MAYOR AMAZED BY TRANSIT PLAN DELAY

Continued from Page One cities to gather ideas for the Mayor, who wants, if possible, to raise the revenue without creating an additional burden for real estate owners. The Mayor arrived shortly after 11 o'clock and, with Mrs. Smith and his son Frederick, went home from the North Philadelphia station before going to City Hall.

The Mayor got to the Hall at quarter to one and immediately sent for Director Twining, repeating his inability to under-stand why the transit report had not been given out. Then he colled up Finance Committee Chairman Gaffney and told him

Most of the Mayor's interview was given on the train and at the North Philadelphia station. He had gone directly there with his wife and son, the other members of the party getting off at West Philadelphia. They included Senator and Mrs. Vare, Mr. and Mrs. W. Freeland Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyle, the Coroner and Mrs. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Haslett, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dollanger and Mrs. William H. Wilson, Director Wilson var. William H. Wilson. Director Wilson was on hand to meet her.

The first thing Mayor Smith had to say

"I do not understand why the Twining report has not been made public."

Asked if he had the Twining plan, he replied that he did not.

"I am surprised," he said, 'that the report was not out a couple of days after I left for the South. Both the transit and financial programs will be settled within a few days."

TALK OF TAX RATE. Asked about the probability of an increase in the tax rate, he said: "The city's financial condition is due to wardly evasion that has extended over a period of many years. I am not pre-pared at this time to announce my policy regarding a tax rate increase. It is now being made a political question. It will not come before Councils for action for some time. If it is found that a higher tax rate is necessary. I am not afraid to go to the public and show them why it is necessary.

"I am now trying to find other means for increasing the revenue besides in-creasing the tax on real estate. There certainly should be other means with-out increasing the tax o nreal estate. Other cities have other means of reve-

"I now have a man investigating the financial problems of other cities."

"Who is he?" the Mayor was asked.
"That is my business," he answered.
The Mayor said he expected to attend the meeting of the Finance Committee of Councils this afternoon.

"HEDGES" ON SUBWAY. Reverting to the subject of transit, the Mayor said:

"My position as regards the transit program is the same as it always has been. I was from the first in favor of rapid transit facilities connecting both ends of Broad street."

He was asked if he favored a subway along the entire length of Broad etreet. favor a subway in Broad street wherever feasible. Marshy lands in the lower ends of South Philadelphia present ngineering difficulties, however. I am in avor of rapid transit facilities the entire length of Broad street, but I am not sayor whether I think it should be subway. elevated or surface linea."

He would not say if the marshy lands

he referred to were below Oregon avenue or whether they included most of South Philadelphia.

He was naked whether he thought the Broad street sukway, built was antire length, would pay from $2, sure, and answered:

"I don't think that anyone has ever had any idea that the Brond street subway would pay from the beginning. Mayor Blankenburg told me before I went into office that it was his opinion the Broad street subway would not pay for 20 or 30 years, but whether it will pay or not is not influencing my opinion regarding the necessity for the line. It is the convenience and the service to the public that I am considering. If they want rapid transit lines they will have them if it is rosethle to build them." them if it is possible to build them."

"TWINING NOT UNDERSTOOD." Discussing the plan announced by Director Twining some time ago extend-Erie avenue to Sp ing from Eric avenue to Spruce street only, the Mayor said: "Director Twining's suggestions were not fairly, understood. The public hasn't given sufficient consideration to the cost of the transit project and it is my duty as the executive officer of the city to point out what this cost will be. I have asked irector Twining to show in his report the graduated cost to taxpayers of the rapid transit linea."

Discussing the $86,500,000 loan, Mayor Smith said he would get busy on the big loan within a few days. He was asked whether he looked for any more delay under the high-speed lines authorized under the $5,000,000 loan, and said: "There has ben no delay. All the money available-is under contract, as I understand it." He was asked how long he thought the City Hall section of the Broad street sub-way would be held up, and said:

"The City Hall section presents a serious problem. You know I have talked to several eminent engineers as to what they thought should be done there. That problem is not yet settled."

WILL STICK TO AMBLER.

The Mayor kept shy of any discussion of politics. 'I have nothing to say," was the only answer he gave to questions concerning the announcement of Governor Brumbaugh's candidacy, the Governor's local option fight, Senator Penrose's program for an uninstructed delegation to the Development of the presithe Republican convention, and the presi-dential boom for Philander C. Knox that was launched last week by Senator Oliver.

The Mayor did, however, declare that he would continue to support Charles A. Ambier for the Republican nomination for Auditor General until the last. His attention was called to the fact that the Governor, in a statement today, said he had not endorsed any one for Auditor General. The Mayor said: The Mayor said

The Mayor said:
"I am for Ambier to the last. Regard-less of what position Governor Brumbaugh may take, I will stick to Ambier."
The Mayor was asked:

PENROSE'S INTENTIONS.

"Have you either directly or indirectly learned whether Senator McNichol and Senator Penroze mean to use every delaying tactic in their power and finally carry the loan into the courts unless an agreement is reached curtailing the Vare power?"

"No, I have not learned of that either directly or indirectly."

The Mayor would not discuss the prob-ability of such an intention on the part of the Senators being true, and the ref-erence to the "Vare power" he dismissed as being "political" and said he had no interest in the political side of the loan bill. bill. What do you think is back of Councilman Seger's demand to have the people know the cost of the loan for the next 36 years? Is he doing it in all moral honesty or is he prompted by political reasons?" "Mr. Seger is only seeking to emphasize

"Mr. Seger is only seeking to emphasize what I pointed out in my inaugural address. I knew that he is actuated only by the best of reasons, and not at all by politics. The people ought to know what must be paid, and that is why I made Director Twining work his report over se that when he gives it out a child can understand it."

"Why is Councilman Trainer, a obstime Vare man, objecting to the payment of the old Vare South Philadelphia claim of $110,000 in the loan itsm?"

"You'll have to ask Trainer that himself."

The Biayor explained that he had yet

THINKING LEADS TO ACTION; ACTION MAKES FOR SUCCESS

Character Is the Fundamental Thing in Life,-It is ever changing, and never the same. The quality and quantity of your thoughts determine your character. It is today the total sum of what all past thinking has made it. Your character today represents the state of your consciousness.

This, in turn, represents conclusions reached by you and known as knowledge. You build your own character by controlling your own thoughts.

Originative, creative and constructive thinking rapidly changes the building known as character. Positive thinking develops good character. Negative thinking tears character down.

Thinking Leads Into Action.—Ambition, knowledge, determination and courage are positive traits. Thinking along these lines gives purposeful desires and leads into right lines of action. Wanting to do the best that we know gives a starting point for the development of the better ways for increasing production. Repeated Action Establishes Habit.—As thinking is done in accordance Repeated Action Establishes Habit.—As thinking is done in accordance with established habit, so action, likewise, is fixed by habit. Each one views his own problem in a distinctive way. But he gets answers which satisfy him, and he gets them in accordance with his self-made rules. He has positive opinions, which are his conclusions reached in thinking.

Habit Forms Character.—Repeated thinking and acting molds habit and establishes character. Character belongs to your mental or spiritual selfhood. It is the structure proper of your life. Your success depends upon it. Your happiness is controlled by it.

Character Speaks Through Personality.—As your character is, so your personality proclaims you to the world. Your character is your inward power, while your personality is your outward expression of it. Sincerity enables the personality to represent the real person. enables the personality to represent the real person.

As You Think, So Are You.—You cannot be different from your thoughts. You are made like the material used in your making. Your character is molded by your mind. You say and do in thorough accord with what your mental schooling has taught you. Mankind will judge your personality as representing your real character. They will commend or condemn, in accordance with what your personality makes your character appear to be. Item before he makes up his mind on it. of his active ministerial life, serving in the said:

"The day the newspaper editors were all in a conference in my office that ques-tion came up and Director Webster told me later that he had all the data in his office or knew where it could be got. I asked Senator Vare about it in Augusta, and he told me former Director Cooke would have paid the money but for a councilmanic fight which developed then. as to why Trainer is kicking, you'll have to ask him," the Mayor smiled and waited for the next question.

"Why are Finance Committee Chairman Gaffrey and City Solicitor Connelly silent on the old question of 'enabling legislation' for constitutional amendments?"

"CONNELLY FEARS NOTHING" "I don't know that they are especially silent. A great many lawyers, Messirs. Gaffney and Connelly among them, have talked to me lately on that subject and the opinion of all was that no enabling legislation was necessary." legislation was necessary."

"Does Connelly healtate to give an opinion on the question raised by former City Solicitor Ryan relative to the legal-

THE LOAN'S CHANCES.

"Have you heard that the loan will be attacked because all activities started under Mayor Blankenburg are not included in the unfunded debt items in the loan?"
"No. I had not heard that and I don't believe it has any basis in fact. I was under the impression all had been included. I'm not sure, but I couldn't recall at this moment any that had been left out. However, my answer to that question is What do you think of threats made by outlying wards to defeat the loan at the pells tinless assured of better transit out of the $35.000,000 for that purpose?"

The question is premature, for I don't think there ought to be a kick over a thing until it has been made clear, and I don't see why the outlying wards, which you mention, should make threats until they know what they are going to get and until Director Twining's plans are given out complete they won't know.

"If such threats have been made it instances a fine case of 'crying before you're hurt,' and if such action should follow in the line of the threat as alleged. I should simply say it would be a typical dog-in-the-maniger procedure."

"IF THE LOAN FAILS."

"Do you-believe at this time the loan will be passed in time to float bonds before the close of your first year in office? "Yes. I believe it will be passed and approved at the primaries in May."

"What position will you be in if the loan falls?" "Til be in the position of every sincere thinking Philadelphia; I'll be disappointed. But remember, the defeat of the loan bill won't be my funeral. I won't be hurt personally. The situation is simple. Certain improvements are needed. outlined things that ought to be

One doesn't need to explain that to make improvements costs money. "The loan bill will be designed to pro-vide a way of paying for improvements much needed. There has been much talk much needed. There has been much talk about how badly needed they were. Now, if there was any sincerity behind the talk it will be shown by the approval of the loan bill, when it comes before the people. I don't consider my position will be any different whether it passes or fails. "I was elected Mayor to try to do for the people what they want. It is not up to me to make them want a thing; my dury ends when I give them what they duty ends when I give them what they want, or at least try to, the best I can. If they show they don't want a thing, that ends it; I won't try to make them take it. That's the way I look at the loan bill. It's up to the people. They may have exactly what they want."

The Mayor let loose a bit of informa-

The Mayor let loose a bit of informa-tion regarding his personality when he confessed this:

"I'm this kind of fellow," he said, "I'm slow to make up my mind. I like to know a thing inside and outside before I reach a decision, just like any business man would. When I've decided I'm pretty sure of myself. But even then I would not say my decision was unalterable. Only tools make up their minds never to change fools make up their minds never to change them. I'd rather be classed with the wise men."

Found Dead on His Doorstep

Jacob Mintz, 30 years old, was found on the steps of his home, early today, at 2504 Natrona street, by two passars-by. Dr. Paul Rethkugel, of 2463 North 23d street, was summoned and pronounced the man dead of heart disease. It was said that Mintz had visited friends in the neighborhood of 31st and York streets, earlier in the night.
