It will be the first time in the history of the world that light rays have controlled the movements of a great body of marchers. The system of light-ray control has been perfected by John Clark sms, chief marshal of the parade, after more than seven years of experimenta-

The idea that cavalry forces might be nors efficiently directed by light rays than by mounted messengers was con-ceived by Mr. Sims when he was a memher of the First City Troop. Mr. Sims bern a series of quiet experiments which covered a period of several years. BUSINESS GENERALLY GOOD; COLLECTIONS IMPROVING

Remittances Satisfactory, Except to Cigar Men, Says Dun's Review

Business conditions in virtually all lines are generally good, and with the excep-tion of the clgar manufacturers, collections are satisfactory or improving, according to the weekly trade review of R. G. Dun & Co.

The report, in part sava: Conditions in the local cotton yarn trade are reported as being satisfactory in every espect; prices are firm and steady and ; number of houses report that they have more orders on hand than they can take are of. The wool market is still quiet, as earlier in the season most of the mills bought heavily and are still continuing to draw on these supplies before ishing. The local textile mills appear to be run ning to their full capacity, with plenty of orders ahead at good prices. Business is generally quiet among cloak and suit manufacturers. They are looking for-ward, however, to a good fall business. Manufacturers of men's and boys' clothing says that, notwithstanding the diffi-culties they have had with labor and ob-taining certain grades of merchandiae, they have had quite a fair season; some Hardware men, continue to report a large volume of business, with collections as fair.

The iron and steel market presents no special features and continues to offer great activity. The demand for prompt deliveries of orders on hand continues vigorous, but new business is reported to have somewhat quieted down.

Dealers in electrical goods report a satisfactory volume of business in household specialties and considerable inquiry in connection with building operation work. The leather market is atrong and prices continue high, with stocks on hand low. Glazed kid dealers report trade a little less active, although skins are hard to get and prices remain high for skins and finished leather. Shoe dealers report sales moderate, although the volume of business is greater than several previous seasons. No change is noted in the lumber situa-tion here and the freight situation continues to have a depressing effect on the market. The building trade is quite active and the volume of new business is still increas-ing. Competition in bidding is keen and some work under course of construction is believed to be taken on small margin of profit. The high cost and still advancing prices on iron, steel, hardware and lum-ber adds materially to the total cost of building operations, and in some lines 1 bor is a decided factor.

The paper market shows some improve ment; manufacturers and jobbers report an increase in volume of sales, but some mills are experiencing difficulty in filling orders, owing to the shortage in raw matetal. Prices have advanced somewhat. Paint manufacturers, dealers in paints and painters' supplies report steady increase in this line of business.

Providing for Distant Wants Held Up by International Situation

NEW YORK, May 12 .- In its weekly review the Dry Goods Economist says: "There are indications that retailers are more inclined than of late to go slow in providing for their distant wants. Such a policy is dictated by the international situation, as well as by prudence, from a merchandising standpoint. "While no one can say that the end of

"While no one can say that the end of the war is in sight, the persistent rumors as to efforts on one side, at least, in the direction of peace should not be over-looked. Nor ought huyers to be unduly influenced by the continued price advances in certain lines of merchandise. Such advances are based largely on the higher warsa now being noid to operatives. wages now being paid to operatives. Whether the supply of labor in this coun-try will be largely increased at the close of the war is a subject of diversified views. The matter is worth considering, however, when an effort is being made to forecast the duration of the present up-ward tendency in merchandise quotations. "In splite of the wage advances, lower quotations on all kinds of slik fabrics from stock may be looked for within the next 30 to 60 days from such manufacturers as have been taking advantage of the shortage of such goods to ask excep-tionally high prices."

The Son of Tarzan

Sequel to All the Tarzan Stories

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS has written a new Tarzan tale-the sequel to all Tarzan stories previously published. The vivid narrative power of Burroughs was never displayed to better advantage than in this the sequel to his former triumphs. The one hundred thousand readers who have followed the deeds of Tarzan in the Evening Ledger during the last year will find in "The Son of 'Tarzan" a worthy successor, and one which will more than fulfill their expectations. The story starts in
