

NANCY WYNNE HEARS OF OTHER CHARITY AFFAIRS THIS MONTH

Sunnyside Day Nursery Will Be Beneficiary of Large Bazaar and Children's Entertainment to Be Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Morris, Wyncote

A LARGE bazaar and fun-for-children affair will be given on Saturday afternoon, May 20, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Morris, Jr., on the corner of Washington lane and Church road, Wyncote, from 3 until 6 o'clock.

It is going to be a decided children's affair, but all the grown-ups will attend as well. Quite a number of original ideas have been offered for the arrangement of tables and clever games for the kiddies to play. All of the school set in and about Wyncote and Jenkintown will take part in the afternoon's entertainment as aides, and will wear various cunning and original costumes. Some of the aides will be Priscilla Hoopes, Margaret Stevens, Ann Meyers, Margaretta Stevens, Marguerita Boyle, Betty Sewell, Dorothy Lovering and Elizabeth Morris. The mothers of the children are greatly interested in the affair, and it seems as if the afternoon would prove a great success.

Lovers of music are looking forward with pleasure to the recital which will be given on Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the Bellevue-Stratford by Miss Estelle Neuhaus, pianiste. Miss Neuhaus gave one recital on Monday morning, which was attended largely by representative women. It is expected that Friday's affair will be quite as interesting and as well attended. It is four years since Miss Neuhaus has played here, and her work shows development in that time, into that of the great American pianistes. This season she is giving one-third of all her receipts to Edith Wharton's work for the children of Flemish and French and Belgian refugees. In a letter to Miss Neuhaus, dated March 16, Mrs. Wharton wrote: "Our refugees are increasing in number, and so many are ill as the result of the sufferings and privations they have endured that we need help more and more as the war goes on."

A very large number of women have given their names as patronesses of these musicals, and they will have the enjoyment not only of the music, but the knowledge that they have aided one of our foremost American writers in her labor of love and mercy for the suffering French and Belgians.

The absent-mindedness of one of our matrons was the cause of much merriment among her family recently. It seems the little lady purchased a ticket to Bryn Mawr, and being absorbed in her own thoughts was blissfully unconscious of the passing of many stations until she suddenly looked up and realized that it was growing dark. Then she frantically inquired of the conductor, only to learn from him that the train was pulling into Paoli! There was nothing to do but alight and wait for the down train, which she did, arriving at Bryn Mawr somewhat late for the anticipated cup of tea with a friend. Bryn Mawr reached, she with an awful jolt, "got hop," as our little mothers say, to the fact that she hadn't intended going to Bryn Mawr at all, but to Bryn Athyn. Her mysterious disappearance that afternoon caused not a little anxiety to her family, but you can imagine that it was not she who gave the real explanation.
