite an increase in present looks of materials increased anywhere from 17 to 1800 per cent. Mr. Healey sees nothing ahead but an increase in the present high prices of hosiery.

"What is known as the "split-foot," said Mr. Healey, "is out of the market."

This is a stocking—usually black—with the foot white, worn by people who have an aversion to dyed stockings touching their feet.

"Silk," he continued, "is the principal material entering into the manufacture of hoslery today. Fibre is largely used, and looks a good deal like silk.
"There is a pair of stockings," said he, indicating what looked like a pair of light blue silk hose, "made out of woodpulp and biotting wares and the woodpulp and biotting wares and pulp and blotting paper, and they will give excellent wear.

"Business in hosiery was never better," said Mr. Healey. "My only trouble is getting the goods to fill the orders."

ITALIAN CHAMPAGNE.

A local wine merchant is conducting an advertising campaign to market an Italian champagne. Necessity is the mother of invention and substitution. French champagnes and the Italian wines are said to be equally good and at present much lower in price. Several local hotels are also featuring an Italian sparkling Burgundy, which sells for just half the price of the French.

WHY RECORDS ARE SCARCE. The manager of one of the largest re tail talking-machine agencies in this city was naked why records of popular hits from current comic operus and musical comedies were not obtainable until after the shows ceased to be popular? "Because," he said, "the producer holds tight to his rights, realizing that the talking machine and the movies are his strongest competitors. People go to these shows to hear the hits, and if they can get them at home they won't go to the theatre."

HIGH PRICES FOR LINGERIE. A recently opened shop devoted to the sale of exclusive lingerie has been so successful that it was compelled to double its sales force. Dainty conceits now bear the spirit of Paris, but in execution they are the handwork of America.

"Women are paying prices for lingeric today that would have outfitted my lady of of from bend to foot." said a mean
