The animals were unaware of the fact that they were considered dangerous until they noticed the change in the attitude of the park guards. Instead of giving them a cheery greeting the guards gave the deer an icy stare. This was followed later by general antagonism. Every time a guard saw a deer he chased it. Of course, this refers to the deer with the spelling given. It's very evident that the deer had a spy at the commissioners' meeting which decided their fate, for now they are more
