Lots of people are making plans for the summer already-that is, the real summer months I mean, not the spring days out in the suburban places. Many of us who know Mrs. Sussex Davis will be greatly interested to hear of the new villa she will open in Cape May. So many women of gentle birth are obliged to put their hands to the plow and work these days that there is scarcely a ripple of excitement in the ranks of society when one hears of another. However, Mrs. Davis, though not a newcomer in the field of work, does usually make other women sit up and take notice, owing to the fact that before this new villa was built Mrs. Davis had been running two houses in Cape May for several summers and my dears! such eats! The memory of some I had there last August makes my mouth water. And now this brand new villa, with many rooms, is to open in June. Mrs. Skipwith Cannell, her mother, usually stays with her. Mrs. Davis, who was Sadie Cannell, is a niece of Mrs. Cavalier Smith and a cousin of Frieda Milne and Anita Smith. Anita and her mother, by the way, are living now in New York, and Anita is doing some very good work illustrating for various magazines. NANCY WYNNE.
