

WITH A ANALYZES TRACK TEAMS OF PACIFIC COAST—MACKS MEET ST. LOUIS BROWNS

STRONG IN THE INTERCOLLEGIATES University of California and Leland Stanford Send Splendid Athletes SECOND APPEARANCE

By TED MEREDITH

Many of the track followers do not know that we are to have two new entrants this year in our intercollegiate at Boston, and of those who know this, many do not know just what influence these newcomers will have on the outcome of the meet. These newcomers are Leland Stanford and California University.

The intercollegiate entries are out and on looking over them I found that these two universities will both have ten men on from the West to try to win from our best men here.

In the second time California has sent a team East, but for Stanford it is their first appearance. They both have good teams this year and will come very nearly wrecking all the dope on our eastern stars. Their teams are made up in a peculiar way in that Stanford is strong only on the track while California has mostly field men.

Several people I have talked with are of the opinion that one of these teams is liable to spring a surprise and win. This is hardly possible, for neither team will have enough men to score a high enough total. They both will, however, come in for a good number of points and will be big factors.

Stanford has one man in Murray, brother of Lindsey Murray, the California tennis star, a man they can use in any two of four events and be sure of him scoring either first or second in any of them. His reputation as a hurdler is well known. He is national A. 1. champion in the 150 yards dash, and in gaining the title he beat best Kelly, of California, and Simpson, of Missouri. That is enough to say about his hurdling. No one in the East could hope to beat him if he enters these events.

But the Pacific coast collegians may come East with more than the idea of scoring points for their university. They may entertain the same feeling that exists between the East and West in every national and Olympic championship meet, and that is for the West to beat the East in total points scored. If they do and arrange their teams for the object of point scoring they will probably use Murray in the sprints and send Ted Freble, the California captain, and Norton, another Stanford star, after the hurdles.

Good Westerners Both Freble and Norton are better than our best in the East on paper. They have been within a yard of Murray when he was being crushed with 15 flat and 15.5 seconds on several occasions. If the trip doesn't throw them off their condition they can take care of first and second on Murray to show what he can do in 150 yards and 200 yards dashes.

Shown his worth in the West, and I am as good a furlong runner as will appear at the intercollegiate, but in the 100 he will find Smith and Tleschner two ground-swell men.

Murray won three events in the Stanford-California dual meet, 100 yards in 10.5, 200 yards in 22.5, and 400 yards in 1.15. Each of these events, which shows the culture of a sprinter Murray is second to Murray in both these sprints was Wadsworth, of California, who also is a sprinter of no mean ability.

The low hurdles were won by Norton, of Stanford, in 24.1-5 seconds, which is the fastest time on record for this year. The field events in this meet were also won with excellent marks and are even better than those shown this year in the East.

Gilderleeve, of California, threw the hammer 154 feet 3 inches; Caughey put it 140 feet 6 1/2 inches, three California men, Wright, Frisbie and Nichols, tied at 12 feet in the pole vault; Sisson jumped 23 feet 4 1/2 inches in the broad and Maker cleared 6 feet 4 1/2 inches in the high jump.

Have we had any such performances in the East this year? We have not, and these winners are pushed to their best in order to do these records, which means there are several other good men just a few inches behind who when they come East will make bids for seconds and thirds.

Clever Jumper Maker, although beaten by Sisson in this meet, did 23 feet in the pole vault in the Coast Championships; Nichols has done 6 feet 4 inches in the high jump, Liveridge can do 4 feet in the shot and is the Pacific Coast champion, so we can expect all these men to give good accounts of themselves when they come East.

The middle distances in this meet did not come up to the performances in the other events, the mile being the only one of time made. This was won by Wilson, of Stanford, in 4.25, as fast as any one in the East has done so far.

We can look for this bunch of athletes to put a crimp in the scoring of our star Eastern teams, and with them entered it makes it look to me as if a comparatively small number of points will win the championships. Cornell will find that some of her men who last year were good for points will fall by the wayside this year or be contented with a place lower down the line.

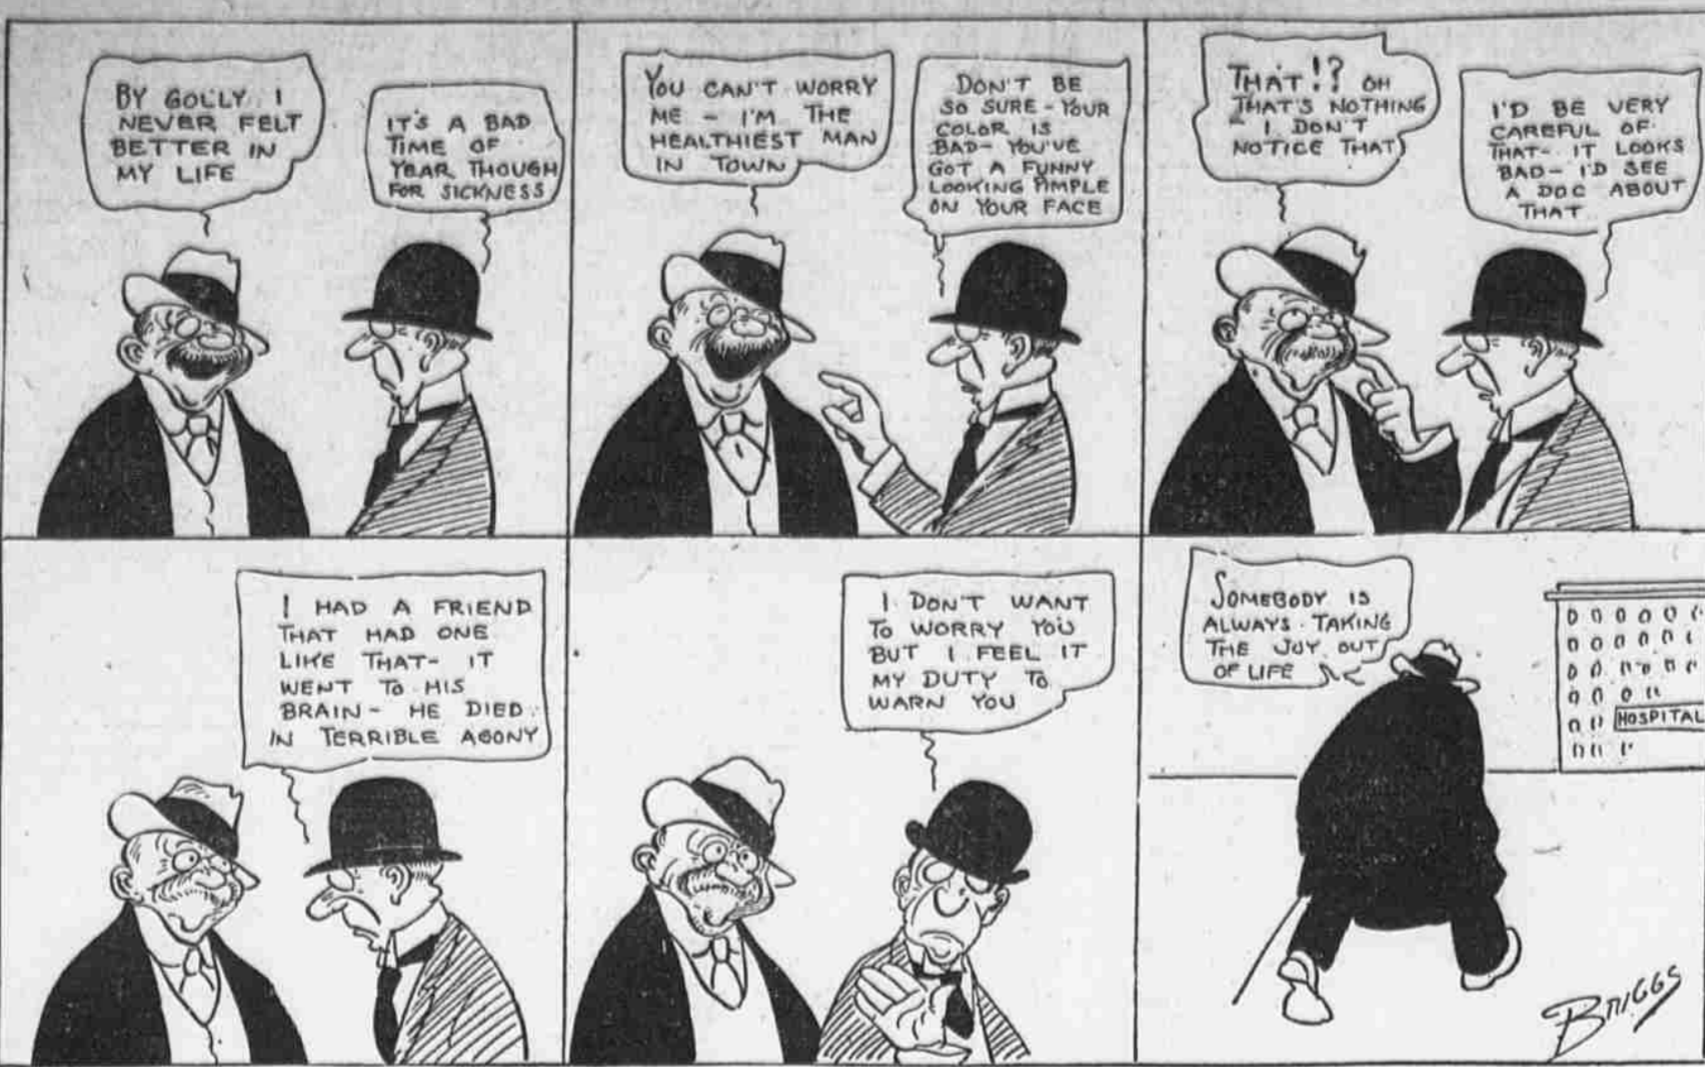

Take the high hurdles for instance, with Murray running; the California collegians will place three men and very probably the first three places—Murray, Freble and Norton. This leaves but two places for the eastern hurdlers.

In the low hurdles Murray can again win, while Norton, with a 24.1-5 record, and Meredith House, of California, with a record of 22.4-3, chasing him through for the next two places, leaves but two places again for the East.

Cornell will suffer here, for they have three high and three low hurdles who have been counted on to score.

There is a chance that these men will not be in this good condition when they land here after a hard week's travel, and if so all this dope will go wrong; but they are mostly all old competitors; that is, they have been in the game for a few years, and are a good, husky bunch, who can stand the changes and yet perform well, so I think they will produce when the time comes.

"Ted" Moulton, the Stanford trainer, has brought several teams across the continent since he was in the game, and he will know how to keep them right for this event.

ELMER MYERS TO PITCH FINAL AGAINST BROWNS

Mack's Sensational Youngster Will Oppose One of Jones' Southpaws

The postponement of the third game of the series between the Athletics and Browns assures the Mackmen of better than an even break of a series for the first time this season. Even if the Browns should win today, the Mackmen would still have the edge as a result of the first two victories, but Manager Mack does not intend to permit Jones' team to get a single game.

It is likely that Elmer Myers will be sent against the Browns in the final game this afternoon, as Manager Mack wants to use the sensational youngster again on Saturday and must pitch him today to enable him to rest for two days prior to his first start against the White Sox.

High jump—Won by Mallin (S); second, Nichols (C); third, Lachmund (S). Height, 6 ft. 4 1/2 in.

Broad jump—Won by Sisson (S); second, Maker (C); third, Lockard (C). Distance, 22 ft. 6 1/2 in.

Pole vault—Tie at 12 feet between Fisher, Wright and Nichols, all C.

"PENNSYLVANIAN" WANTS CHEERING SECTION CHANGED

THE Daily Pennsylvanian, the official daily newspaper of the University, through its editorial columns, advocates the changing of the student cheering sections at athletic contests on Franklin Field to the center sections in either the North or South stands. It is claimed that the student body demands such a change, and that through such an innovation the Athletic Association would gain better support and a greater degree of confidence from the undergraduate body.

There is no doubt of the fact that better support and greater confidence is needed from the undergraduates. At the present time there are nearly 7000 students matriculated at the University, yet the undergraduate membership in the Athletic Association consists of less than 1400. Evidently, something is wrong, but that this discouraging lack of student support is due to the present location of the cheering sections seems unthinkable.

Present Sections In the first place, the present sections are reserved for the students are most desirable for track meets, being at the finish of both dashes, both hurdle races and of the mile and two-mile runs and directly in front of the high jump and broad jump. No better seat could be desired for witnessing a baseball game than one in the student cheering section.

The only remaining objection would then pertain to the seating at the football games. A seat in the cheering section costs the holder of an athletic association membership book about 35 cents a game. He has a good view of the field and is associated with his friends; in excited by the action and the cheering. It is possible that he would be so small as to think of himself: "I should be sitting in the middle of the stands for my 35 cents. What right have they to sell those seats for $2?" No fair-minded student on the campus, knowing the difficulties under which the athletic association labors, would begrudge them the opportunity of making that profit.

Move Impossible Under the present condition of things such a move would be impossible. The support accorded the association by such a change would not begin to make up for the loss which would occur through the decreased amount of high-priced seats which would be for sale.

Atlantic coast city championship tourneys in triples and doubles will start tonight on the Terminal and Costa's new alleys.

There are 80 individuals, 40 two-men teams and 30 three-men teams engaged in the Atlantic coast championships. All the events will be from scratch.

The leaders in the National Association five-man team tourney, which will be brought to a close tomorrow night, are Class A, Tigers, 2700; Class B, Franklin, 2701; Class C, Post Press, 2741. The three-men matches will start on Wednesday night on Keystone alleys. After the triples are concluded the doubles will begin.

Fick is the leading bowler of Philadelphia League, with an average of over 197 pins for 34 games.

Evening Ledger rolled 2622 in the National Association tourney, taking third place in Class B series.

The teams to roll tonight in the National tourney are: Class A, Smith, 2700; Class B, Edouard, Pirates and Artisan Reds. Will the leaders be displaced?

The Atlantic coast tourney will award prizes to teams knocking down the greatest number of split spares and also to those totaling the greatest number of strikes.

Flagg Wins Harvard Golf Title

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 17.—W. Alston Flagg, a Harvard freshman from New York, won the individual championship of the college last night by beating L. M. Lombard, of Worcester, Mass., a junior, by 8 up and 6 to play.

MISS CUTHRIE DANGEROUS

Likely to Give Molla Bjurstedt Run at Tennis

NEW YORK, May 17.—Of the three-score players entered in the woman's metropolitan tennis championship tournament at Forest Hills but 10 remained to start play today. The remainder had been eliminated by defeat.

Miss Martha Cuthrie, of Pittsburgh, continues to show the form she displayed opening day, and is now looked upon as the one who will give Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the champion, a fight.

Eight Assistants for Speedy Rush

PRINCETON, N. J., May 17.—Eight new Princeton coaches have been appointed to assist Speedy Rush in supervising the Tiger football team next fall. Most of the men have had experience in coaching and all have been stars in their time on Princeton teams. They are Philip H. White, '12; Harold H. Baker, '16; Ed. Shaw, '16; and H. E. Cullisbank, at present a student in Princeton Theological Seminary, and formerly captain of the Washington and Jefferson eleven.

Not in Form

There is much more to be told about this matter. Lachmund, the best Stanford high jumper, did not hit his form in this meet and had to be content with third place; Nichols, who was second in the 250-yard low hurdles, must have been doing under 25 seconds, while Richardson and Moulton, second and third in the hammer, were both throwing over 140 feet.

The reason, I think, that neither of these teams can win the meet individually is that while they have a good bunch of stars they are, however, equally divided between the two teams. But these 25 athletes—16 Stanford and 9 California men—will carry our Easterners to pieces trying to beat out the place in the sprints, hurdles and field events.

That's life in sport. In this meet they were for middle and distance runners. Where they lose in the field with the rest

BIG SHAKE-UP MADE IN PENN CREW BY WRIGHT

THE shake-up which was expected in the Pennsylvania crews after their miserable showing in the Henley races last Saturday came yesterday, when Coach Wright sent four of his varsity oarsmen to the junior eight. This shift may or may not be permanent, as Wright has four weeks remaining before the Touchstone regatta, but in all probability he will have his final combination together after this week.

The four bow oarsmen, Geis, Guenther, Gotham and Winkman, were relegated to the second boat, while Glanz, Madeira and Littleton, of the Juniors, and Duryea, of the third varsity, were sent to the first boat. Captain Chickering, who has been rowing No. 7, was sent back to his old position at bow. "Chick" has lost so much weight lately that he is altogether too light for the No. 7 seat. Littleton, who has been shifted to his place, was a member of the varsity two years ago, but was forced to discontinue rowing last year on account of illness.

Glanz is a big strapping 174-pound oarsman, who rowed on the freshman crew last year and has been showing up finely all season. He was sent to the No. 3 position. Well, who has been rowing No. 5 in the varsity, was shifted to the No. 2 seat. This will necessitate his rowing on the port side, but as he has had several years experience on that side, should have no trouble on that account. Madeira has been rowing No. 6 in the junior, but was sent to No. 4 in the varsity. Duryea is probably the most inexperienced oarsman of the lot, but he is strong and gets a good deal of work out of his oar. Pepper, the No. 6 man, and Ross, the stroke, were the only two men in the boat who were not shifted. Geis, bow on the varsity, was sent to the corresponding position on the Juniors, while Guenther was sent to the No. 4 seat in the second eight. Gotham took Littleton's place at No. 7 in the Juniors, while the No. 3 man in the Juniors, W. Geis, took the third boat, while Madeira, who was 3 in the third boat, was advanced to the seat.

The varsity combination, as it stood yesterday, outweighs the former eight by 100 pounds. Wright wants to get a heavier crew together, as he believes it will have better chance in the longer races like the Touchstone regatta. The freshman crew was kept intact, and they will probably row this same combination for the remainder of the season.

Coach Wright took both the varsity and Juniors up the river at an easy pace, so that they could get swinging together before he attempts to get them racing. Coach Wright was unable to get out to his practice, so that his strategy for the week was kept intact, and they will probably row this same combination for the remainder of the season.

The varsity as it stood yesterday was: No. 1, Duryea, 5; Pepper, 6; Littleton, 7; Madeira, 8; Geis, 9; Chickering, 10; Winkman, 11; Tilden, 12; Gotham, 13; and Drayton, stroke. The training table has been abandoned for the remainder of the week, but will start again next Monday, when strict training commences again.
