NANCY WYNNE SEES QUIET WEEK ERE EASTER FESTIVITIES BEGIN

Members of Society Journey to South Carolina to Attend Roosevelt-Sinkler Nuptials-Main Line Walking Club

NEXT week will be particularly quiet, will return to his home in Strafford next week. observe Holy Week are wont to spend this season in quiet and resting in preparation for the gala days to come immediately after Easter. It has become very much the thing now for the girls who attended St. Mary's School, at Peekskill, to return there for the week, not only the debutantes, but many of the girls who have been out for several years. Alva Sergeant has made it a custom and Gretchen and Mary Alice Clay also go. Some of the debutantes who were pupils there last year and who have considered going up for Holy Week are Bessie Downs, Helene Martin and Sarah Nellson. They make a sort of retreat, you know, for St. Mary's is an Anglican school taught by Anglican sisters.

Every one is interested in Emily Sink ler's marriage to Nicholas Roosevelt, , which will be an event today at the Sinklers' home, Belvidere Plantation, at Eutawville, S. C. Both Emily and her sister, Caroline Sinkler, are well known here socially, as they have often visited their aunt, Mrs. Charles Brinton Coxe, and she and Eckley have entertained for them on various occasions. In fact, so they tell me, it was while visiting here that the bride of today met Mr. Roosevelt, who, by the way, is a cousin of Teddy's, and has been living in this city for several years. Of course the Coxes have gone down to the wedding and some of the Sinklers. Elsie Sinkler and Emily Read Fox are to be bridesmaids, together with Henrietta Kollock and Harriet Williams, of Charleston. Odd that both bridesmalds' names from Philadelphia begin with an E and the two from Charleston with H.

Caroline Sinkler will be the maid of honor. It isn't to be a church wedding, as the house is so suited for an affair of the kind, and then it will be so summery and wonderful out on the grounds. General Charles F. G. Sinkler, her father, will give her in marriage, of course. It is gratifying to know that another delightful Southern woman will be added to the elite of Philadelphia, and one who is already known and, as is the rest of the Sinkler family here, much liked.

Because really, I do not know of any family of men and girls so universally popular as the Sinklers. Deas married Emmy Rhodes, you know, and Wharton's wife was Louise Elkins, then Frank married Mildred Pearce, and aren't Jack and Charlie asked to everything going on, as are Julia and Elsie? Their father, the late Doctor Sinkler, was one of the best loved doctors in the

The Main Line Walking Club is coming Into its own now, for the early days of spring more than pay up for the murky, muddy, slushy ones of late winter. The members are best on cross-country tramps and generally walk from seven to ten miles at a stretch. It is a delightful club and promotes good fellowship as well as interchange of ideas among its members, who include eminent lawyers, doctors and railroad men.

Among them are Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yarnall. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newhall, Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. John Gibbon, Mr. and Mrs. James Willcox, Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Griswold, Mrs. Mark Hopkins and Miss Harrydele NANCY WYNNE,

ATLANTIC CITY, April 15.—A terrific windstorm created havoc on the Boardwalk yesterday afternoon. Hats were blown out to sea, many a spring chapeau being utterly ruined by the sudden gale. Hundreds of visitors, including a number of prominent Philadelphians, have arrived to remain over Pain Sunday and the Misses Keyser, who have here for a week.

Miss Thornton and Miss Cottor, ber of prominent Philadelphians, have arrived to remain over Paim Sunday, and the hotel exchanges are quite guy, many weird fashion conceits being seen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Harney, the Haroness von Hiller and Mrs. A. B. Hubard preferred not to take any chances with the windstorm, and viewed the promenade from the "deck" of the Traymore. They will be down until after Easter.

Great Interest Manifested in Operatic

Society's Forthcoming Performance

The Philadelphia Operatic Society will ose its 10th season devoted to the study of opera with a performance of Reginald capable direction of Wassili Leps, who has complete charge, and nothing has been left undone to make this the greatest per-formance in the history of the society.

The history of the opera is well known

It had its first performance on the night of Jine 9, 1890, at the Chicago Opera House. All over the country the opera made a tremendous hit as interpreted by
