

NANCY WYNNE HEARS MORE ABOUT DOINGS OF THE CHEVY CHASERS

Examinations and Teas Hold Full Sway During the Last Days of the Two Weeks of Enforced Discipline Enjoyed by Matrons and Maidens at Camp

JUST imagine, the Lady Rookies actually had a fully equipped field kitchen on the grounds and watched the matrons put up the stove and knead 250 pounds of flour into bread, which took from 7 a. m. till 3 p. m. to do.

The greatest thing of all was the delicious buns the matrons made, and every one was running round the place making bandages, doing lessons, taking exams and eating buns at the same time. Tea parties are all the rage and the various captains of the different companies have been entertaining furiously every afternoon during the last week at Raucher's, the sweet store of Washington. Just imagine those supposedly dainty girls sitting there eating onion sandwiches, and raw ones at that. Sophie Blapham went down to the camp on Thursday and left on Saturday to come home again. She visited her grandmother, Mrs. Casey, while at the camp.

But of all the joys of that camp, there have been none so great as lying on those army cots with every possible covering one could get; keeping on all of one's clothes and adding top coats and all other possible paraphernalia and after finally getting warm enough to doze off, hearing the snoring of one's four companions in various keys. Of course they will live to get over it, but the trial has been a great one, let me say with perfect frankness. My dears, do you know that one fork, one spoon and one knife is provided for each person and each one has to reach out for ham or potatoes or dessert with her one fork or spoon. It must be choice, I'm thinking.

On Wednesday the camp will break up and home will come the warriors with their newly acquired knowledge of hellsgrahns, everything, wigwags, bar cooking and everything else, even to the darning, cooking and everything else, even to the Goose step, which they have also learned.

Pauline Diston and her pretty mother, Mrs. William Diston, will come over from New York today, and this evening Mr. and Mrs. Petey Roberts will give a dance in the ballroom of their beautiful new home, "Bella Vista," in Villanova, for Pauline, who is their niece. Mrs. Roberts was Mary Diston, a sister of Pauline's father, who died more than a year ago. The guests tonight will be chiefly of last year's and this year's debutante set. Pauline came out in this city, but owing to her father's death many affairs which were to have been given for her were of course given up. This year she and her mother decided to live in New York. Her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Dunlop Diston, live in Chestnut Hill, so now and again she comes on to visit, and she has many friends among the girls who made their debut the same year.

Speaking of parties, my dears, such a hilarious little affair as I heard of lately. It was just a little dance and it ended at 1 o'clock, and all the little girls and boys went home save one little bunch of five, one girl and four attending swains. They decided they were hungry, so it would be just as well to get some breakfast somewhere. So straightway they hastened to the home of a young matron who had been at the dance and had gone home, and rousing her from her slumbers they made her dress and let them in and proceeded to visit the refrigerator, and such eat! Well, they finally got home about 3 g. m.

Julia Klee Stein and Miss Anna Louise Woodruff.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Ross Carver, of 8129 Newhall street, have gone to Hirtop, Nev., where they will spend several months. Mrs. Carver, 52, and her two little children, Miss Gertrude Carver and Master Emory Carver, to Provincetown for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Bennis, Chew and Price streets, will open their cottage at Chelsea on June 15.
