I wonder why people are so forgetful of others' comfort and pleasure as they are at times? If it had not been that I was really annoyed at the overture of the second act of "Pagliacci" being spolled, I would have been amused at the gestures and shoulder shruggings of little Miss Deb, who, frocked in an exquisite gown of real American Beauty velour and chiffon, was talking to her mother on the subject of a certain young man (seated with a party of young girls in a box, together with other men) and wondering why the mothers of said maidens did not object to having their daughters exploited at the opera by his side. "He is always ranning after such common girls," she said. "The last one, I hear, is from Alientown." "Yes," said mamma, "an hopossible person." Then there were many whisperings about the escapades if girl young gentleman, so called; but the curtain rose and Caruso, in his immy of jealous love and rightsons in an I heard to more except a discus-tion as to how fast they could get to help car alien the performance. But the mothers of said maidens did not object

The marriage of Miss Elsa W. Klopfer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Klopfer, of 1528 North 17th street, to Mr. Moses Weisenfeld, of Baltimore, Md., was solemnized last evening at 6 o'clock in the Hotel Adelphia, with the Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of the Keneseth Israel Congregation, and the Rev. Dr. William Rosneau, of Baltimore, officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and tulle with trim-ming of net embroidered with pearls. Her veil of tulle was caught with sprays of orange blossoms, and lilles of the valley arranged in a shower were carried. Miss Bessie Weisenfeld, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor, and Miss Etta Hirsh-berg was bridesmaid. The former was attired in a frock of pale blue taffeta and cloth of silver, and the latter in peach-colored taffeta trimmed with old blue velvet. Each carried picturesque hats filled with pink roses, pale-blue flowers and white lilacs. They were trimmed with ribbon to match the frocks and the streamers carried over the shoulder. Mr. Simon Halle, of Baltimore, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Ber-nard Kahn, Mr. Rosenfeld, Mr. Leslie Getz and Mr. Kemper Simpson. The ceremony was followed by a dinner. Mr. Weisenfeld and his bride, upon their return from an extended trip, will live in Haltimore.
