THE Plays and Players will give another of its interesting club-night formances on Wednesday evening at be Little Theatre, when "The Bravest Thing in the World," a Jayne prize play by Lee Pape, will be presented by a cast including Mr. Vinton Freedley, Mrs. Maurice Walsh Fagan, Mr. William Bughes Mearns, Miss Rose Green, Miss Finna Fegley Mearns, Miss Fannie Green and Mrs. Williams Gibbons Marse, Mr. Freedley will be remembered for his splendid work in "Dolly Reforming Herself," presented in the Bellevuestratford earlier this winter. A curtainmiser, "The Maker of Dreams," by Oliphant Down, will be interpreted by Mr. 1. Howard Reber, Miss Margaret H. Cooper and Mr. Freedley. Young Freedley, you may recall, was one of the cast which gave the very melodramatic movies last spring at the Griscom place -which resulted in the interesting, but not altogether unexpected, announcement of the engagement of Miss Brinin to Signor Cesare Sturani, her soltiant husband in the drama.

One rainy day recently (there have been several) I was possessed with the setion of going to a matinee-as it was then about 2 o'clock, and as the "show" I wanted to see was a big hit I was compelled to take my place in line bebre the box-office and wait my turn. My attention was drawn to two little chatter-boxes several places in front of me in the line, and, upon craning my neck, I discovered them to be debutantes of the present season. When putte Miss (shall I say Mary?) reached the ticket stand she peeped in and asked for two seats in the orchestra, and upon their being forthcoming, she merely mid, nonchalantly: "Chacge them, please, to Mrs. -----," Naturally, the man at the box protested and said that "it wasn't done," but the sweet young for the manager. When she found her blandishments were of no avail she and ber companion were turning away disconsolately, but a fairy godmother appeared in the person of a nice, motherlylooking soul, who insisted that they borrow the necessary cash from her and return it later. Addresses were exchanged and tickets purchased and the two disappeared within the darkened interior of the playhouse.

Another little debutants I happen to know, and quite a comely one, too, was in a shop last week making a purchase, and finding she did not porsess money ufficient for her immeliate needs tendered a cheque. I heard her say, "Oh, it's quite all right, I assure you; just refer to Mrs. So-and-So" (mentioning the name of a woman whose credit would be good at any shop), and supposed they were in doubt over the amount of said cheque, when, to my astonishment and vast amusement, I found that it was for the huge sum of $1.50!
