GIVEN TO ERRAND BOY AT GERMAN EMBASSY

Von Bernstorff's Doorman Mistakes Messenger, Sent by Newspaper to Get Matter for Publication, for a Telegraph Boy

MESSAGES "DECODED"

The Gegman Embassy telephoned the Washington Bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and New York World recently that the Ambassador wanted it to have a copy of the memorandum that he had given to Secretary Lansing regarding the U-boat Rituation. A telegraph boy was called and instructed $0 go to the Embassy and bring back what "they will give you there."

The boy, being wise in the way of diplomats and newspapers, followed instructions to the letter. He brought back what the doorman of the Embassy gave him, but it was not Count von Bernstorff's statement intended for the public.

WHAT THE BOY GOT.

WHAT THE BOY GOT.

What the boy brought back was con-tained in two telegraph envelopes which upon being opened were found to contain cablegrams signed by the Ambassador and addressed to officials of his Govern-and addressed to officials of his Government. There was not the slightest difficulty in "deciphering the messages," because they were in plain English.

The attention of the embassy was called to the obvious error, the telegrams returned and the statement intended by Count von Bernstorff for publication brought to the bureau office by the ever-lightligent messenger. The latter threw considerable light upon the transaction.

"Well, you see, I jes' went up there and

"Well, you see, I jes' went up there and rung the bell, and a man come to the door and gave me somethin'."

"Did you tell him what you wanted?"

"Naw. He didn't ask me. He jest give me them two envelopes and I brung them back to you like you told me."

EMBASSY EXPLAINS.

The explanation at the embassy was that the doorman thought the messenger "just an ordinary telegraph boy that had come for some telegrams."

That's where they made a mistake. This messenger was no ordinary telegraph boy; as a matter of fact he was rather ex-

BEES JOIN ARMY RANKS TO SERVE FATHERLAND AS SWIFT MESSENGERS

Treasured Secret of U. S. War Department Discovered by Dutchman and Printed in Holland Journal

IMPORTANT DETAILS SAFE

News that will be of interest to all army men was contained in a copy of La Gazette de Hollande. The Gazette, which is published at The Hague, has discovered a secret long cherished in the War Department—the use of bees as messengers.

No longer will the aide-de-camp spur his staggering horse through shot and shell to carry the message to the front. Instead he will don his gloves and mask and, going to the portable beehive back of headquarters, seize one of the faithful little insects and send the well-trained messenger through the air.

"Whoever possesses a receiving outfit can read the secrets of the wireless," says La Gazette; "one can cut the wires of the ordinary telograph, the pigeon does not always escape the bullet. Therefore other means have been searched for. In America the General Staff dreams of using, as a dispatch bearer, the bee.

"The bee, like the homing pigeon, guided by his marvelous instinct, returns to the hive from wherever he may be liberated. Tiny dispatches, which can be deciphered with the magnifying glass, can be attached to its breast.

"But something better still has been found. By an ingenious process the wings of the tiny insect are sensitized and by means of microscopic photography the message is imprinted on the wing, doing away with extra weight."

"And there you are," says La Gazette de Hollande, "tiny aeroplanes of war."

The secret is out, but all is not lost The secret is out, but all is not lost. La Gazette de Hollande has not discovered the wonderful process by which to dis-pose of the fireflies that an up-to-date enemy would send to ruin the sensitized wings of the trained bees.

The details of course cannot be divulged. Suffice it to say that as soon as an enemy's firefly reached the dark hive where the bees are waiting to have their wings photographed, its presence is made known by the action of the metal selenium, which is sensitive to light, and the alarm is given to a corps of trained dragon files. who speedily make away with the in-

WESTINGHOUSE STRIKE MAY BE COMPROMISED BY PEACE CONFERENCE

Company to Treat With Men Today and Week May See Plants in Operation

LITTLE DISORDER NOW

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—Westinghouse strikers will treat for peace with the company today and the week may see them back at work.

There was little disorder this morning. Not until the Westinghouse strike has been settled will the troops be recalled, in the opinion of General Logan. He said that the resumption of work in the plants closed earlier in the week had been accomplished without disorder of any kind. Sheriff Richards, who has sworn in 1800 deputies during the reign of lawlessness in the Turtle Creek Valley, sent a number of them to McKee's Rocks, on the other side of this city, where 2000 employes of the Pressed Steel Car Company are on strike. While the attitude of the strikers in seeking arbitration of their differences with the company gives no immediate concern, the Sheriff said he wanted the deputies on the scene in the event of trouble.

sued last night against the strike leaders and rioters now in jail and against the eight wounded strikers in the Braddock General Hospital. All are charged with being accessory to murder, both before and after the fact.

Among these is Anna Bell, the 20-yearold girl who, it is alleged, was in the forefront of all the riotous demonstrations at Turtle Creek Valley on Monday and Tuesday. This girl, who is pretty and vivacious, will not be prosecuted with the rigor which the county officials will exercise in their court action against the male leaders of the mob. It was intimated cise in their court action against the male leaders of the mob, it was intimated.

Coroner Jamison was busy touring the strike zone until late last night. All the prisoners were crrested at his instructions. Deputy Sheriff Frank Morgan, however, voiced what is considered the opinion of all the county officials concerning the girl. "She is simply a notoriety seeker," he said, "and is considered feeble-minded by all the officials who have interviewed her. She has no following among the strikers—not even among the girls in the Westinghouse plant who worked

When she was led from the Coroner's office she sat on the stone steps just be-she arrived at the jail she saked permission to sit on the steps there a moment.

"I had the glory of sitting on the Coroner's office steps," she said, "and I want the glory of sitting on the jail steps."

An attempt was made yesterday by Attorney William H. Pratt to obtain the regarded as leaders. Judge Ambrose B. Reid, in refusing the petition, said: "I will not set these men free so that they can go out and incite the workmen to further disorder and riot and blood-
