SAFE AND SANE FOURTH TO MARK CELEBRATION AT CHESTNUT HILL

BR .

Business Men's Association to Continue Custom Successfully Established in 1914 and 1915

AN ELABORATE PROGRAM

"A safe and same Fourth of July" celebra-tion is being planned by the members of the Chestnut Hill Business Men's Association, and committees appointed by President F, P, Glynn, of the association, are at work on plans for the celebration to take place on independence Day. The Chestnut Hill Business Men's Asso-ciation was among the first associations of ciation was among the first associations of like nature in Philadelphia to advocate, two years ago, a safe and same Fourth of July, and in both 1914 and 1915 met with marked success in their endeavors. It is proposed this year to perfect plans for a more elab-erate celebration than has been yet given in

Chestnut Hill. The outline of the different events pro-posed includes patriotic exercises on St. Martin's Athletic Field with prominent speakers in attendance, athletic sports of varied sort, special entertainment for the smaller children of Chestnut Hill, a grand bitoricel paceaut in which a number of historical pageant in which a number of floats will depict the important events in the history of the United States, and an elaborate display of fireworks in the evening. Two teams of 10 men each, all members of the association-team No. 1, captained by M Francis Brown, and team No. 2, by Step on Ager-will make concerted effort to a cure subscriptions from the citizens of Chestnut Hill in order to make the celebration a great success. The team cap-tains have entered into a friendly rivalry and agreed between themselves that the team securing the smallest total subscrip-tion shall buy its opponent team a dinner.

About a week ago a vaudeville performance was given in Josiyn Hall, German-town and Highland avenues, by the asso-ciation for the benefit of the Fourth of July fund, and a goodly sum as a nucleus realized.

The Entertainment Committee of the association, which has the arrangements for the celebration in charge, consists of Jo-seph P. White, who is chairman; William J. McCoenahan, Pringle Borthwick, Stephen Ager, John Dertran, Jr., Christopher Hart, McClellan Gray and John J. McCrea.
