NANCY WYNNE ANTICIPATES BRILLIANT MASQUE TONIGHT

The Annual Bal Masque Will Be Held Tonight in Horticultural Hall Under the Auspices of a Committee of Men and cut to attend the Bal Masque, the is making Philadelphia more and nore famous each year. I am told that is recent Masque of the Seven Allied Aris was pale in comparison to the which will be a part of tonight's performance. I feel sure that the manmment has seen to it that Miss Janet pichards et al. will not be admitted to Be revels this evening; for let me tell Miss Richards will not back down in her ideas on the subject of the recent pageant, and, though I question her iste, s Washingtonian criticising Philadelphia Society, and, by the way, that was a real faux pas, for it was not Philadelphia Society, not even all Philasephia Artists who took part. I agree with her that the performers had no mason to join in the dancing in the hallroom after the pageant that night, and should certainly have changed their estumes, or want of costumes, for ether garments before they took part with the general public in the dancing afterward. From all I know of the Bal Resque of Shrove Tuesday I think there will be really more worn than at the pageant; let us fervently hope so, at any rate, for the so-called costumes of the men on that occasion, and some of me women as well, especially those who were the flowers, were unspeakably immodest. Still I would rather say it myself than have a stranger do so. The ingeant itself was a beautiful spectacle, but it should have ended there.

Fancy gowns seem to break the barries and make some persons feel free to say and do things which they would not dream of doing on ordinary occasions.

There will be a number of dinners be fore the festivities at the Ritz, Bellerue and in many private homes, and guests from all over the country will attend. They will be here from New Tark, Washington, Baltimore, St. Louis, Boston, Providence and numerous other etties. The patronesses will be Mrs. George Dallas Dixon, Mrs. James Potter, Mrs. Ell K. Price, Mrs. Charles McMichael, Mrs. Norris Barratt, Mrs. Walter Douglas, Mrs. Harrison Smith, Mrs. Joseph Harrison, Mrs. Craig Bidde, Mrs. Robert Cassatt, Mrs. Henry Reed Hatfield, Mrs. Daniel Hutchinson. Mrs. Edward Hopkinson and Mrs. Rob art Large. Of course, the latter will not be able to attend, owing to her severe illness, but we are all so glad to know that she is recovering from the attack, and will soon be on the convalescent list.

The old dental hall, where the architectural students held their famous Bymatine Ball last night, was certainly one festive scene. Costumes included everything from Turkish ladies, archers, pirates, "piratesses," high priests and priestesses, and the thousand and one other picturesque costumes of the peried. The various loges held their "stunts" and the Van Pelt section outdid all in originality when they produced an Oriental dancer from a huge tox, which had been hanging in the air all evening. To the strains of snaky the student body, disguised with tom-meters and Mrs. Robert Martin Williams will entertain, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander toms, flutes, drums and violins, a debutante of the season, noted for her terpsichorean ability, whirled and gyrated about in front of Bob Carrere, who tried, in vain, to look properly disdainfal of her charms. Uytendale Baird led the grand march before supper and looked as charming as ever in a red and gold costume, studded with rhinestones and colored stones. The collation was served from large baskets, all of the guests having been requested to bring their own pillows to replace the chairs that would have been, of course, an anachronism. The color scheme of blue, green, gold and orange was carried out with everthanging lights thrown on from the balcony.

All roads will lead to Horticultural All roads will lead to Horticultural Hall tonight, when the world and Hall tonight, when the world and Hall tonight, when the world and the set world and Mrs. E. CAMP FIRE GIRLS APPEAR IN PLAYS

Delightful Entertainment Given in Bala-Cynwyd Auditorium for Baby-Saving Fund

A delightful entertainment was given last night at the Bala-Cynwyd Auditorium, Cynwyd, when the Camp Fire Girls, un-der the auspices of the Woman's Club of Cynwyd, presented "The Narrow Door" und "The Theft of Thistledown," with a musical program arranged by Mrs. Frederick C. Newbourg, Jr., for the benefit of the Baby Saving Fund. The plot of these pleasing little playlets, composed week in Pittsburgh, the pictures of which appeared in an issue of the Ladies' Home appeared in an issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, were furnished by that magazine to further the interest of Baby Saving Week. Mrs. Wilmer M. Wood coached both plays. "The Narrow Door," which symbolized the door of death through which so many little children pass be-cause the delicate threads of their lives have become broken by ill health, was beautifully portrayed by Miss Edith Mel-cheor as Hygein, Miss Evelyn Paxson as cheor as Hygeia, Miss Evelyn Paxson as Life, sitting by a spinning wheel weaving the threads of life; Miss Rhoda Armstrong as the Figure of Death, Miss Muriel Schoff as the child leader, Miss Beatrice Schoff, Miss Marian Paxson, Miss Harriet Getty, Miss Alice Getty, Miss Grace Right-ner, Miss Beatrice Ferreira, Miss Margaret Story, Miss Betty Miller and Miss Julia Millar. "The Theft of Thistledown" de-picted the story of a badly treated earth baby, carried to fairyland by Thistledown, who, because of her theft, was banished from the fairy world to earth, where she taught the parents to bring up their chil dren, while the earth baby was held by the fairies. Miss Jean Newbourg played the part of Thistledown, Miss Eleanor Gehmann was the Fairy Queen, Miss Anna Rightner the Nurse and the others in the play were Miss Virginia Getty, Miss Lois Caley, Miss Helen Slaymaker, Miss Char Catey, Miss Helen Shayinaker, Miss Char-lotte Donaldson, Miss Jeannette Parry, Miss Eleanor McChesney, Miss Julia Newswagner, Miss Nancy Madery and Miss Loulae Holcombe. The coatumes worn in both "The Narrow Door" and the "Thistledown" were fashioned on Grecian loss During the place of "Thistledown". lines, During the play of "Thistledown" Miss Rachel C. PHILOPATRIAN WAS HUGE SUCCESS

Many Guests Attend Annual Function Which Was Held in Bellevue-Stratford Ballroom

The Philopatrian ball, held last night in the ballroom of the Bellevue Stratford, was a great success. The daming was opened by a grand march, which was led by Mr, and Mrs. John P. Connelly and the Mayor and Mrs. Smith.

The ballroom was magnificently dec-orated with irailing vince, carnations and calla lilies, and the orchestra played back of a lattice of palms and vince on a raised stage. A second orchestra was stationed in the Clover Room and many of the guests danced in there. Many beautiful gowns were worn.

Mrs. John P. Connelly, who, with her husband, led the grand march, was beauti-fully gowned in a Callot model of white and silver brocade. The white bodics was entirely embroidered in rhinestones and silver. The skirt was finished at the bot-tom by a flource of wide silver lace.

Mrs. John A. Call wors a gown of chan-tilly ince, with an overskirt of while Georgette crepe. The bodice was of sil-yer lace and a black tuile sach gave the finishing touch. Mrs. Michael J. Slattery wore lvory moire brocade with panel inserts of sliver
