U. OF P. MEN FIGHT THIEF IN FRAT HOUSE

Delta Upsilon Members Grapple With Intruder. Three Held

A crash of glass over their heads sent University of Pennsylvania students who were playing pool in the basement of the Delta Upsilon frat house, 3614 Locust street, sprawling up to the first floor. There they found a man with a long bar in his hand, reaching through the front window in an effort to remove an overcoat from the cloakroom.

Three students grappled with the man. Half a dozen other members of the fraternity, reinforced by other students of the University, chased two men, apparently accomplices, out Locust street to 37th and down 37th. At Woodland avenue, opposite the entrance to the dormitories, they lost sight of the men.

When police of the 32d street and Woodland avenue station reached the frat house when informed of the attempted theft last night, they found Frank Gutman, 1115 South Guenther street, who it is alleged was attempting to take the coat, in custody of the students, who had captured him, George Rand, Sheridan Waite and George Hahn.

Members of the fraternity accompanied District Detectives McDowell and Thornton as they started on a tour of the district in an effort to arrest the other two men. At 37th and Spruce streets Thomas Donahue, 1419 South 47th street, was arrested. At 32d street and Woodland avenue John Hoban, 2741 Karp street, was taken into custody.

Both men denied having anything to do with the attempted robbery.

District Detective Quigley, of the 65th street and Woodland avenue station, declares that these men answer the description of three men accused of robbing the goods store of Carl Lichtenstine, 4819 Woodland avenue, yesterday afternoon. Two men engaged the proprietor in conversation while another opened the cash register, taking $8. Magistrate Harris held these suspects in $400 bail for a further hearing Thursday.

BLAME FOR P. R. R. WRECK PUT ON CONGESTED TRAFFIC

Public Service Commission Makes Report on Accident

HARRISBURG, March 14.—In his formal report to the Public Service Commission on the cause of the wreck of the Pennsylvania Limited on the Main Line near Port Royal March 9, Investigator John P. Dohoney attributes the accident mainly to the congested condition of the railroad at this time, due to storage of thousands of cars of freight that cannot be moved. The wreck followed the buckling of freight cars when two wooden cars were crushed between the pressure of steel cars and thrown out over the track on which the passenger train was approaching.

The present freight condition, being unusual, should require additional precaution, says Mr. Dohoney; "and if the rules of safety are to be adhered to, the pressure of one heavy train against another ought to be followed by prompt and thorough inspection to determine whether serious results have accompanied the movement."

S-S-PHYGMOMANOMETER!

Cops Thought It Was a Sizzling Bomb and Got a Scare

It was only a Tyco's sphygmomanometer. Twenty giant cops of the 30th and Berks streets station breathed a great sigh of relief when they made the discovery today, after they had fished a package out of a tub of water in which they had left it to soak over night. They had thought it was a bomb.

Policeman Dolan found a small oblong package placed near some steps at 15th street and Susquehanna avenue, about midnight. It looked suspicious. He warned around it three times and then cautiously pushed it into the street. From a nearby house he got a bucket of water and "soaked" the object. He stood behind a tree till he was sure nothing was going to happen. Then he picked up the "bomb." It was heavy and he thought he could hear it ticking.

His heart almost stopped as he ran with the "infernal machine" at arm's length to the station.

The bathtub with it roared the detail police as the white-faced Dolan entered with his "prize." The detail scrambled for cover.

When the package was opened this morning with all due precaution, it was found to be a complex medical instrument called a ty. sphy., etc.

"It might explode, at that," said House Sergeant Green, as he laid the package outside among the geraniums.

A sphyg., etc. (see above) is an instrument for measuring pressure of blood in an artery.

POLICE PUSH SEARCH FOR MILL MURDERERS

Victim of Bandits Who Got Away With $3500 Will Be Buried Today

Search for the slayers of Herman Kastening, paymaster of the Germania Worsted Mills, Indiana avenue and A street, in a sensational $3500 hold-up, continued today, with two suspects in custody.

Whether or not the two men held, Michael Torschuk and Joseph Kopulinski, are the gunmen who killed Kastening and wounded Walter Haupt, his assistant, Friday, the police believe they have made valuable captures. The two suspects are being connected with a series of safe-crackings, hold-ups and "confidence" games in the northeast, the police say.

The funeral of Kastening will be held this afternoon. After services at his home, 5438 North Fairhill street, at 2 o'clock, interment will take place in Greenwood Cemetery. Friends of the widow, Mrs. Sophie Kastening, are arranging the details.

Great importance is attached by the police to the recovery of Haupt, who lies at the point of death in the Episcopal Hospital with four bullet wounds in his body.

The detectives are inclined to minimize the importance of this inability to identify Torschuk and Kopulinski as his assailants, in view of his precarious condition and of the positive identification made by Edward Donnelly, one of the witnesses who pursued the gunmen. Another effort to secure an identification from Haupt will be made if he recovers.

The theory of the police that Walter Zygorzky was one of the bandits has been exploded by a message from the Western Penitentiary saying that the man is serving a term there.

WIFE ASKS $100,000 IN ALIENATION SUIT

About this time, it is declared, the defendant started in to alienate the husband's love, and Linhart was induced to accompany her on trips throughout the country and that she was introduced to friends as "Mrs. Rinehart." It is further declared that the defendant induced Rinehart to institute divorce proceedings against the plaintiff.

The latter filed an answer denying the allegations which were sought to be made the basis of the case and retailed with counter-charges. After one hearing privately before a master, it is said, Rinehart withdrew his suit, and later, when alimony was sought, absented himself from the city. During the defendant's alleged friendship with her husband, the latter, Mrs. Rinehart declared, presented her with valuable gifts.

He was also persuaded by the defendant, it is said, to purchase the properties 4819-21-23-27 Chestnut street, and by putting the title in her name virtually made her a gift of this real estate, which is worth at least $20,000.

WIFE SUES PAYMASTER

Carl Lachman Involved in $10,000 Suit Brought Against Woman

Carl Lachman, a paymaster at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, is involved in a $10,000 damage suit brought by his wife against Miss Alice Holmes, of 1204 Columbia avenue. The complainant alleges that her husband "became enamored and ensnared" by the defendant and that the two have been living together at the Columbia avenue address since last November.

Mrs. Lachman also asserts that a divorce suit instituted by her husband is groundless, and that it was brought at the instance of Miss Holmes. Judge Rogers, of Court of Common Pleas No. 2, issued a capias for the defendant's arrest. Bail was fixed at $500.

Fire in C. M. Hatcher Plant

Fire, followed by an explosion, at the plant of the Charles M. Hatcher Company, manufacturers of shoe polish, 191 West Berks street, late last night, caused a loss of $4000. The explosion occurred on the first floor, where, according to the police, gasoline was stored. Several firemen were slightly overcome from gasoline fumes. They were treated by police surgeons and continued to fight the blaze.

TWO U. OF P. STUDENTS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

TWO U. OF P. STUDENTS HURT IN 30-FOOT DROP OF AUTO OVER BANK

Car Swerves From Northeast Boulevard and Plunges to Tracks of the North Penn Branch

WARNING WAS TOO LATE

Two students of the University of Pennsylvania were seriously injured early today when an automobile, driven by one of the men, swerved from Northeast Boulevard near 6th street and plunged over a 30-foot embankment to the tracks of the North Penn branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

The students are Howard R. Winter, 22 years old, and James R. Neal, 22 years old, both living in the dormitories. They are members of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, 3706 Locust street. Both are in St. Luke's Hospital.

The Northeast Boulevard has a sharp curve near 6th street, and the young men, for some unexplained reason, failed to take the curve into account. The machine kept on in a straight line, leaving the highway. Automobiles in the rear saw the machine leave the boulevard and head for the embankment, and they shouted a warning, which was unheeded.

The machine plunged over the edge of the embankment with such force that the young men were hurled 20 feet against the opposite embankment and became unconscious. The automobile was badly smashed.

Automobilists who had witnessed the plunge notified Sergeant Hill, of the Branchtown police station, and the students were removed to the hospital. Winter is suffering from a fractured collarbone. Both are terribly bruised and lacerated. An X-ray machine will be used by physicians today to find out the extent of their injuries.

It was said by the police that the young men had taken two young women to their homes in the automobile and were returning to the University dormitories. The automobile belonged to Winter. Neal resides in Kansas City and is a post-graduate at the Wharton School. He also was a graduate from the Washington-Lee University. Winter is a sophomore at the Wharton School and lives in Houston, Tex.

MAYOR MAY EXTEND VISIT

He and His Friends Handsomely Entertained and Having a Good Time in the South

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 14.—Mayor Thomas B. Smith, of Philadelphia; State Senator Edwin H. Vore and their party are having a simple outdoor good time during their stay here. The Mayor has become so popular and has been invited to so many social affairs that he may extend his stay for several days. W. Prasad Kendrick, Receiver of Taxes at Philadelphia, vies closely with the Mayor in popularity.

Last night the party danced, and yesterday afternoon they spent inspecting a number of saddle horses. Later they took a long cross-country ride on horseback. Senator Vore is an enthusiastic horseman, and the spirit is rapidly spreading to the other members of the party.

N. CAROLINA WOMAN FACES DEATH PENALTY

Convicted of Husband's Murder, Her Fate Rests With the Governor

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 14.—Whether a convicted husband-killer shall break North Carolina's long record of no death penalty for women will be decided Monday, when Governor Craig will hear appeals for clemency for Mrs. Ida Bull Warren. Unless he grants mercy, Mrs. Warren and Samuel Cristy, with whom she once lived as his wife, will die in the electric chair March 21 for the murder of James G. Warren.

Governor Craig refuses to give the slightest intimation whether the appeals for mercy by women's clubs, or the State Supreme Court's opinion of the murder as the most brutal which ever came to its notice, has most influenced him.

Mrs. Warren's own story is that she chloroformed her husband while he slept and that Cristy strangled him. Then she and Mrs. Warren's son-in-law mutilated the dead man's head, so it could not be recognized, and buried it in a creek. It was found. When Mrs. Warren and Cristy saw it in a morgue they declared they could not identify it. But Warren's family did, later, and the trial resulted.

Appeals for Mrs. Warren's life have been made by the Anti-Capital Punishment League and by numerous women's organizations, the latter basing their appeal on sex. Muncie, Ind., women wrote that they passed their resolutions on Lincoln's birthday.

BAILEY DISGUSTED WITH PARTY LEADER

Says "We Hollered Our Fool Heads Off Over What We Are Now Undoing"

By a Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 14.—"I am thoroughly disgusted with the leadership of our party," said Representative Warren Worth Bailey, of Pennsylvania, today, as he walked to the Capitol, where the House was to begin consideration of the sugar repeal.

"We are on the back track now and I hate to see it. We went around and hollered our fool heads off about what we were going to do when we defeated the Republicans. Then after we passed the tariff bill, providing for free sugar in three years, we went around and hollered our heads off again. Now we are doing to undo just what we bragged about. I am going to vote against the repeal, but I don't believe there will be six Democrats who will do so. Of course, the Republicans are happy over our protectionist action."

"HUMAN GREYHOUND" SHOT

Policeman Who Couldn't Keep Up With Him Uses Pistol

A man who did tricks like a greyhound in the Cooper Hospital, Camden, today, with a 48-calibre bullet in his leg, as a result of trying to escape Chief Beck, of the Palmyra, N. J., police, Chief Beck thought perhaps the man had stolen the two automobile tires that he was rolling down the streets, particularly as the hour was after midnight. In the hospital, the injured man gave his name as William Hurt.

For reply, he said, Hurt tried to roll a tire with one of the tires as if by a "prize case." The chief refused to "loped" and chased the man, over, and on each side of the tire, nately, as he rolled it along. When Beck saw he could not keep up with flying Hurt, he drew his heavy pistol, shot the man in the knee. He said man when shot looked as if he jumped right through the tire. Have you had the fantods trying to get a Fit?

Well, Fit is OUR long suit! To make it certain, we have evolved four different classes of clothes cut for four different types of men, with the sizes of each type graded for men of that particular build and style.

Our "Ultra-Stylish" models are for men and young men of slender figure; our "Men's fashionable" models are made for muscular men with good athletic shoulders and bodily girth, who still want snap and style in the cut of their clothes.

Our "conservative" models possess the distinctive touch of Perry tailoring; while our stout and extra-fat sizes are built for the ultra-heavyweights.

If a man is not absolutely abnormal and deformed in build, we can give him an immediate fit in a Suit of Clothes.

Good dining begets a ready wit

The man at the club who enjoys his soup, more often than he knows is eating Franco-American Soup. The more exclusive the club, the more likely is this to be the case. The more sensitive the palate, the more grateful are the richness and delicacy of these soups.

Every stage in the making of Franco-American Soups is under the direct, personal supervision of Monsieur Biardot who has "dwelt in the houses of kings and of lords." The product of each day's work in our kitchens is tasted by M. Biardot and must receive his approval before it can be placed on sale. This rule is rigid and inflexible. It goes a long way toward explaining what we mean when we say: Franco-American Soups are the personal, individual "creations" of the artist-chef, and as such cannot be duplicated.
