GREAT POSSIBILITIES SEEN IN M'ADOO VISIT TO SISTER REPUBLICS

Treasury Secretary's Plan for Merchant Marine Aiding Navy in Time of War Solves Big Problems

LATIN-AMERICA PLEASED

Special Correspondence Evening Ledger
WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary McAdoo has gone on a great mission to South America. There is no politics in it, except as good business is good politics.
It has been called "dollar diplomacy," but there is a great deal more in it than mere dollars and cents; there is, in fact, the peace of the world.

In "the relations of the Technical Con-

In "the relations of the United States to the other American republics our poli-tics has been without a trace of sinister motive or design, craving neither sover-eignty nor territory,"

That was not said by McAdoo, but by Philander Knox, Secretary of State under Mr. Taft, at a banquet in Panama City four years ago. Eilhu Root said much the same thing when he made his tour of the American republics in the Administration of Mr. Roosevel, so that in the nartion of Mr. Rooseveit, so that in the nar-row, partisan sense there is absolutely no politics in the present mission of Secre-

When he and his party reached Montevideo they were received with open arms by the President of Uruguay, who gave a grand banquet and bail, and it was at the banquet that the Minister of Finance of that country made an address on the establishment of stronger and closer trade relations among the American republics and particularly the great need of trans-portation facilities between the United States and Latin-America.

THE GREATEST PROBLEM.

"Today." said he, "only one great ques-tion remains to be solved, that of naviga-Hon—the great problem of transportation—which is the fullest of difficulties. The commerce between the countries of our continent is carried under European flags continent is carried under European flags in greater part. War has removed these vessels from our stores and there are no American vessels to replace them. This is the greatest question at the moment and the most important to our future, but we may expect it to be solved, because Mr. McAdoo has a great plan. Patriotic legislators of the United States will not delay in effecting this great work he has conceived in creating a merchant marine of 509,000 tons and putting it at the serv-But will they? The United States merchant marine en-The United States merchant marine engaged in foreign service consisted last year of only 1107 steam vessels, 581 sailing vessels and 1106 barges—a total tonnage of only 1,871,543 tons. Last year only 751 steam vessels and 51 sailing vessels were built in the United States. It has been admitted by such men as Senator Gailinger, of New Hampshire, and Senator Weeks, of Missachusetts, that private capital will not supply the tonnage required for the development of the trade between the United States and the trade between the United States and the Latin-American countries, and Mr. McAdoo has proposed a plan which will mable the United States to capture the uth American trade for all time.

NOT BY SUBSIDIES.

It is not to be done by subsidies, but by the building and ownership of a fleet of modern cargo-carrying ships, to be operated by corporations in time of peace in the business of commerce and in time of war as auxiliaries of the navy. The navy needs such auxiliaries and would be helpless without them, and the ordinary business of commerce requires them 'f the richest regions of the world.

The value of imports and exports of the United States carried by American ships last year was $571,931,912; the value of imports and exports of the United States carried by foreign ships was $3,420,639,-563. These figures afford their own com-mentary. It does not make the least dif-ference where the credit goes. The Mc-Adoo plan is the only plan that has been give the United States what it needs for the development of its trade and commerce with the coun-of its trade and commerce with the countries of Latin-America.

But the present mission of the Secretary of the Treasury is not confined wholly to the promotion of the shipping interests of the United States. Banking facilities must also be provided, a necessity which President Vanderlip, of the New York City Bank, has been quick to appreciate: steps must be taken to stabilize international exchange, provision made for the adjustment of commercial disputes by arbitration, for the extension of credits, for the financing of enterprises, public and private; for uniformity in customs regu-

Yet the great mission of Secretary McAdoo to South America has attracted scarcely more attention than would be given to the least important happening of purely local interest. With the commerce of half a hemisphere at stake, unlimited opportunities for the investment of American capital and vast unexplored fields of inestimable wealth awaiting the fields of inestimable wealth awaiting the touch of American genius, the latest prize fight for the championship and the barest-legged ballet fill columns of space, with hardly a word for the most important business enterprise engaging the attention of all the Americas.

The imports of the Latin-Americas amount annually in value to more than a billion dollars. These imports have been chiefly from European countries. Why should they not be from the United States? Is not the business worth working for?

Is not the business worth working for? How can they be obtained for the United States except by providing ships to carry them? How can the ships be obtained except by the method recommended by Secretary McAdoo? J. C. H.

Spring Brings Usual Bustle of Preparation

Spring has brought with it the usual ustle of preparation in the public parks when its completed, which means, are business and soldiers on the ground for a certain distance it will go up in the air and destroy air ships if there are any around. Joe points out that very often the land forces and aircraft of an enemy work in the same territory at the same time. If the Mark, despite adverse weather conditions, may be seen a downward of spring may be seen a few hardingers of spring. Joe points out that an enemy work in forces and aircraft of an enemy work in the same territory at the same time. If the Mexicans were attacking us with infantry and airmen, he contends, we could send a lot of these bombs along the ground. They would shoot upwards, Joe asserts, after reaping a crop of death on terra firma.

Like all inventors, Joe needs meney to perfect his plans. At present he is observed that the park officials are working on them and a few days of warm weather will see the tennis season in full swing.

Youths who have been playing in the indoor gossin league throughout the win-ter are back on the diamonds at Straw berry Mansion and Belmont plateau, hurling the "clusive sphere." The cance house on the East River drive below Strawberry bridge, which was destroyed by fire, has been rebuilt and is beginning to take on an animated appearance once more.

Announcement of the attractions at the opening of Woodside Park has been made by the management. Behumir Kryl and his band will make their reappearance there after an absence of two years, and will remain four weeks, Following Kryl will come William Bayne and the 5th Regiment Band of New York, and after him Alexander's Band. He will be followed by the Shannon Concert Band.
Workmen are now busy getting the park ready for the opening and several new amusement features are being installed.
