HONOR FOR DOCTOR GEIBEL

Blind Composer's Lecture and Cantata on Program

A complimentary testimonial will be tendered to Adam Geibel, the blind composer, tonight at the Bishop Nicholson Memorial Reformed Episcopal Church, 16th and Rockland streets, Logan, by his friends.

The program will consist of the lecture, "The Story of My Life," by Doctor Geibel, and the rendition of his cantata, "The Nativity," by the Stetson Chorus of 50 voices, augmented by the choir of the church.

The soloists will be Miss May Farley, soprano; Miss Edithe McClellan, alto; John Owens, tenor, and John J. Joyce, baritone. Clarence Kohlmann will be the accompanist.

RIDLEY PARK MINSTRELS

Proceeds This Year for Taylor Hospital and Fire Company

The seventh annual minstrel show, "The Big Noise," will be given at the Ridley Park Auditorium on June 1, 2 and 3, the proceeds this year being for the benefit of the Taylor Hospital and the Ridley Park Fire Company.

The musical director, Griff L. Jones, who is also president of the school board, has secured a splendid chorus, and some of the latest song hits will be rendered by an excellent company.

The end men this year will be Harold A. Lantz, John M. Kelly, Charles P. O'Connor and A. S. Rodgers. The interlocutor will be Henry W. Huse, who is also general manager of the company.

You Know 'Em

"What sort of a chap is Binkins?"

"Oh, he's one of those guys that goes in for indoor golf in the winter time and outdoor checkers in the summer."

ASTRAL PLANE REGULAR ARMAGEDDON SPIRITUALISTS' LEADER AVERS

Spirit World Duplicates Belligerent Conditions Somewhere in France, Galicia or Mesopotamia, Medium Henry Thomsen Says—Old Residenters Disturbed

The spirit world has been turned topsy turvy by millions of militant souls which have been plunged into eternity by the European war, according to Henry Thomsen, noted medium of the winter colony of the Parkland Spiritualists' Home and Camp Meeting Association, Parkland, Pa.

Every Friday night, Thomsen says spirits appear at his home in Parkland and tell of the chaos in the spirit world. Thousands of German, English, French, Russian and Italian soldiers who have met their death on the battlefield arrive in spiritland, according to Thomsen, with all of the racial animosities and war hatreds which gripped them when they occupied earthly bodies. They show a disposition, says Thomsen, to continue the earthly strife.

French soldiers, who were asphyxiated in the trenches by gas bombs, or hurled into the spirit world during an artillery duel or a bayonet charge, are eager, says Thomsen, to resume the argument with the spirits of German soldiers. A like tendency is shown by Englishmen, who were the victims of submarine warfare or Zeppelin raids. On the other hand, the spirits of German soldiers, Thomsen asserts, seek for settlement of grievances with the spirits of their terrestrial enemies.

"Is it strange, then," said Thomsen, "that the spirit world is upset as never before since the beginning of all things?

"The older residents of spiritland are doing their best to cope with the situation. They have organized committees to calm the militancy of the great influx of spirits of former soldiers of the warring factions of Europe. It is a ticklish situation, but order and quiet will soon emerge from the chaos. These spirits of departed soldiers will soon see that they will have no time or disposition for strife in the spirit world."

One of the spirits which Thomson says gives a weekly report of the doings in the spirit world is that of Peter Pitschner, father of Mrs. Thomsen, and a captain in the Prussian army during the Franco-Prussian war.

HARD LUCK, TRADDLES!

Too Bad the Wife Won't Let You Go Out Tonight

Ex-Secretary of War Garrison said in a recent Camden interview:

"Your question is on its surface innocent, but if I answered it I should be giving myself away as lamentably as poor Traddles.

"Mrs. Traddles said to the poor old boy one night—he couldn't call his soul his own, you know:

"'Timothy, this article says here that those who are unlucky in love are lucky at cards. Do you believe it?'

"'Sounds reasonable, Jane; it sounds reasonable,' Traddles answered briskly. 'By the way, there's a big poker game on at the cigar store, and if you'll let me go out tonight I feel it in my bones that I'll come back with something handsome.'"

Loud Announcement

Miss Hitts—Clara has told every one in the neighborhood of her engagement to you, Woodby Wed—Indeed! Why she promised not to whisper it to a soul. Miss Hitts—Oh, she didn't whisper it—she shouted it.
