

CARMEN SYLVA, QUEEN AND POETESS, IS DYING IN BUCHAREST PALACE

One of Best Loved Royal Women of Europe at Death's Door as Result of Complication of Diseases

MARRIED GERMAN PRINCE

CARMEN SYLVA

LONDON, March 2.—Carmen Sylva, the Dowager Queen of Rumania, and one of the best-loved royal women of Europe, is dying at her palace home in Bucharest, according to dispatches received here today.

Six physicians have pronounced her case hopeless according to the Bucharest dispatches transmitted through Berlin. An Amsterdam dispatch said the Poetess Queen was first attacked by bronchitis and is suffering from a complication of other diseases which makes her recovery, in view of her advanced age, extremely doubtful.

Carmen Sylva is the nom de plume assumed by the Dowager Queen Elizabeth of Rumania in her literary work, and the name by which she is known among her own people and throughout Europe.

ELECTION MANAGERS GUILTY

Three Enter Plea on Fraud Charges, Sentence Suspended

A plea of "nolo contendere" was entered today before Judge Carr, in Quarter Sessions Court, by Thomas Murphy, Albert Fox and Robert W. Simpson, judges, inspector and clerk of election, respectively, at the primary election in the 5th division of the 27th Ward in 1913, to election irregularities. Sentence was suspended.

Assistant District Attorney Maurer explained to the Court that, in his opinion, the irregularities happened as a result of a neglect of duty and not with any real intention to defraud. According to the indictments, 12 voters' names had been added to the returns of the officers.

Court Sustains Ex-Sheriff Acker

Former Sheriff A. Lincoln Acker was upheld in an action during his term as Sheriff today when the Superior Court reversed a decision of the Municipal Court in connection with the distribution made by him of property belonging to the firm of Donohue & Glendon, undertakers. A decision, sustaining Mr. Acker, was given by Judge Head.

PRETTY MODELS POUT AS CENSORS PASS ONLY FIVE FOR FASHION SHOW

Girls! Girls! Girls! Plenty of 'Em, but Walnut Street Association Is Very Particular in Its Architectural Specifications

Many a model young woman is not really a good model at all, when it comes to architectural attainments. That's why nearly two scores of model girls failed to meet the specifications today for the Fashion Show, which is to be held at the Bellevue-Stratford on March 22.

Some looked very stylish until they moved and then their fates were sealed. The judges made it very plain that it was just as essential to know how to walk as it was to wear the most fashionable dress.

$86,794,250 LOAN PLAN IN COUNCILS TODAY

Continued from Page One. Check, including the acquisition of land upon which to erect them; the construction of sidewalks, and for the reclamation of land to be used for the construction of wharves and docks.

REVISSED ESTIMATES

The transit estimate was reached after conferences between Mayor Smith and Director Twining, and the estimates are said to be based on revisions of the Taylor transit plans decided upon at these conferences.

Appropriations for these sums are now in the hands of Councils Finance Committee and will be acted upon just as soon as the loan legislation is safely started on its journey.

PLANS FOR AVIATION SCHOOL

Next in importance to the loan legislation will be the passage of the bill leasing the city's property at Essington on the Delaware River to the Philadelphia School of Aviation, to be used for the next 10 years as a school for the training of aviators for emergency work for the Government in time of war.

A nominal tuition fee will be charged and the cost of the school will be borne by Philadelphians who have interested themselves in the plan to make this city an aviation center second to none in this country.

STRIKING HATMAKERS WANT UNIFORM WAGE

Stetson Men to Ask for U. G. I. Gas and No More Piece Work

The abolition of piece work and the standardization of the rate of remuneration are among the concessions which the striking soft-hat finishers of the John B. Stetson Company will ask of their employers.

They decided today that they would not return to work until the eight men who, they say, have been discharged from the factory for union activities, are reinstated.

The strikers are dissatisfied with their remuneration at the Stetson plant because they say that men who do an equal amount of work often receive as much as 25 per cent more.

Orders were given to the strikers to avoid making any trouble for the other workers and not to go near the Stetson plant. Nevertheless policemen are stationed outside the factory.

W. F. Green and his wife, Sarah, lose damages awarded for injuries received when she stepped on an alleged defective covering of a coal hole in Lombard street.

SUPERIOR COURT REVERSES THREE AWARDS OF DAMAGES

Opinions of Justices Mean Loss to Persons Who Were Injured

The Superior Court in decisions given out today reverses the judgment of lower courts in three damage cases, in each of which damages had been awarded to the plaintiff. Justice Head is the author of one of the opinions; the other two are by Justice Kephart.

John Randall loses his verdict for damages against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company for injuries received when a street car struck his team. The Superior Court ruled he was guilty of contributory negligence.

PHILADELPHIANS FACE JAIL IN SLUSH PROBE

Two More Brewers' Witnesses Refuse to Testify—Books Are Produced

PITTSBURGH, March 2.—This afternoon in the sixth contempt case to date, in the Federal Grand Jury probe of brewery activities, United States Attorney E. Lowry Humes asked Judge Thomson in the United States District Court to commit to jail A. W. Brockmeyer, of Philadelphia, secretary to Edwin A. Schmidt, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, and John J. McDermott, of New York, clerk to the Labor Committee of the United States Brewers' Association.

Their refusal to testify for fear of incriminating themselves was vigorously attacked by Humes as a subterfuge to shield others.

Eight packing cases, containing the 55 drawers of "confidential" files of the United States Brewers' Association, seized Tuesday on orders from Washington at the office of the association, 50 Union square, New York, were trucked into the office of United States Attorney Humes shortly before noon today.

These are the records the Government will offer, with other evidence, at final arguments in court tomorrow on the contempt proceedings against John P. Gardiner and E. A. Schmidt, of Philadelphia; Hugh F. Fox, of New York, and Gustav W. Lembeck, of Jersey City, to refuse testimony that all records of the United States and Pennsylvania Brewers' Association prior to January 1 last had been destroyed.

While the records were being brought in two young women attached to the office of the national association in New York were being examined before the Grand Jury. They were Miss Bernadette Tighe, of 211 West 107th street, New York city, chief clerk, and her sister, Miss Kathryn Tighe, filing clerk.

Today a new figure in the case, L. B. Schramm, first vice president and chairman of the national association in New York, was waiting in the corridors to answer a subpoena.

Charles F. Etils, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, again took up his stand in the corridors, but was not called before the Grand Jury.

J. M. Bracken, of Johnstown, president of the Cambria County Brewers' Association, reappeared this morning, accompanied by a newly subpoenaed officer of the association, F. A. Fletcher, of Johnstown, secretary-treasurer.
