ne committee, of course, is perfectly anted over the fact of the Ambassas coming as it is not a usual thing. the least, and Philadelphia is ed by his visit here. Mrs. Poccardi, s charming wife of the Royal Italian of this city, is deeply interested and has done splendid work in encouraring the affair.

To begin with, the ever-popular and us Italian baritone, Pasquale amato, will sing several arias, the prindeal one to be the Prologue from "I uscel," which is quite the favorite ione aris of the music-loving world. all the singers who will appear are Ital-Madame Gina Viafora, the wellsnown soprano, will be heard in various polos, and Luca Botta, a tenor of singuar sweetness, also a member of the olitan Opera Company, will sing, while Aurelio Giorni, a noted planist,

The Martini Symphony Orchestra of 60 members, under the direction of Etters Martini, will furnish the string ic. Altogether it bids fair to be most brilliant performance.

A number of prominent persons have uken boxes, among them Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Van Rennselaer, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Custis Harrison, Miss A. K. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. George Quintard Horwitz, Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson, Mrs. Benjamin Miller, chairman of the Italan Relief Committee of the Emergency Aid Mrs. Miller, by the way, will have se her guests Judge J. Willis Martin and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Heary. Then the Italian Relief Committes has taken no less than four boxes and three others have been subscribed to by Mr. Francis Rawle, Mrs. William H. Greene and Mrs. Alexander Brinton Core. Among others greatly interested ue Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis Scull, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wright, Miss Mary Mitchell, Mrs. Julian Story, Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, Mrs. J. Sellers Bancreft, Miss Beatrice Wilson, Miss Mabel Brice, Mr. Joseph G. Rosengarten and Miss Nina Lea.

I don't know what is to be done about the New York modistes-the way they go on is something scandalous. Remem er last year the awful moment when Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Megargee Wright met out at Memorial Hall at the opening of the Americanization exhibit, each wearing identical hats. Well, my dear, worse than that happened out at the Whitemarsh races lately, for no less han three smart women met on that my sward in identical frocks, Mrs. Billie der, who is quite one of the pretist of our young matrons and one of best dressed as well, was one; Mrs. man, of New York, another, and Hrs. George Willing, Jr., the third. Now id anything make one feel more dismuntled, even with the sweetest disposilon in the world, than to see oneself a various sizes walking about at a party, especially after having paid an mormous sum for a supposedly exclugive model gown?

I am afraid New York couturieres are rather up against it in both cities, the special one anyhow who did this special thing. To be sure one was blue, and the others a different hue; but they were so distinctive in style, with rather sovere lines and little capes between the thoulders. It really quite annoyed me, a simple onlooker, and the way these three women behaved about it was more than admirable, for it was trying, you will admit. NANCY WYNNE.

MRS. WILSON AGAIN BRILLIANT PARASOLS MAKE THEIR DEBUT

Most Ornate Sunshades Ever First Lady of the Land Sends Beheld Are Daily on Boardwalk Charity

ATLANTIC CITY, May 13. Parasols carried on the Boardwalk by seashore fashionables are exceedingly fly, all of which does not mean they are in the form of kites. Sunshades of bright green silk are appliqued on the under side with white silk birds, or if milady's taste requires something more ornate, there are parasols dotted with circles of bright-colored silks. The patch, once the sign of poverty, is now considered a smart adornment for hats, wraps and frocks, and the various accessories as well. The black beauty patch, held in such high favor by the belies of 50 years ago, has also re-turned to vogue.

Mustard and sulphur hues continue to dominate the fashion parade on the great wooden way. Mrs. Jack Scott, of Wil-mington, who with Mr. Scott is spending the month at the Mariborough-Blenheim, wore today a sulphur and white checked coat in cape form, with a brown straw hat faced with sulphur silk.

Miss Mae Walsh, who recently joined the Philadelphia colony at the shore, was on the walk this afternoon attired in a dark blue coat suit and dark blue straw hat with crown and quill of sulphur silk. Miss Mae Petty, who is at Haddon Hall, wore a dark blue worsted coat suit and blue sports hat faced with silk of a brighter hue.

Mrs. Leroy Harvey, of Wilmington, was on the "deck" of Blenheim watching the walk pageant. Mrs. Harvey were a navy blue suit with white fox fur and a black quilled chapeau.

Sir John Eaton and Lady Eaton, of Toronto, who have been here for several weeks, entertained at bridge at the Brighton early in the week with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams, who are also making the Brighton their seashore home.

Hand-made Mouchoir to

One of the most interesting articles to be displayed at the Fete Champetre to be held on the grounds of the Merion Academy, May 25 and 27, for the benefit of the Mater Misericordiae Hespital, will be an exquisite hand-made handkerchief sent by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson to Mrs. P. F. Moylan, who, with Mrs. Frank Hardart, will have the novelty booth. handkerchief which Mrs. Wilson sent with "best wishes for the success of the ha-zaar" is inset with an artistic filet design representing a violin player. Every one loves noveltles, and the young bride, as well as the white-haired grandmother, is sure to find just what she is looking for at this attractive booth. Among the novelties already donated are exquis-te hand-painted chocolate cups, novel em-broidered tablepieces, odd embroidered pilows, old-fashioned oval mahogany picture frames on stands, bridge table ovel vases, tea trays. The following young girls will assist Mrs. Moylan and Mrs. Hardart: Miss Lydia Parrell, Miss Marguerite McAllister, Miss Agnes Moy-lan, Miss Mary Benis, Miss Agnes Gil-lesple, Miss Gertrude Cronin, Miss Helen Cronin, Miss Julia Moylan, Miss Stella McShane, Miss Sue Davlin, Miss Mary Hardart, Miss Erma Hardart, Miss Helen Moylan, Miss Marie Roche, Miss Helen Carr, Miss Katherine Donnelly, Miss Hilda Deueding, Miss Florence Hardart, and Mrs. Edward White, Mrs. McIlhenny and

Mrs. Sidel. Another artistic booth will be the parasol and fan table, where milady will find just the chic sunshade and dainty fan needed to complete her picturesque sum-mer attire. There will be a wide selection to choose from, including exquisite hand-painted parasols in old rose and blue, with novel handles, also hand painted, and fans that are so dainty they look as if a whiff of sea air could blow them away. Mrs. Daniel G. Murphy, who is directing this table, has only recently moved to this city from Johnstown. She is en-thusiastically interested in the success of raising funds for the new hospital, and has spent much time on her table. She is assisted by Mrs. Francis P. Hughes, Jr., Mrs. Le Vin, Mrs. James Kelly, Miss Elizabeth McManus and Miss Olivia Hardy.

An original and wide-awake postoffice will be a special feature, run in con-nection with the parasol table. Four pupils of the Merion School, Miss Marion Grant, Miss Katherine Thompson, Miss Jeannette Thompson and Miss Helen Casanave, will act as youthful messengers, with their office as postmistresses designated by blue bands marked U. S. P. O. They will go about among the visitors telling first this one and then that one that a special delivery letter, telegram, cablegram or wireless message is waiting at the post-office for them. But they are messengers of cheer, and the letters handed out from of cheer, and the letters have do to the quaint little postoffice while the expectant one stands shaded from the sun rays by the overhanging canopy will be full of pleasant surprises for fair maid and man. The letters are written by a wise hand for all ages and both sexes.

Weddings

ROWLEY-DAVIS. One of the most attractive of the early spring weddings took place this atternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Germantown, when Miss Catherine Hunter Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, of West Hortter street, became the bride of Mr. Charles F. Rowley, son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis H. Rowley, of Boston.

Rowley, of Boston.

The church was most artistically decorated with spring flowers, and the chancel was banked with palms and ferns. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stewart P. Keeling, rector of the church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin and tulle. A long court train hung in graceful folds from her shoulders. The skirt of satin was short and very full, with an overskirt of tulle, also full and cut in points at the hem. The bodice was of tulle, with large revers of satin embroidered with seed pearls. The veil was of lace becomingly arranged with orange blossoms and caught on the train with a wreath of the biossoms. A round bouquet of white orchids and illies of the valley was carried.

The maid of honor was Miss Mar-garet H. Davis, a sister of the bride. The matron of honor was Mrs. Henry D. Booth, Jr., who will be remembered as Miss Leonora Denniston, and the brides-maids were Miss Caroline Murdock, of Riverton; Miss Katherine Potter, Miss Isabel B. Stoughton and Miss Amey Massey Develin, all of Philadelphia.

They were dressed alike in dainty pink and Nile green; each separate skirt of tulle was edged with a narrow band of pink taffeta and peeping out from band of pink taffeta and peeping out from the folds of tulle were several pink rose-buds. The bodices were all of the pink and Nile green tulle, finished around the collar in fichu effect. Silver shoes and stockings were worn and the finishing touch was added by large leghorn hats with Georgette crepe centres, the crown surrounded by a shirred band of the crepe and with one pink rose on the brim. They carried large bunches of pink hydranand with one pink rose on the brim. They carried large bunches of pink hydrangeas, and the maid of honor had a large ouquet of blue hydrangeas.

Mr. Rowley had Mr. Payson Dana, of Boston, Mass., as his best man, and the ushers were Mr. James T. Hunter, of North Adams; Mr. Edmond Rowley, of Boston; Mr. Hatherly Foster, Jr., Mr. Sherburne Penhallow, Mr. William Ruhl and Mr. George A. Parker, Following the company of the lam Rum and Mr. George A. Parker. Pol-lowing the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Hortter street, west of Wayne avenue. After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Rowley will be at home after Sep-tember 1, at 1463 Beacon street, Brook-line, Mass.
