NANCY WYNNE CHATS ABOUT WOMAN'S PEACE PARTY OBJECT

Recital by Fuller Sisters Replete With Interest for Main Line Advocates of Peace and Others. Queen Mary's Needlework Guild

THE return of the Fuller sisters, of Dorset, Eng. (the very name spells H S Mattson. charm), was heartily welcomed by those of us who had had the delightful experience of hearing them before and by many others who had not that pleasure. You remember, of course, the garden party given two seasons ago by the indefatigable Ely girls at their home in Bryn Mawr, when the Fuller sisters were engaged to entertain the guests. The day proved unfortunate and so the garden party had to be moved indoors, but once inside one completely forgot the inclement weather so great was the spell cast by these three charming young women with their quaint songs. On Friday evening last they gave a concert at the Merion Cricket Club under the auspices of the Main Line branch of the Woman's Peace party. The program was arranged with a view to contrasting in each little group of songs the joy and courage of life with the grief and fear brought about by war, and so there were songs for the militarists as well as peace songs for the pacifists, and every one was-I was about to say happy-but the theme hardly made that possible-so I shall say at least every one was thrilled. Such songs as "Here Comes a Duke Riding," "The Roman Soldiers," a Kentish song; "I Would That the War Were Well Over," out of Devonshire, and "The White Cockade." a song from Cornwall, were contrasted boldly with Cornish lullabys, love songs such as "My Man John" and "Dabbling in the Dew." from Somerset; "Lizzie Lindsay" and other Scotch melodies.

The Main Line branch of the Woman's Peace party, which was organized in December of last year at the home of Mrs. Edmund C. Evans, of Ardmore, is a most energetic society and has already done wonderful educational work in the vicinity of the Main Line. They tell me that the Woman's Peace party does not believe in nonresistance nor peace at any price, but is trying to devise means other than war in settling international disputes. They are arranging for many more meetings, to which the public will be invited. The officers of the organization are Mrs. Jonathan M. Steere, president; Mrs. Frank W. Garrison, vice president and treasurer; Mrs. Harland C. Nicholson, secretary; Mrs. David G. Alsop, Mrs. William W. Collins, Mrs. Edward C. Evans and Miss Miriam Thomas, advisory board.

And the committee which arranged the recital included Mrs. Ezra Allen, Mrs. George Vaux, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Branson, Mrs. Don C. Barrett, Mrs. Leah Cadbury, Miss Gertrude Ely, Mrs. Charles Edgerton, Mrs. Edmund C. Evans, Mrs. Richard M. Gummere, Mrs. Edward Y. Hartshorne, Mrs. William C. Ladd, Mrs. Walter M. Newkirk, Mrs. D. L. Schwartz, Miss Hannah Shipley, Mrs. Noah Swayne, 2d, and Dr. Marianna Taylor.

I was somewhat amused and not a little peeved one day last week while "nosing" around for summer apparel by an incident which occurred in a millinery salon of one of our smaller shops. I found two hats which were perfect ducks, simpla little things of striped crepe de chine, and was picturing myself in one of them on the veranda of
