

NANCY WYNNE TELLS OF OPENING OF SHAKESPEAREAN AT ACADEMY

Shakespeare Tercentenary to Be Celebrated by an Exhibition of Famous Books, Paintings and Other Objects Relating to the Poet and Playwright

DO YOU suppose any one thinks there are not enough As or Es in Shakespeare's name and so has added a few extra As and called the exhibit of things that are curious pertaining to the immortal William; Shakespeare with an attached. Be that as it may, of course we all know it is the proper thing to refer to the exhibit, and that the As is just what tells us what it is; but remembering my struggles in my school days to know whether it was Shakespeare, Shakespear or what in the world was the correct way of spelling his name, I wondered, you know. Now, it seems, it has been decided once for all and it has two As and three Es. After this long dissertation it might be well to say that the exhibition starts this evening at 8:20 o'clock at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, Broad and Cherry streets, and lasts until May 21.

So everything pertaining to Shakespeare that it has been possible to borrow from the various treasure troves of our many collectors has been loaned and a rare treat is in store for us all. The hostesses this evening will include Mrs. F. W. Abbott, Miss Katherine Bery, Mrs. James Francis Cooke, Mrs. Horace Howard Furness, Jr., Mrs. John P. Garber, Mrs. John Gribbell, Mrs. Francis B. Gummere, Mrs. Helen Pulaski Innes, Mrs. Morris Jastrow, Jr., Mrs. Helen La Barre Jayne, Mrs. John Frederick Lewis, Mrs. A. Edward Newton, Mrs. H. S. Prentiss Nichols, Mrs. Ell Kirk Price, Mrs. John C. Rolfe, Mrs. Felix E. Schelling and Mrs. W. Yorke Stevenson.

Did you ever hear of such a year of engagements, and actually in the last two weeks we are hearing of them at the rate of two a day? Yesterday the Jack Carpenters announced Elizabeth's engagement to Lieutenant Freeman Bowley, of the ordnance department, U. S. A. Elizabeth is the elder of the two girls, you know, and very attractive. She has had a varied experience in the last year. Do you remember in the summer time what a terrible fall she had from her motorcycle, which left her unconscious for many days? Then, after she regained her strength, she entered the University Hospital and took up trained nursing, but, as is often the case, it proved too strenuous—at least so I heard—and she was obliged to give up after a month's trial. Her mother was the eldest of three sisters. She was Miss Mary Fuller and her sisters are Mrs. George Bower, who was Miss Agnes Fuller, and Mrs. Rob Griffiths, who was Miss Bessie Fuller.

Elizabeth's younger sister, Eleanor Carpenter, has been teaching dancing this winter and with great success, for she is light as a little fairy and every one wants to take lessons from her. Young Jack Carpenter, who has been such a pretty girl in the Mask and Wig this week, is a younger brother. I believe no date has been settled on for the wedding as yet.

The Plays and Players are to give one of their delightful teas tomorrow afternoon in the clubrooms on 18th street. Members of the profession generally are the invited guests. There will be music and other entertaining and most of the star performers of the club will be there, for it is the usual camping ground for members on Sunday afternoons.
