

ILLUSTRATED

Evening Ledger

THURSDAY
June 8, 1916

SIDELIGHTS AND SCENERY NOTED AROUND THE CORNERS OF THE CONVENTION HALL IN CHICAGO

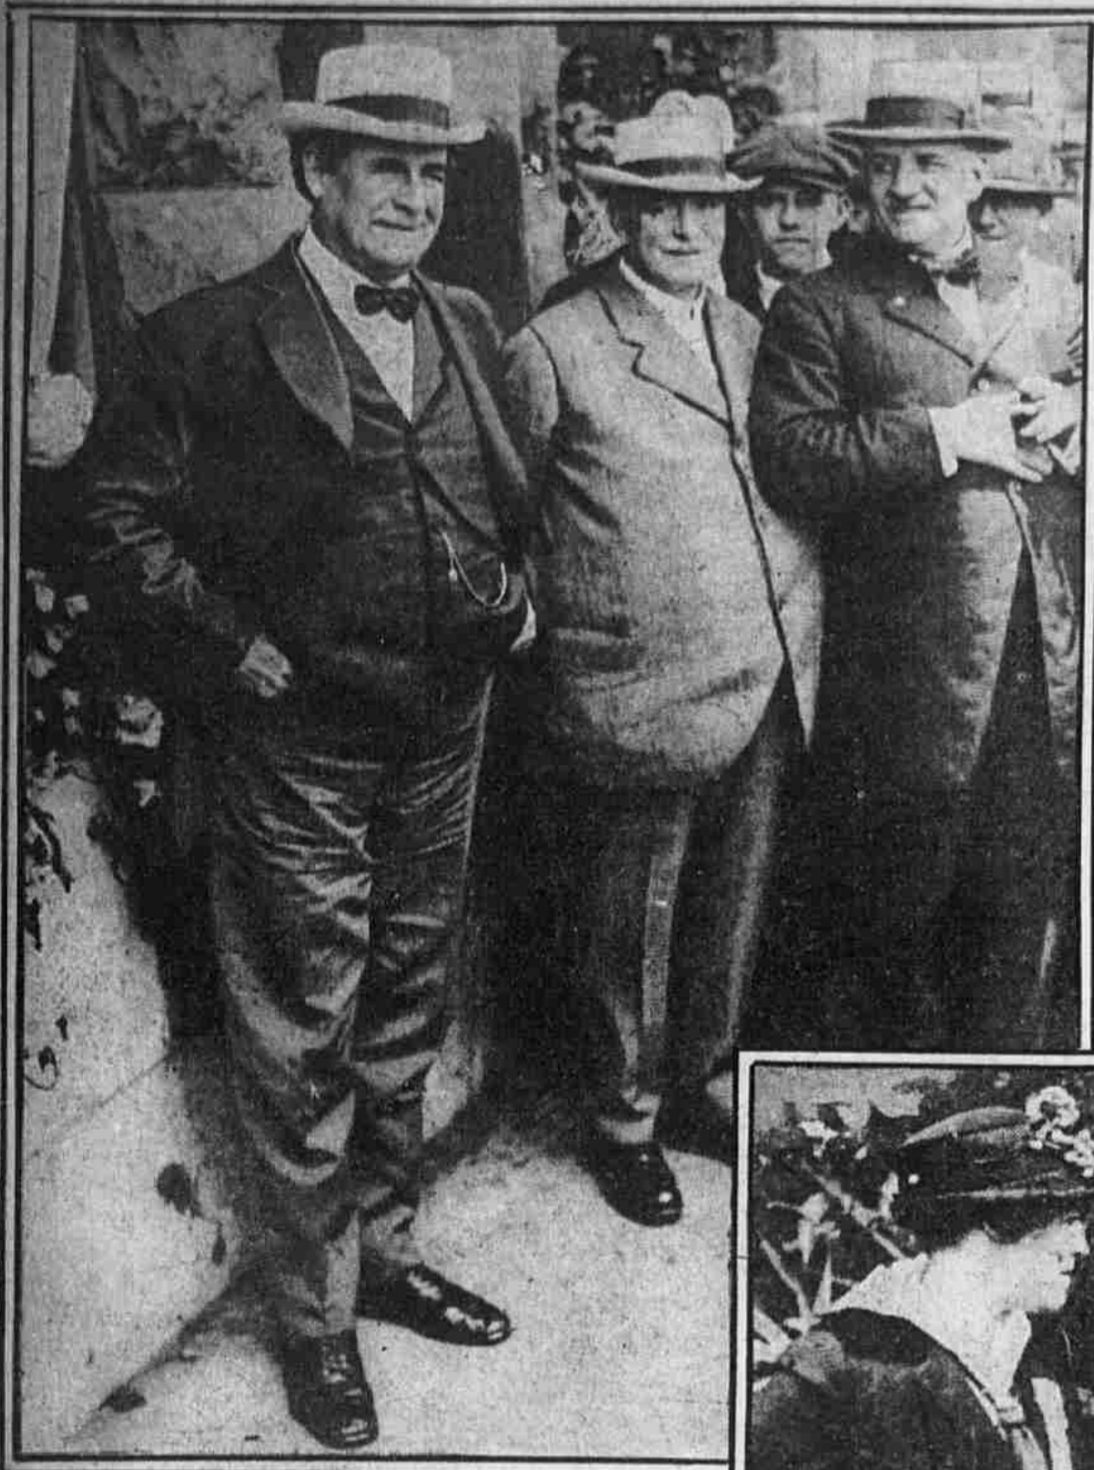

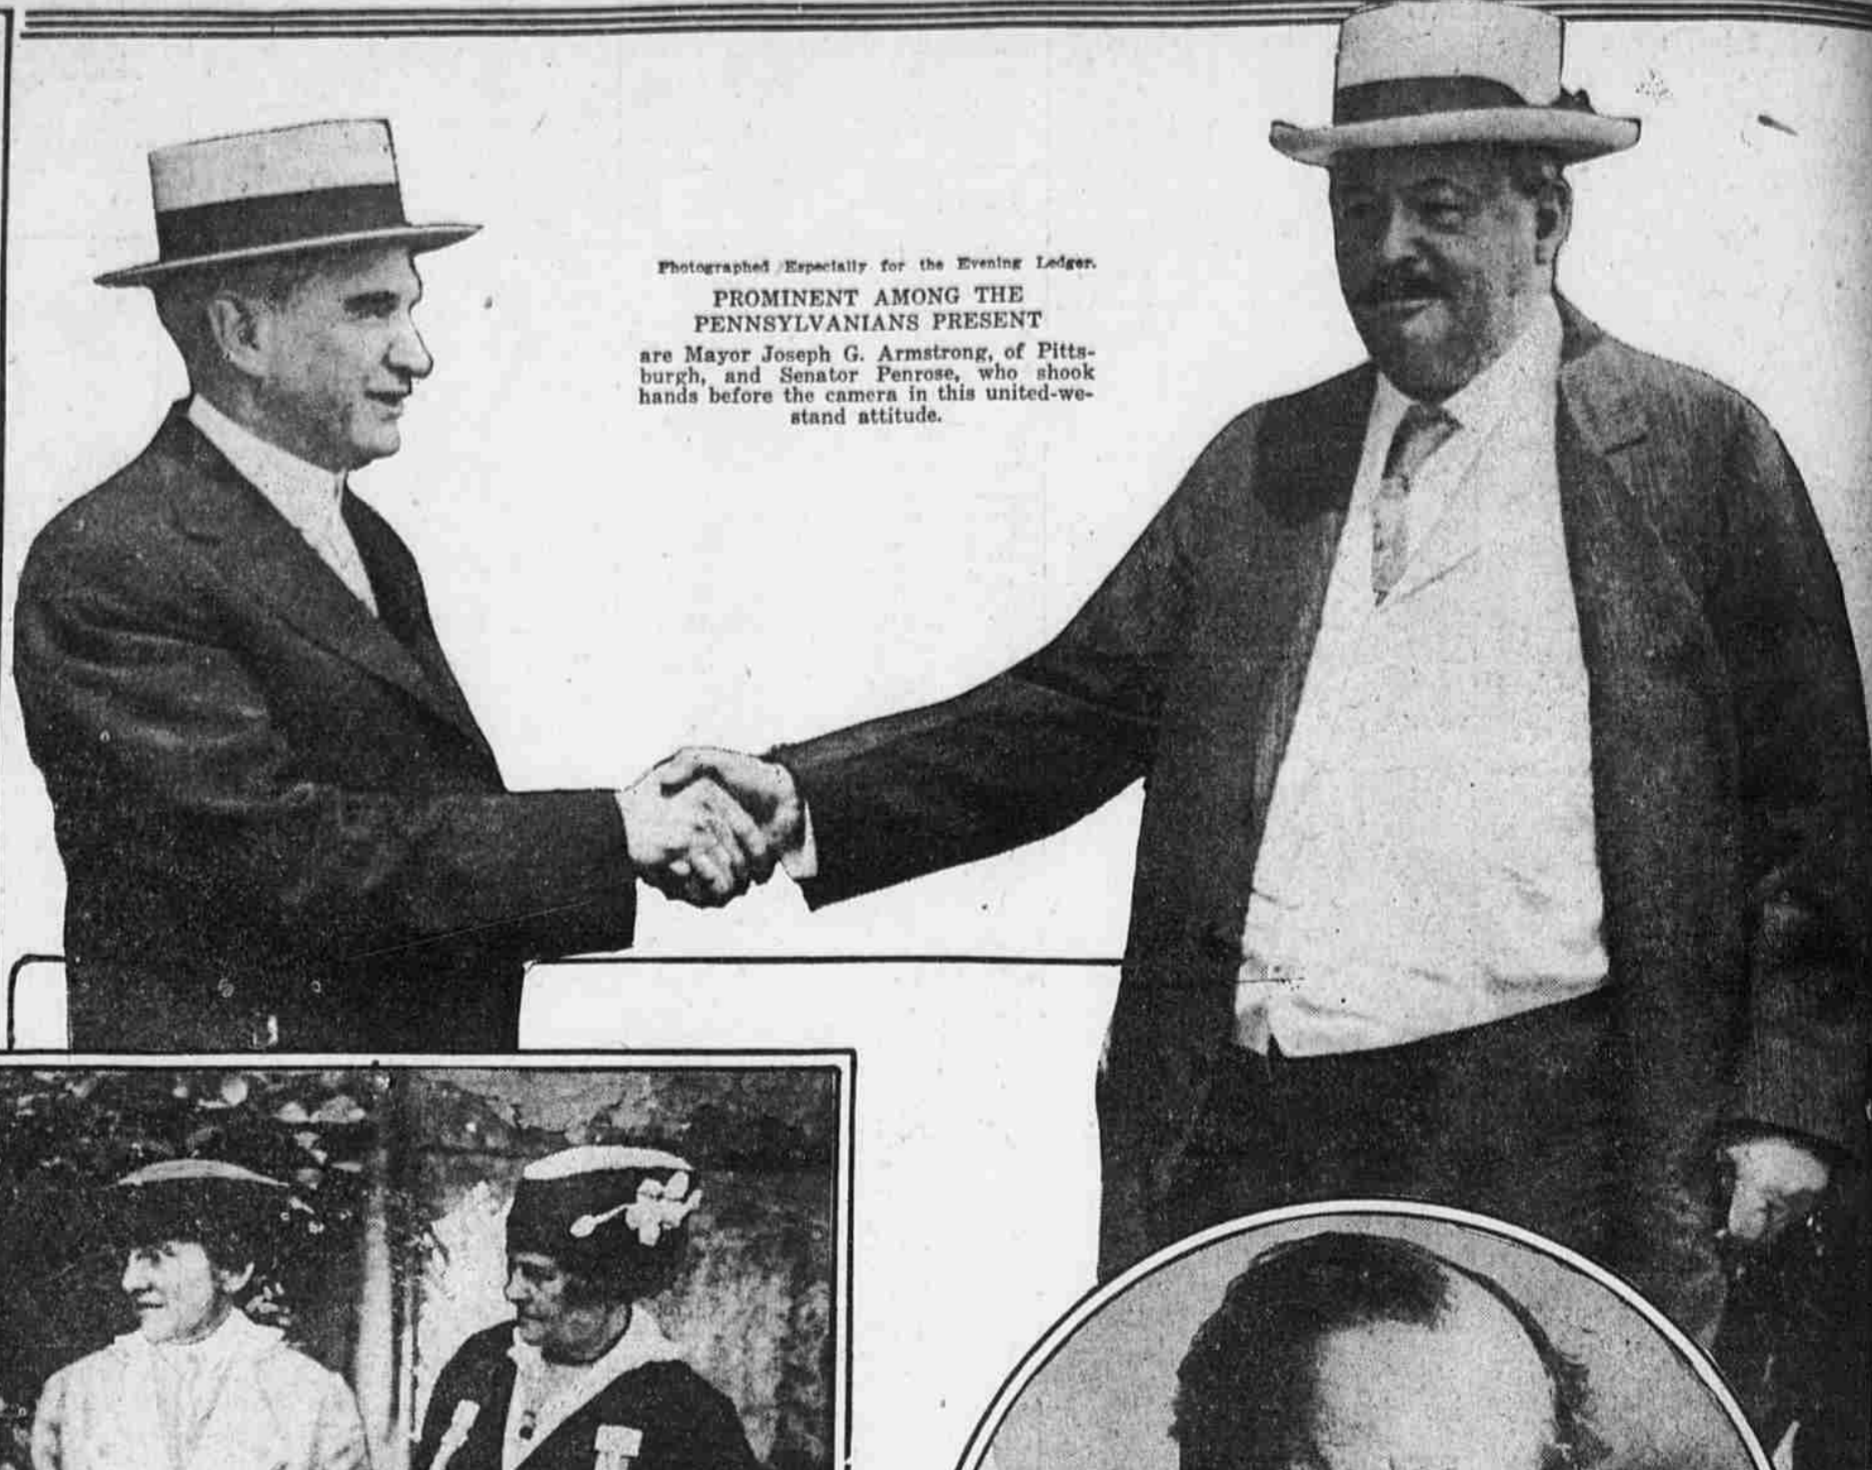

Photo by Chicago Tribune Service.

THEY STILL HOLD HIM PEERLESS

Wherever Mr. Bryan, who is reporting the convention for a newspaper syndicate, goes he has his admirers thronging around. He thinks it looks like Hughes.

Photographed Especially for the Evening Ledger.
PROMINENT AMONG THE PENNSYLVANIANS PRESENT
are Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong, of Pittsburgh, and Senator Penrose, who shook hands before the camera in this united-stand attitude.

THEY HAVE THE BALLOT IN THEIR HOME STATE
That's why Mrs. Sarah Baird Field, Dr. Caroline Spencer and Miss Lillian H. Kern, of Colorado, who are in Chicago, are regular accredited delegates.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood.
HE MADE THE TERM "PUSSY-FOOT" FAMOUS
Senator Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, has conspicuous ears, signifying that he is a listener rather than a conversationalist, which indeed is pre-eminently the case.

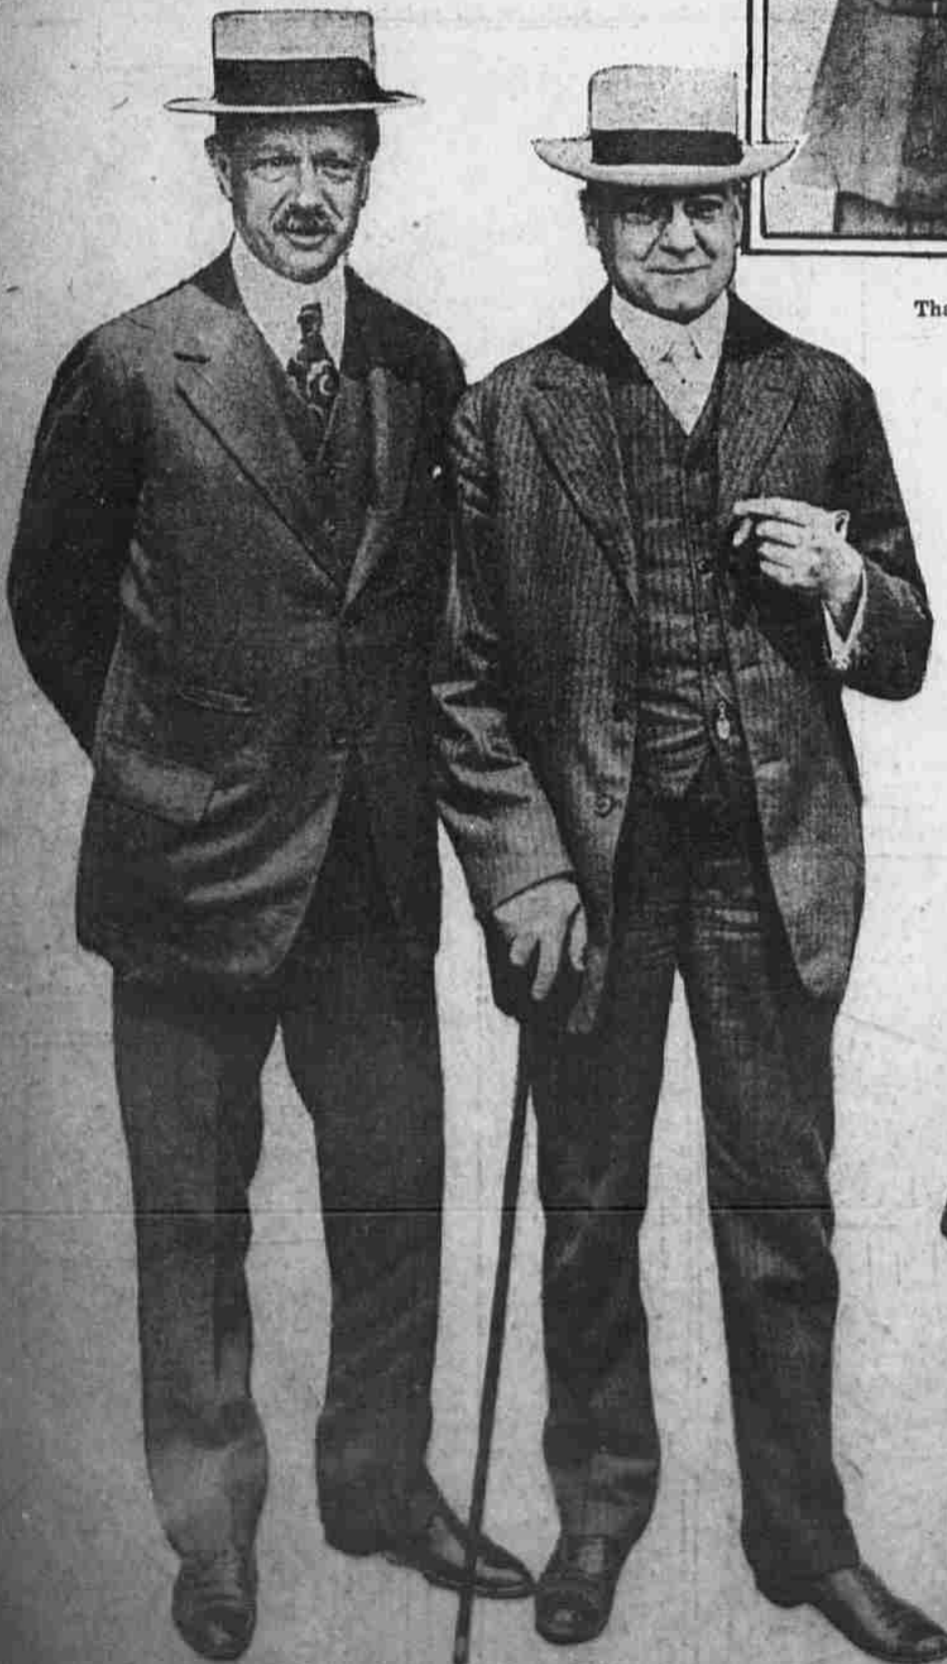

Photo by Underwood & Underwood.

TWO OF THE MOST FAITHFUL OF THE FAITHFUL

Here are Van Lengen Mayor and William Loeb, Jr., the latter looking more conspicuous and less harassed than when he was secretary to the Colonel.

Photo by International Film Service.

"PREPARED" EVEN TO MALE MILITARY CLOTHES

Miss Lucy Hewitt and Sergeant Marian Post are, respectively, snare drummer and bugler at the "society bud" training camp at Erskine, N. J. Skirts they scorn as superfluous in these stern times.

Photographed Especially for the Evening Ledger.

EMINENT AS STIRRERS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA POLITICAL POT
Reading from left to right, we find William A. Magee, Public Service Commissioner; William Finn, prop of the Progressives, and Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General in the Brumbaugh cabinet.