NANCY WYNNE SPEAKS OF VARIOUS SMALL ENTERTAINMENTS OF THE DAY

The Three Arts Club Will Honor Mrs. Austin S. Heckscher at Zeckwer's Academy-The Valentines Give Large House Party

MRS. AUSTIN STEVENS HECK-SCHER, widely known for her musical talent and as a patroness of music in this city, will be given a re-ception this evening by members of the Three Arts Club in the large rooms set aside for cutertainment at the Zeckwer aside for entertainment at the Zeckwer Academy, on Spruce street above 16th

Mrs. Heckacher was Miss Coleste Massey, a member of the well-known family of that name. She is a sister of Mrs. Henry Edward Drayton. Nannie Heckscher, her youngest daughter, is named after Mrs. Drayton. Poor Nannie has been undergoing an attack of measles in this last fortnight, which must have been a trial to her flance. young Newbold.

But to return to Mrs. Heckscher. She is president of the Philadelphia Operatic Society, which has done such splendid work in the past, and has written several very successful compositions. A ballet composed by her was given at the last performance of the Operatic Society after the opera "I Pagliacci." Philadelphia musicians appreciate greatly Mrs. Heckscher's support in their various undertakings. There will be a musical program tonight at the reception, which is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock,

While on the subject of the Operatic Society, its next performance will be given in May, I understand, and will be a decided departure from its usual work, in that light opera will replace grand on this one occasion, for the production will be a revival of Reginald de Koven's opera of "Robin Hood," which is one of the most tuneful and charming of comic operas, and is quite bayond the usual light opera in musical

The performance will be given at the Metropolitan Opera House on May 11.

With the starting of the race meets and other out-of-doors affairs, now that spring is trying to stay with us, house parties will be the order of the day in society. That geniat host, John Valentine, and his charming wife, will give a week-end party and will take their guests to the race meet which will be given at Erdenheim, the estate of R. Nelson Buckley, at Chestnut Hill. Their guests will come from New York and Baltimore-Lurman Stewart from the latter city-and the New Yorkers will be Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Miss Adelaide Cannon and Pierre Lorillard, Jr. There will be, of course, numerous luncheons before the event, and in the evening the usual dinner dance at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

More convinced am I than ever that Eastertide will bring to our cars several engagements in the social world. One of the rings was purchased at Tiffany's, too-for didn't they go on to New York together on Tuesday, and with many a smile and blush take a taxicab from the station to Tiffany's direct? She is certainly very charming, and dresses in the most exquisite taste, and, too, her debut was made not so very long ago. She is rather tall and rather more fair than dark, and has quite the daintlest little hands I have seen for many a day, Prince Charming is taller than she, naturally, and a great, strapping, out-of-doorsy sort of fellow, with sun-bronzed hair and the bluest eyes in the world. Unless I miss my guess we shall very surely hear the news soon, and, odd though it may seem, there will be some who will be surprised.

The Dick McCalls, I understand, have come back here to live, which is very gratifying for their friends, although it was nice to visit them in Washington. Mrs. McCall was Ellen Sellers. who came out three years ago and was married about this time last year to young Dick McCall in old St. Peter's Church, at 3d and Pine streets. The wedding. I remember, occurred one bright, sunshiny spring day and the scene at St. Peter's, with its funny oldfashioned high-backed pews, and where Photo by Chappel Studio, from pertrait by the quaint custom of including the beadle in the bridal cortege is still observed, was quite one of the most charming of the season.
