NANCY WYNNE GOSSIPS A BIT ABOUT MANY SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Dr. and Mrs. Louis Olrey Lusson Will Introduce Their Daughter This Afternoon at a Large Dansant at the Bellevue-Stratford

A DELIGHTFUL tea will be given home. 2009 Pine street. No cards have this afternoon at the Bellevie-been sent out. Stratford by Dr. and Mrs. Louis Olrey Lusson to introduce their daughter, Lucile, who is a most attractive debutante. The affair will be in the form of a dansant and will be followed by a dinner and dance for the receiving party and additional men guests. The girls who will receive with Lucile are Elizabeth and Grace Brewster, Josephine Foster, Mary Cerboni, Katherine and Martha Whitmer, Esther Bochman, Agnes Allen, Agnes Smythe, Mary Dercum, Claire Spenser, Anlta and Estelle Sanders, Edith Gracie of Washington; Mary Homer Belt, of Warrenton, Va.; Sophy and Margaretta Bispham and Marjorie Edwards.

Wilmington is about to enter into the general round of fun, and a leap year dance has been arranged for Eleanor Pyle, to be held in the Country Club on February 26, which will be extremely unique in its reversal of the usual and conventional forms. Instead of patronesses, there will be patrons, and these will be, if you please, Horace Lindsey, Tilghman Johnston, David Ranken, Morton Harvey, Eugene du Pont, Robert Brokaw and Felix du Pont. From all I have heard of leap year parties, dear help the men who have been selfish about dancing at former affairs and have stood around and left the girls with their chaperons. It will take great strength of character on the part of the small ladies at the forth coming dance if they do not "get back at them," so to speak.

Poor Mrs. Penn Smith has had her hands full with two daughters ill in separate places at the same time. Mrs. Alec Brown has been laid up at the Jefferson for some little time, where she had a slight operation for a tooth, I understand, and Kitty has been ill for several weeks at the Ritz-Carlton, with a nurse in attendance. They have wanted her to go to the Jefferson also; but as she is completely run down and tired out, she objects to a hospital, as it is "so depressing." Mrs. Penn Smith is living at Castlefin, the Browns' country home, and taking care of the children, and is incidentally sending, fresh eggs from her own farm to both daughters. Mrs. Brown has recovered sufficiently to return home and, if I am not mistaken, will leave today for

It does seem too bad that when a man is to keep a dinner engagement he should go to sleep on the train and go right by the station. That is just what happened the other night. Of course, he took the last train that weedd get him to the house in time for 7 o'clock dinner, so we were all kept waiting for a half-hour till a down train came along that could bring him back. If he isn't careful I am afraid he will wake up some day and find himself in New York when he wanted to get off a. Wayne Junction, as I believe going by stations is quite a habit-and the family never becomes alarmed any more when he does not appear, for they know he is peacefuly slumbering on his way to some unknown shore. reception given by the management of the University Museum last Saturday evening, when the Oriental art exhibition was first seen was unexpectedly and gratifyingly large, in spite of the severe weather, there have been so many regrets expressed by those invited who could not come and so many requests that another occasion of the same kind be provided, that the mu-seum managers have finally agreed to hold another reception next Saturday evening. ent on that occasion.

Since the opening of the exhibition the attendance has been very large and trom all classes of persons. Many of the art experts and the cultured people of New York have visited the museum, and all are loud in their praises of the new hall and its contents, which have been arranged so admirably. This has been gratifying to the museum authorities, especially as the weather during the last week has not been particularly favorable.

It is noteworthy that, although the Mor in porcelains are the most prominent feature, in some respects the visitors seem quite as enthusiastic over the many other specimens of Chinese art which are on ex hibition. Many Orientals have visited the museum during the last week and have expressed astonishment that so many rare specimens have been collected. The re-ception next Saturday evening will begin 8:30, and the weather man has been particularly requested to make the me-teorological conditions favorable.
