His attorneys explained to Judge Wood last January that Mr. Chance, a member of a syndicate and reputed to be a close friend of Lord Kitchener, was too busy selling ammunition to the Allies to appear in court. The lawyers sought to have the case tried entirely on depositions, but Judge Wood refused to go on unless one of the parties appeared.

Health Logic SUCCESS is measured by health. Health is largely dependent on drinking water. Drinking water cleanses and absorbs the waste matter. Its ability to cleanse is in proportion to its purity. Natural and spring waters may be clear and brilliant, but all do, more or less, contain minerals and organisms. Purock Water is made pure in order that it may cleanse, not deposit. By logic to health, thru health to success. And the most efficient starting point is drinking daily Purock Water. Purock Water is delivered to offices and homes in sterilized, sealed glass bottles. PATRICK SULLIVAN, 50 years old, 3708 De Kalb street, lacerations of legs and bruising. The accident occurred at 2:15 o'clock, when the auto truck and the automobile were going south on Broad street. In the automobile were Piper, Brennan and Warren. Sullivan was a helper on the truck, belonging to the Adams Express Company. J. B. Grant, driver of the auto truck, escaped injury. The truck was heavily loaded. The automobile came up from behind, and for some reason the police have not been able to ascertain Piper tried to pass the truck on the right side instead of the left. The machine was about 15 feet from the curb and making 35 miles an hour, according to the police. Piper lost control and the car crashed into the side of the truck. In an instant it was a mass of wreckage, and the occupants were pinned beneath it. the soup of the epicure Good soup builds body and mind The popularity of soup as a regular article of diet has increased so remarkably in recent years that it is now universal. The reasons are plain. Science is chiefly responsible. Food values have been subjected to rigid investigation hitherto unknown. And the more food is studied, the more good soup is appreciated as fulfilling all the functions of "the ideal food." Food in the modern sense must nourish both body and mind. Good soup—the best soup—Franco-American Soup—does precisely this. It is food enriched by the French Master-Chef until it yields the utmost enjoyment, as well as nourishment. Franco-American Soups enjoy an ever-increasing popularity with those who have the modern respect for their health and happiness. ART EXPERT ASKS NAME OF PROSPECTIVE DONOR OF $1,000,000 GALLERY

Declares It Duty of N. B. Kelly to Disclose Identity of Man Ready to Endow City With Gift

SOME FINE COLLECTIONS Philadelphians Who Own Splendid Art Galleries

The only Philadelphians who own art galleries valued at $1,000,000 and over are named below. Which one is the prospective donor? Joseph E. Widener, George W. Barnes, Albert C. Barnes, John G. Johnson, John H. McFadden, Edward T. Stotesbury

The name of the unknown prospective donor of a $1,000,000 art collection to Philadelphia, which, according to N. B. Kelly, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is conditioned on the erection of an art museum in the city at an early date, remains a secret. "Not for anything," said Mr. Kelly, "will I divulge the name or any particulars connected with this matter. The man is a personal friend of mine; he is averse to anything in the way of publicity and advertising, but when the art museum is erected the full particulars will be given."

GREAT COLLECTIONS. The Widener collection is universally regarded the most valuable in Philadelphia, the Rembrandt "Milk" alone being valued at $500,000, and while it has been persistently rumored that Joseph E. Widener, who was left nearly $1,000,000, would eventually present them to the city, his secretary, when told of the mysterious offer, said: "Mr. Widener did not make the offer." A similar denial came from John G. Johnson, who owns an exceedingly valuable collection and is an art connoisseur of national reputation. Through his secretary he said that he has never authorized anyone to say what he would do with his collection and has never discussed the subject in any way.

Another notable collection is that of Edward T. Stotesbury, but Mrs. Stotesbury said that if Mr. Stotesbury made such an offer she had never heard of it. "TIRED OF 'HOT AIR'." One of the foremost art authorities in Philadelphia said he was tired of hearing these "hot air" stories about collectors hoarding their collections to the city. "If any one," he asked, "ever heard any one of the six or seven in this city who own collections of the value of $1,000,000 or upward say they would give their collections to the city? If they did I would be glad to know of it. If Mr. Kelly," he continued, "knows of such a donor and such a collection he owes it to the people of Philadelphia to name the man. The Chamber of Commerce is asked to hurry to an Art Museum to house an art collection which some man somewhere, known only to Mr. Kelly, values at more than $1,000,000. A man could own one picture by Rembrandt or Murillo or that he thinks are by those old masters and he may place a value of $500,000 on such a picture. It would only take two such pictures to make a $1,000,000 collection. It's up to Mr. Kelly to come out flatfooted and tell who his man is if he wants action on the new Museum of Art. What Philadelphia wants is nothing less than the best and highest authenticated works of art for her public museums."
