NANCY WYNNE IS INTERESTED IN PLAYS GIVEN FOR HOSPITAL

Mr. Henry C. Sheppard Will Give Four One-Act Plays at Little Theatre Tonight, Supported by Mrs. Frances Pemberton Dade and Mr. Vinton Freedley

THE Osteopathic Hospital Fund will be benefited by four plays to be given tonight in the Little Theatre, in all of which Henry C. Sheppard will take leading parts, supported by Mrs. Frances pemberton Dade and Mr. Vinton Freed-

The plays which will be presented are Sutro's "Open Door" and the "Man in the Stalls," "The Crook" and the first act of George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man."

The affair is arousing considerable in terest in various circles, as Mr. Sheppard's work is well known to theatregoers, he having appeared on many ocselons during the last season with the Stage Society and Plays and Players. Prances Dade is also well known to persons in this city as an actress. She was at one time on the professional stage in the late Joseph Jefferson's company, but preferred the amateur work to the professional atmosphere, I have been told. All of us who have seen Vinton Freedley know what very good work he has done, especially in the last season in the various performances given by the Plays and Players.

Many of us wondered why a certain wedding party was about 10 minutes late at one of the numerous Easter week weddings. The poor bridegroom was quite nervous and his best man had a time consoling him, you know, when suddenly the wedding march started and he knew she had not failed him. Just now It leaked out what had caused the delay. One of the bridesmaids, it appears, came from out of town and so her dress was made to measurements and had not even been tried on. How was she to know whether it fastened up the back or front, poor dear! Of course she could not be sure, so what did she do but put it on back part front, and only when the bridal party met at the church door did the other girls notice the peculiar make out-of-towner. There were ruffles where they were not expected to be and various other remarkable arrangements in the gown. Suddenly one more observant than the others exclaimed, "My dear, you have that dress on back part front!" and so she had to go to the house of a friend nearby and change the frock around. It all took only 10 minutes, but imagine the feelings of all concerned!

Main Line society is interested in the fifth annual Deven Dog Show, which will be held on the Horse Show grounds on May 20. An unique feature of the affair is that there will be only feminine judges, which will be a strong drawing card, the committee thinks, and the exhibition is aiready scheduled to be larger than last year's. The list of judges consists of Miss Christine Whitney, Maspeth, L. I.; Mrs. James Hadley, Mrs. Henriette Wakefield, New York: Mrs. L. G. Beecher, Hondley; Mrs. H. B. Robler, of this city; Miss Anna E. Barpard, Bryn Mawr; Mrs. C. Davies Tainter, White Plains, N. Y.; Mrs. C. M. Dowthwaite, Folkestone, England; Mrs. William T. Drew, Mount Vernon, N. Y .: Mrs. Merrill E. Gates, Mount Misco, N. Y.; Mrs. M. B. Smith, West Collingswood, N. J.; Mrs. John Newton Champlon, New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. M. C. McGlone, New York; Mrs. F. Y. Mathis, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. William Allison Fuller, Albany, N. Y.: Mrs. William H. Mulford, Wyncote, Pa.; Mrs. R. T. Harrison, New York, and Mrs. J. S. Walters,

The officers of the club are: Mr. John William Patten, president; Mr. Edward B. Chase, first vice president; Mr. William T. Hunter, second vice president; Mr. Clarence H. Clark, 3d, third vice president; Mr. Charles R. Wood, fourth vice president, and Mr. John Sinnott, secretary and treasurer.

I wonder if many of us were surprised at the announcement of Eliza Fox's engagement to Ben Tilghman. Not very many, I take it, as it had been whis-pered that Ben was very devoted; but some of us wondered if Eliza would be willing to give up her career in the New York Library, where she has been for about two years. She got rather tired of society and parties just for parties' sake, I am told, and took up a Abrary course and a consequent position in New York. She is an exceedingly beautiful girl. I remember her especially three winters ago, when "The Angels in Art" tableaux were given at the Bellevue-Stratford for some charity -I think it was the Epileptic Hospital. Well, Elliza was in a picture with Mrs. Harry Dillard and every one was raving over their beautiful hair, for they both have gorgeous locks. Ben Tilghman is an awfully nice fellow, and I wish them all felicitations possible.

The high regard in which Mrs. Cornellus Stevenson is held by every one was demonstrated yesterday afternoon at the tea given in her honor by members of the Emergency Aid Committee, for seldom have I seen such an array of wealth and fashion turn out to do heaer to one of their number. Motor after motor rolled up in quick succession, and inside the rooms were banked with blossoms, making of the workrooms a perfect salon. The charming matron herself never looked handsomer nor happier than she did in her Pale gray gown, helfing to ber hand a stiff, old-fashioned bouquet tied with the French colors, and with the orchestra in the background playing "Le Mar-NANCY WYNNE.
