NAMES PLAN TO CURB EARLY FRUIT LOSSES

State Zoologist Warns Against Too Early Pruning of Trees

MARRISBURG, March 8.—Reports from ctions of the State tell of damage has been done to the fruit crop the the cold weather following the warm periods in which the peach have shown signs of growth. The is some instances have started and les are reaching the Department of Agriculture dally, as to methods to pre-yent a total less of the peach crop. Zoolo-sist H. A. Surface says:

"I have thought a great deal about the subject of winter freezing. If you notice it is the terminal buds that are more liable to start with the warm weather, and I believe that if a person has an orchard that is not too large, it will pay him bet-fer to wait until after the fitful weather of thawing and freezing of winter has hawing and freezing of winter has ed, and do the pruning then. He will able at that time to cut off any of the buds that have started, and a larger pro-portion of those left on the trees will be dormant buds than if he had pruned earlier in the winter."

TWINING PLAN MAY BE MADE PUBLIC TODAY

Developments in the transit fight during the last 24 hours, however, have made it certain that the Director's report will be promptly rejected and the city-wide demand for adoption of the complete Taylor plan with high-speed benefits for every section of the city will continue unabated until final action has been taken by Coun-

Mayor Smith said today that he had excused Director Twining from attending the regular weekly meeting of the Caborder that he could devote his enformal report. The Mayor added he would have nothing more to say on transit un-til he had the Twining report in full before him. He said he expected this to be ready late today.

While Director Twining has been bending every effort to complete his report and have it before the public today, the tranaft controversy has been rapidly assuming the form of a factional wrangle within the Republican Organization, with formal statements issued almost hourly to heighten the tension.

pite the motives which may have forth the statements, the results been that Senator Penrose now stands committed to fight for the complete Taylor plan, the Mayor has declared that the people can have the Taylor plan if they desire it, and Senator Vare is on would be done to any section of the city in the transit matter.

The political aspect of the transit sitby a statement from Senator Vare and a second statement from Mayor Smith, criti-clsing Senator Penrose for his interference, and denouncing the attempts to inect politics in the situation. Penrose similtaneously issued his third statement, but he avoided personalities.

City Solicitor Connelly formally denied hat he has given Mayor Smith an opinion declaring illegal the Twining change on the ground that the ordinance passed at the April election last year called for a subway from League Island to Olney avenue, on Broad street, and an elevated line to Frankford, from Front and Arch streets to Rhawn street.

Mr. Connelly, however, intimated that he had made a suggestion to this effect to the Mayor. The belief that the Twin-ing changes would be illegal on these grounds was freely expressed by politiclans and lawyers today.

The three statements issued late last night by Mayor Smith, Senator Vare and enator Penrose, respectively, follow: Mayor Smith's statement:

You have read to me what Senator Penrose has stated, and in reply I want to refer you to the remark attributed to Abraham Lincoln to the effect that 'you can fool all of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time; but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time.'

The statement of the senior Senator will be understood by the public to be an attempt to inject politics into a controversy the necessity for which,

at this time, is not apparent.
Former Director Taylor, who occupied rooms adjoining the suite of Senator Penrose, appears to be following a dispassionate attitude like myself in refusing to make any criticism of Mr. Twining's plans until we are informed by Mr. Twining what his plans actually contemplate.

we are informed by Mr. Twining what his plans actually contemplate.

The people of Philadelphia need not get excited like the Senator; their in-terests will be satisfactorily cared for, and they will get just what they want, and that without any assistance or interference from Senator Penrose. State Senator Edwin H. Vare's state

Wouldn't Senator Penrose have wouldn't Senator Penrose have been serving better the citizens of Philadelphia and the State of Penn-sylvaria had he occupied his empty seat in the United States Senate the latter part of last week when the President's policy of maintaining the honor of the nation and the safety of its citizens was being discussed and Its citizens was being discussed and voted upon, instead of rushing into the newspapers with statements on the transit question, when that issue was not and is not in shape to be con-sidered by the Mayor, City Councils or the public?

Senator Penrose's third statement:
I have spent a large part of the afternoon in examining the sketches which have been published, illustrating the proposed changes in the city's transit plans, and in considering the serious results which the adoption of any such plan as is now proposed would have upon the various sections of the city, upon the city as a whole, and upon those who of necessity are dependent upon the city's transportation in traveling twice a day

The more I study the proposition

The more I study the proposition the worse it looks, and to my mind the worse it looks, and to my mind it tends only to emphasize by com-parison the broad benefits which will be guined by the city as a whole, and hy all sections of the city, through the adoption of the complete "Taylor plan," which will be completely and adultably effective in providing for the present and future needs of the

As the people, with the "Taylor nian" before them, believing that it constituted the city's plan for transit development, ratified it by a magnificant majority at the recent lean ejection, there remains only one thing to be done, and that is to carry out the mandate of the people.

I hope that the city authorities will recognize, in formulating the coming hum bill, the necessity of providing apsoifically thereid lost what lines of rapid transit the people are to receive in return for increasing the indebted-of the city.

I also hope that the loan bill will cylife the hecomary almount to put rough the "Taylor plan" in its en-very. In order that every section of the city may be properly cared for a though the city may be properly cared for a though the city may be properly cared for a though are thus fully informed and refected in voting for the loan bill, that hill will be in serious jeopardy.

Meetings of various organisations will be held every night this week to crystallize the opposition to the Twining changes.

The Wainut Street Business Association held an open discussion of the transit question at a luncheon today at the St. James. The board of directors of the association, which met on Monday, recommended that the business men oppose the subway in Wainut street.

Business organizations in various parts of the city held meetings last night for the discussion of the transit question brought up by the suggestions of Director Twining for changes in the Taylor plan.

PASS RESOLUTIONS. The board of directors of the German town Business Men's Association, with Colonel Sheldon Potter presiding, drew up a set of resolutions condemning the proposed changes in the original transit plans. The resolutions set forth in part as

The proposed alteration constitutes a betrayal of the people's interests, which this association resents and denounces; that in our opinion no seenomy which destroys a service intended to unite all portions of the city, and substitutes for it spurs and adjuncts of a system controlled by an already overburdened company, is justifiable; that the mere saving of costs at the expense of service which would build up the city and its re-sources and increase the value of property is a mistaken economy, unworthy of those charged with the government and development of a great city; that this association pledges itself to do all in its power to maintain the comprehensive plans for high-speed lines developed by A. Merritt Taylor, the late Director of the Department of City Transit; that the president be and he is hereby directed to appoint a committee, or in his discretion to refer to one of the standing committees of this association, the matters herein complained of, and that such committee shall have full power to act with committees appointed by other associations for similar purposes in arousing the public to action and fostering public sentiment for the preservation of an independent system of high-speed lines so designed as to fully serve and develop the outlying districts of the city of Philadel-phia, and facilitate intercommunication between all parts of our great

It was decided to send a corry of these resolutions to the Mayor, Director Twin-ing, to both chambers of Councils and to each of the Councilmen representing the 22d and 42d Wards, in which the membership of the association is resident, "and that the Councilmen of the said wards be requested to use their influence and to so vote that a comprehensive system for rapid transit may not become a mere dis-membered adjunct of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit system."

OBJECT TO CHANGING PLAN.

The Tabor Improvement Association met last night in the James Russell Lowell School and unanimously protested any changes in the Taylor transit plans. The members passed resolutions to this effect and declared positively the subway should be built to Olney avenue.

The Hunting Park Avenue Improvement Association, at a meeting last night in the Park Mansion, Old York road and Lycoming street, reaffirmed its position in opposing a change in the Taylor transit plans. Amos S. Blake presided.

The Central Germantown Avenue Bustagainst any change in the Taylor transit plans. At a meeting in Bank Hall, 2809 Germantown avenue, at which William J. Nash presided, the association was especially emphatic in opposing any reduction of the subway, which had been planned to run from League Island to Olney avenue.

Joseph P. Gaffney, chairman of Councils' Finance Committee, speaking at a meeting of the Fairmount Business Men's Association, 19th street and Fairmount avenue, said:

"If the people of Philadelphia are willing to tie up $69,000,000 for 5 or 10 years, they have the right to do it, and I know the Mayor well enough to say that what the people want—after all the facts are before him-is what they are going

Police Court Chronicles

As a reader of fiction Jimmy Conway holds the championship up in Kensington. holds the championship up in Kensington. Unfortunately, he takes the tales he reads too seriously. Some times he tries to emulate the heroes whom he meets in the world of romance. Jimmy was in heroic frame of mind as he wandered out Cumberland street. He saw a woman cleaning rubbish out of a little trimming store. She threw a lot of useless things into a barrel, including part of a broken dress form. Jimmy saw two legs protruding from the barrel and smoke coming from a nearby barrel and smoke coming from a nearby window. It was from the pipe of the mar of the house. Like a flash the hero concluded that the house was on fire and that a woman, to escape the flames, had leaped from the window and fell headlong into the barrel. He grabbed her by the ankles and pulled her out, to find that she was headless, but otherwise uninjured.

Then it dawned upon him that it was only a dummy. Jimmy pulled the man of the house outside by the neck and demanded an explanation. But instead of that he received a blow between the eyes which stratched him on the ground. The woman screamed and Policeman Snyder arrived. Conway struck Snyder in the face, but the next minute he saw stars as the cop landed with rights and lefts to the jaw.

At the 4th and York streets police sta-tion Jimmy admitted that he mixed his remance with liquor, which gave him a very vivid imagination. He was sorry and he looked worse than he felt. The pris-oner knew that he had done something rash, and was not in the least amazed when Magistrate Glean told him it would st him 10 days in the County Priso

The Doorway to Success!

VEARS ago a young Englishman arrived in Philadelphia. He had a letter of introduction to the general manager of a large manufacturing plant. The manager suggested that he secure a position where he could become Americanized, and later he would give him a good job. The young man asked how he could secure such a situation. The general manager handed him a copy of the Public Ledger containing five advertisements of likely places. He carefully answered them all. Two days later he secured one of the positions at a very low salary. Today he is still employed by the same firm, and says, "I am now receiving a larger salary than the Lord Mayor of my native city."
