NANCY WYNNE CHATS ABOUT THE COMING ARMENIAN BENEFIT

Various French Recitations Will Be Given Next Thursday by Mlle. Beatrice de Holthoir at the Ritz-Carlton-Other Matters of Interest

WE ARE expectantly awaiting the bome, 1823 Pine street, for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Bochman. will be given on Thursday afternoon at eclock in the Ritz-Carlton ballroom by Mile. Beatrice de Holthoir for the seft of the Armenlans, A number of eminent women have gotten up the stair, and one of the Interesting feapres is the fact that all the recitations Atlantic City. which Mile, de Holthoir will give will be which are charming, quaint, humorous and vastly entertaining. Mile, de Holmelr is well known on the French stare, and is one of the few persons to weduce French drama in England. She intensely interested in war relief work and is willing to give this recital for the benefit of the Armenians, which will be the first given for their relief this city. Mrs. Hollister Sturges and Miss Sophie Norris are among the pime movers in the undertaking.

Among the patronesses of the affair are Mrs. William W. Arnett, Mrs. J. gellers Bancroft, Mrs. John Cadwalader, Mrs. Harrison E. Caner, Mrs. Samuel g Carpenter, Mrs. James B. Coryell, Mrs. Edward Coles, Mrs. Charles E. Dans, Mrs. Stanley G. Flagg, Jr., Mrs. Charles W. Fox, Mrs. William H. Green, Mrs. C. Leland Harrison, Miss Julia E. deebner, Mrs. Charles M. Lea, Miss Nina Lea, Mrs. Hobert W. Lesley, Mrs. Louis C. Madeira, Mrs. John Markoe, Mrs. Theodore Cuyler Patterson, Mrs. Charles Platt, Jr., Mrs. Alexander Van Repsselaer, Mrs. Thomas Robins, Mrs. William Ellis Scull, Mrs. Joseph E. Widener and Mrs. Harold E. Yarmall.

It is very amusing to read some of the paragraphs in certain out-of-town purpals which undertake to appear to know something of Philadelphia society and its doings. For instance, I read in a weekly paper of New York that Mrs s weekly paper of New York that Mrs M. Brooke, of Glimpsewood, Bryn Mawr. Thomas De Witt Cuyler was receiving have gone to Atlantic City for a week. at the Assembly last week decorated Hie a chandelier in pearls and diamonds. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Cuyler did not even go, though it is true she was one of this year's patronesses. Mrs. Cuyler had been rather tired out and was in Atlantic City, and her sister, Mrs. Pemberton Hutchinson received at the ball in her place. Another thing which New York might do well to learn is that Mrs. Cuyler, though the wife of one of our wealthiest men, dresses more quietly and with less estentation than many a poorer woman, and I have seldom nofied that she even wears jewelry; that is to any noticeable degree. At the first Assembly this year she was gowned in a French blue velvet frock trimmed with lace and wore a few pearls and diamonds. Her debutante daughter, Eleanor, is always dressed in good taste also, as are her sisters. Miss Frances Cayler and Mrs. Cap Morris; so the whole thing is rather ridiculous on the face of it. Mrs. Cuyler, you know, was Mos Frances Lewis, the daughter of
