

Bull Moose Peace Committee Reports to Convention Hope of Naming Colonel Roosevelt

MOOSE COMMITTEE FOR PEACE REPORTS GOOD HOPE FOR COLONEL

Continued from Page One
Committee, which is expected in a few minutes," said the chairman, "the convention will proceed to unfinished business—the consideration of the platform."
Dean Lewis started reading of the platform section by section. An attempt to put the convention in Committee of the Whole to revise the woman suffrage plank was ruled out of order. The chairman said that the convention would meet the clause when it was reached in regular order.

ROBINS' RULE THREATENED
Direct threat to take the convention out of the chairman's hands if he did not suit his will came. Two delegates demanded to know how a call of the roll might under the rules be procured. "The Secretary is not here and can't give you the rule, but if any gentleman desires to demand a vote by rollcall, he will get it without trouble," replied Chairman Robins.

A temporary relief from the tension came when Father William E. Borah, of Idaho, moved to amend the clause referring to Mexico.
"It seems to me," said a delegate, "that it would not be proper to confine ourselves to Mexico when our citizens have been murdered on the high seas. We should add a paragraph condemning the murder of our citizens by a big bully on the high seas."

The clause was amended to include "murder on the high seas." Dean Lewis, for the committee, proposed that the convention voted to include the amendment.
Judge Ransom, of New York, moved to add a clause that no commercial treaty should be made with Russia that did not fully concede the rights of the Russian National Convention last evening.

The Platform Committee accepted the amendment.
"We pledge ourselves not to conclude a treaty with Russia or any other country which will not expressly procure such absolute rights,"

When Chairman Robins recognized him, George W. Perkins presented the report of the Peace Committee. It follows:
To the Progressive National Convention:

Your committee appointed pursuant to the resolution adopted at yesterday's session met in conference with the committee representing the Republican National Convention last evening. The committee of conference representing the Republican National Convention consisted of Messrs. Reed Smoot, W. Murray Chase, William E. Borah, Nicholas Murray Butler and A. R. Johnson.

The conference was most friendly. Upon assembling, your committee proposed as the joint nominees, both conventions, the names of Theodore Roosevelt. The committee representing the Republican National Convention did not present the name of any candidate, nor did it attempt to refute our arguments relating to the unique availability of Theodore Roosevelt as a candidate to unite both parties or to serve our country at this crucial period in the history of the world.

After several hours of friendly discussion during which no concrete proposition was advanced by the Republican conference, except that a further conference might be desirable this afternoon or evening, the Joint Committee adjourned.

GEORGE W. PERKINS, HIRSH W. JOHNSON, CHARLES J. BONAPARTE, JOHN M. PARKER, HORACE S. WILKINS.

ONLY SLIGHT APPLAUSE
Only slight applause followed Perkins' reading of the report.

Perkins then read the report the Republican conference made to their convention. Receipt of news that the Republican conference seemed somewhat favorable to consideration of Roosevelt was greeted with a four-minute demonstration in the Auditorium.

The delegates only faintly heard Perkins reading the Republican report, and cheered wildly at every mentioning of Roosevelt's name.

Commenting to the convention on the Peace Committee report Perkins said:
"Our National Committee in January made the statement it did for two purposes, first to reach, if possible, an agreement with the Republican Convention, now in session, and secondly, to build up a position so strong that the public would unquestionably stand with us."

"The results of our work we do in the next four or six hours will be as momentous as any in a great military engagement. The situation shifts rapidly. We must do nothing to mar our record, so far, it is perfect, to injure us with the people if we shortly go to them for their support."

"We want to be in a position so strong that all the world will be with us."

ASKS TO BE TRUSTED
"As chairman of your Conference Committee I now ask you to trust us for a short time longer. We will report to you every quarter of an hour if necessary and keep you fully informed. Will you do this?"

Governor Johnson, of California, in the midst of a great demonstration, was introduced.

"There is little I can add to Perkins' report," Johnson said.

"Place not too great confidence in the reports made by the Republican committee to their convention. The Republicans accept the issue as we make it and acknowledge they have no man so fit to meet the issue as Theodore Roosevelt."

Henry J. Allen, of Arkansas, told the convention that the Republicans had continued their Conference Committee's existence and that the crowd in the gallery at the Coliseum cheered the mention of Roosevelt's name and that some of the Republican delegates joined in.

Former Attorney General Bonaparte, of Baltimore, another member of the Conference Committee, corroborated Johnson.

John M. Parker, of Louisiana, the radical chief, declared he did not feel that the Progressives "could get very far" with these gentlemen.

MASSACHUSETTS WHOOPING.
Massachusetts, following her custom, began whooping up the Roosevelt situation at the start. Unlike most of the delegations, it marched as masses to the center of the hall, where it is seated. They came singing and cheering, calling for the nomination of Roosevelt and promising fast action.

The convention quartet started the vocal proceedings in lively vein. They leveled speeches at the vast throng and fired a close-range Roosevelt rally song. "I hit the mark squarely and a big cheer went up. 'Teddy, we want you there,'" roared the quartet. It was certainly bad medicine to lead a convention if anybody wanted to hold it back. The song expressed the collective thought entirely too well to lead to a compromise feeling.

Chairman Robins got the convention in order after much difficulty. Time and again he sounded and the blows were lost in the noise.

The straight-at-arms will see that the delegate take their seats, demanded the chairman.

PRAYER FOR ORDER.
He obtained quiet and Rabbi Stolz opened the proceedings with an appeal to the God of Israel to "bring order out of chaos."

The long row of women in the boxes made pretty pictures as they stood, heads bowed, while the invocation proceeded.

Rabbi Stolz said in part:
"God, who art all powerful, and whose throne is in heaven, have mercy on us, and grant that we may be united in our hearts and minds, and that we may be able to bring about the peace which is the will of God."

out of evil and bring us out of the conflict that is raging. We need fear no evil if we keep Thy trust.

PRAYER FOR REPUBLICANS

"We pray Thee that our Nation may be great. Oh, God, bless both of these conventions in session here, bless their officers, their delegates and their committees."

"Bless our country that it may be strong in advocating peace for all nations, that it may bring a message of peace to the world, that it may be an apostle of peace. Amen."

Albert Bushnell Hart, of Boston, leaped to his feet and demanded assurance that the Progressives' insurance policy wouldn't expire in soon.

"With entire liberty and with ample time we don't intend to be hoodwinked by cunning and designing foes or overenthusiastic and badly informed friends," said Chairman Robins.

The convention took no action on the conferees' report at the time. Chairman Robins said the committee was still in existence.

Consideration of the platform was resumed.

Mrs. E. M. Rhodes, of Seattle, moved an amendment to the preparedness clause eliminating the word "male" and substituting "every citizen is charged with the duty of defending the country."

Mrs. Rhodes' amendment to the Progressive platform was adopted.

TRICKY THIEVES TAKE JEWELS WORTH $2000

Woman Lured to Rear of Store by Man—Pal Takes Gems

A box containing unset diamonds valued at $2000 was stolen today from a safe in the jewelry store of Mrs. Mary Milner, 1732 South 7th street, after the thieves had decoyed Mrs. Milner to the kitchen of her home by having one of their number pound on a rear door.

Mrs. Milner's son Joseph had departed for his lunch, when a dark-complexioned man, wearing a dark suit and a black cap, entered the store, and asked Mrs. Milner if she could put a crystal in his watch. Mrs. Milner told him that he had better return a little later, when her son would do the work.

The man had hardly left the store when Mrs. Milner heard loud knocking on her kitchen door. She hurried to the kitchen, and when she opened the door she was confronted by a short, dark-complexioned man, who inquired if the plumbing in the bathroom needed repairing. Mrs. Milner's suspicions were aroused; she pushed the man outside and slammed the door. Then she hurried back to the store, after her screaming to the street when she discovered the safe door was opened and the diamond box missing.

Neighbors and nearby storekeepers joined in a hunt after the thieves, but they could not be found. A little later the diamond box, empty, was found in an alley leading from 8th street near Moore.

Zelig Meyer, of Meyer & Tucker, dry-goods merchant, 1734 South 7th street, was seated outside his store just before the robbery. Just before the diamonds were stolen, a man approached him and asked to look at some trousers. Meyer went inside with him and displayed a number of trousers to the man, but the latter left the store in two or three minutes without making a selection. The police believe that Meyer was decoyed into his store so he could not interfere with the diamond theft.

TWO GIGGLE GIRLS TO BE JUNE BRIDES

Gladys Will Marry Electrical Engineer and Clara an Electrical Contractor

Miss Gladys Beatrice Giggle smiled today as she blushing acknowledged that she and her sister, Miss Clara Fredericka Giggle, were to become June brides. The wedding of Miss Gladys is to take place tomorrow evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Alice Giggle, 2664 North 7th street, and the officiating clergyman will be the Rev. Philip E. Bierbauer, pastor of St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, 6th and River streets. The bridegroom will be Walter Sydney Pickup, an electrical engineer, employed by the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

His bride will be Clara, who has been a boarder at the Regist hotel three years ago.

The parents of the young couple were friends in England, and when Miss Giggle was a baby Mrs. Pickup, mother of her fiancé, crossed the ocean that she might be her godmother.

At tomorrow night's ceremony, to which 100 guests have been invited, Miss Clara Giggle will attend her sister as maid of honor, and Will H. Giggle, her brother, will be the best man. Later in the month, when Mr. and Mrs. Pickup return from their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, they will be met at the Regist hotel by the bride's mother and the bride's sister, Miss Clara Giggle and Lindsey N. Mills. The latter, who lives at 3580 North Franklin street, is an electrical contractor.

Both couples, after their marriage, will make their home with Mrs. Giggle, who is a widow.

J. P. HORN, PUBLISHER, DIES

Heart Disease Kills Former Member of Campion & Co.

James P. Horn, 55 years old, a member of Campion & Co., publishers, at 1001 Chestnut street, died of heart disease this morning at his home, 4936 North Broad street. He was well known in publishing circles, having also been a member of the book publishing firm of Campion & Co., at 1316 Walnut street.

The funeral services will be conducted Sunday at the house by the Rev. E. D. Wylie, pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Broad street and Wyoming avenue. Interment will be made at Bristol on Monday.

Engineer, Unconscious, Runs Train

HARRISBURG, June 9.—Passengers in an automobile at Harrisburg noticed that William Hamm, of this city, engineer of a freight train going at the rate of 35 miles an hour, was hanging from his cab window apparently unconscious. Their cries attracted the conductor, who stopped the train and Hamm was brought to the Harrisburg Hospital. The engineer's head had struck some obstruction or a passing train.

Imported Tweed $30 Special Suitings

BRADBURN & NIGRO

Tailors to Particular Men
Cor. 13th & Sansom

REPUBLICANS AND PROGRESSIVES SOUND NOTE ON PREPAREDNESS

CHICAGO, June 9.—In the platforms before the Republican and Progressive conventions Americanism and preparedness are emphasized. Following are the declarations of the two parties:

REPUBLICANS
We believe in and will enforce the protection of every American citizen in all rights secured to him by the Constitution, treaties and the laws of nations at home and abroad.

We desire peace, the peace of justice and right, and believe in maintaining a straight and honest neutrality between the belligerents in the great war in Europe. We favor the establishment of a world court.

The country must have not only an adequate but thorough and complete national defense ready for any emergency. We must have an effective regular army, ample reserves, drilled and disciplined.

We must have a navy so strong and so well proportioned and equipped that no enemy can gain command of the seas and effect a landing on our east or west coast.

TWO BOYS ARRAIGNED AS POSTOFFICE ROBBERS

Held in Bail on Their Alleged Confession of Burglary at Bryn Athyn

Two boys, one of whom is only 15 years old, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edmunds in the Federal Building today, accused of breaking into the postoffice at Bryn Athyn. The lads were Herman D. Wagner, 18 years old, and Frank Redmile, 16, both of Both Ayes. The robbery was committed on May 13.

Both Wagner and Redmile are said to have confessed to Postal Inspector A. T. Hawksworth, and their alleged written statements were produced at the hearing. Wagner's bail was fixed at $1500, while Redmile, being the younger of the two, was held in $1000. Both were held for counsel.

The prisoners looked as if they should still be dressed in short trousers when arraigned today. It was their first offense, according to the testimony. They planned the robbery, one witness said, while hanging around the town harbor shop, and waited until the towns was asleep before proceeding with their task.

Stealthily steps brought them unnoticed to the postoffice, which is in the same building with the railroad station. One watched the train while the other forced open the door.

They then used other instruments in forcing iron bars, according to the testimony. It is alleged that letters were opened and thrown about the post office, and that their hunt for money was fruitless. One witness testified that cigars and post-articles had been stolen, also the postmaster's revolver.

On June 3 both were arrested by Abington authorities. Today they were turned over to Deputy Marshals Amlier and Kenney. Their counsel laid stress on the fact that it was their first alleged offense and that the boys came from good, respectable homes. Assistant District Attorney Edward S. Kremp, however, said that breaking into a postoffice was a serious matter and refused to ask for a reduction of bail.

"If the boys have just started such a life," Mr. Kremp said, "they certainly have begun on a large scale."

WILSON A WHITE HOUSE SEGREGATIONALIST, SAYS NEGRO

Urges Political Preparedness on Philadelphia A. M. E. Conference

HARRISBURG, June 9.—The Rev. R. C. Ransom, New York editor of the A. M. E. Church Review, before the 100th session of the Philadelphia Conference of the A. M. E. Church today made a fervent appeal for "political preparedness" on the part of the negro race, during which he termed President Wilson "that segregationist in the White House."

Bishop Evans Tyree, presiding, ruled that women may not be licensed to preach by the conference, but that they are eligible as evangelists. The conference will in all likelihood meet in Philadelphia next year.

Wanamaker Girls Give Play

Class day exercises were held by the 29 seniors of the John Wanamaker Commercial Institute in University Hall last night in the presence of many relatives and friends. "The Loan of a Lover," a one-act play, music and addresses composed the program. Among those who took part were Miss Regina Dolores Tomer, class president; Miss Edna Innes, president of the next senior class; Miss Ethel Thompson, Miss Dorothy Eberhardt, Miss Marie Falkingham, Miss Julia Katherine Smith and Miss Mary Gertrude Claherty.

Chauffeur Put on Probation

Leo Mullin, 25 years old, of 4637 Westminister avenue, entered a plea of involuntary manslaughter before Judge Rodgers in Quarter Sessions Court today when he was arraigned for causing the death of George Leathwhite, 55 years old, 523 Broadway, Camden, on January 6. Mullin, who was driving an automobile, ran down the man at 12th and Market streets.

Judge Rodgers, at the recommendation of the jury, placed the man on probation for two years.

Extraordinary Summer Offerings While They Last

SHIRTS
Nero Silk, Madras & Mercerized
$1.50 and $2 Value $1.15
3 for $3.25, 6 for $6.00

STRAW HATS
$2 and $2.50 Value $1.50

BECKERS

926 Chestnut Street
Widener Building Arcade
Juniper & Filbert Sts.
20 South 15th Street

'ROOKIES' MAY SHOW 'STUNTS' ON NAVY DAY

Feminine "rookies" who recently returned from the military camp at Chevy Chase, Md., are planning to spring a surprise at the fourth annual navy day celebration June 17, by giving a demonstration in the Philadelphia Navy Yard immediately after the regular sham battle.

Official announcement of the women's plans has been made yet, but it is expected late this afternoon, following a meeting of the Women's Section of the Navy League in the United States Naval Home, Gray's Ferry road and Pitawater street.

All of the young women who attended the preparedness camp at the Chevy Chase National Service School, and who are therefore "veterans," have been asked to attend the meeting this afternoon and decide whether they will participate in the demonstration tomorrow in the Navy Yard.

The young women armed with their Red Cross certificates and wearing scars of battle inflicted during their fortnight's struggle with wigwagging and heliography under the pitiless fire of Old King Sol, will descend on the navy yard in a body immediately after the sham battle.

They will demonstrate their ability in bandaging the heads of the wounded and putting their arms and legs in splints. Further, the one-time "rookies" are planning to give an exhibition drill with one of the rifles which they were meeting to defend the navy yard in a body immediately after the sham battle.

Although there are many other events of special interest scheduled for June 17, the national tennis tournament, the Fete des Fleurs, at the Rosemont, and so on, it is believed that most of the women who trained at the preparedness camp will report to "their country's call" to them, and take part in the demonstration.

Norwood Plans for Fourth of July

The Norwood citizens' Fourth of July celebration committee has divided into four squads, each being assigned a certain portion of the town, for the collection of funds to defray expenses of exercises. The committees are headed by Frank Kneidler, Edward J. Ferguson, J. H. Calhoun and Leslie Taylor.

MASKED MARVEL BEING GROOMED AS CONVENTION PLOT THICKENS

Robert W. Maxwell, Sports Editor, Gathers Dope From Elevator Men, Policemen and Others Willing to Be Interviewed on Presidential Candidate

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL
Sports Editor Evening Ledger

CHICAGO, Ill., June 9.—Having attended the big conventions for two days, it is time for us to pull some real dope, like the regular political writers. Something mysterious is about to be sprung upon unsuspecting delegates, and judging from the data picked from bellboys, elevator men, policemen and others who were willing to be interviewed, the plot is beginning to thicken.

Somewhere and some place somebody is being all dolled up like the Masked Marvel who made such a dent in the bank roll of the Dear Old Public which attended the wrestling matches in New York last winter. This person may be wearing a bunch of alfalfa under his chin or he may not; but he is being groomed, rehearsed and psychologically moment, get out from behind the curtains and admit to the world at large that he is the man to run for the presidency of the United States on the Republican ticket in the 1916 campaign. Then he will accept the honor with becoming modesty and give out statements to the newspapers, telling what a big surprise it was.

The first of the melodrama was played last night when the big guys representing the Old Guard and the Moozers sprinkled the same love talk in a conference at the Chicago Club. The actors smiled at each other, exchanged cigars and acted like a flock of guests at a Polish wedding. With flowers in one hand and a healthy punch in the other, each side tried to break under the guard of the other and used the bouquets only as a decoy. We left before the meeting adjourned, as the casualty list probably will be found in another column.

This star chamber situation was the result of a resolution passed in the Progressive convention with the quiet that accompanies target practice with 18-inch guns. The delegates decided to do something at once and place the onus—whatever that is—on the shoulders of the G. O. P. in case somebody's foot slips. That something was to ask the other gents who were meeting at the principal topic of the day, viz., T. R.

ROBINS SMASHES HIS GAVEL

Ray Robins, the well-known chairman, put it up to the delegates and it went big. The vocal athletes in the audience grasped this chance to go out for another marathon record, but Robins quelled the disturbance after breaking his gavel and calling in a well-trained hammer as a pinch hitter. The cheers and hysteric lasted about 15 minutes, and then a few words had to be heard from the volunteer orator, who sprang up from every State delegation.

Looking out into the big auditorium, one saw a field of hands waving like corn stalks in a strong wind or a gang of shipwrecked mariners about to sink for the third time. All hands were waving toward the chairman and voices under the hands were beseeching the chair to please give them a chance to state their side of the case and get their names in the paper.

The regulars, however, got the first call. Mr. Robins did not seem to be well acquainted, for the only ones he could recognize were Vic Murelock, H. Johnson, Jimmy Garfield, Jack Parker, Judge Handley and General Bonaparte. These gentlemen stated their views and stated them well. But a gentleman from the upper peninsula of Michigan arose to his feet, climbed on his seat, waved both arms and demanded to hand out a question of personal privilege. He made so much noise that he was asked by the chair to get it over with, and belatedly, he put it across with a vengeance.

The personal-privilege person was none other than Congressman McDonald, a stick of dynamite who was elected on the Progressive ticket. He climbed on the stage, looked the convention straight in the face and gave vent to the following:
"The G. O. P. convention is being run by a bunch of pirates, crooks, thieves, burglars, porch-climbers and stick-up men. They are no fit associates for nice, honest people like us. They are planning to decorate with the double cross and we are waiting to receive it. Why delay? My advice is to tell them to go, to HELL and to die now!"

That speech made a wonderful hit. Robins no encore was insisted upon. Robins reigned until the hammer almost reached the chairman's table, but the table was under the strain and order was restored. There is quite a difference between the two conventions. While the Moozers are trying to tear the roof off the Auditorium, the Old Guard is putting on the work-courtesy miles away with all the excitement and furore that attends a hard-fought chess match. One move follows the other with alarming rapidity and the carefully selected delegates swallow without a murmur.

JOKE ON PENNSYLVANIA.
The guests of the Pennsylvania delegation are having anything but a lovely time at the Coliseum. When the swooped down on headquarters for tickets they found a big supply and all left the place with the precious passports clutched tight in their good right hands. But when they found their seats it was different, and they by hangs a tale.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

It is said that Henry G. Wasson, of Pittsburgh, former National Convention member whose term expired this year and who succeeded by Penrose, first received the tickets and turned them over to the new manager. He seemed to be anxious to be relieved of the duty of distributing them, but the regime accepted the task without protest. All of the guests were taken care of and their friends also had a chance. It was easier to get tickets from the Pennsylvania delegation than any one else.

But unfortunately the coupons on the tickets called for comfortable seats near the rafter and all that was needed was a telescope to see the proceedings. The Pennsylvanians were hanging on the rafters and looking over the fourth balcony looking at the plumes below, and all they could see was a blur of color with an occasional floating up. All of the tickets have been returned. A number of millionaires from Pittsburgh also were taken care of and marked the only thing that interfered with their pleasure was the hammering away by a couple of carpenters who were repairing the roof.

THIS A FEAT TO FIT FEET

An Unusual Shoe An Unusual Value

$4.50
Forty-Five Other Styles

A style for every taste—a fit for every foot.

A Sports Oxford White Buck in combination with Black or Mahogany Tan Calf.

Dalsimer Four-fifty Oxfords thoroughly cover the whole compass of style for men. Both the extremist and the conservativ find models to their utmost satisfaction.

You should see the several new and exclusive additions to this Famous Four-fifty footwear.

Dalsimer Shoes and Hosiery
1204-06-08 Market St.

THE BIG SHOE STORE

More Murads are smoked than any other Turkish cigarette costing the consumer 15 Cents or more.

Just think of that!

There are many brands of high-grade Turkish cigarettes, but "That Goodness" that Smokers Demand is concentrated in Murad.

Murad's success makes competitors unhappy. Murad continues to break every record.

Judge for yourself—compare Murad with any 25 Cent Cigarette

Smorgyros
Makers of the Highest Grade Turkish and Egyptian Cigarettes in the World

REMEMBER—Turkish tobacco is the world's most famous tobacco for Cigarettes

Everywhere Why?

SHIRTS
Nero Silk, Madras & Mercerized
$1.50 and $2 Value $1.15
3 for $3.25, 6 for $6.00

STRAW HATS
$2 and $2.50 Value $1.50

BECKERS
926 Chestnut Street
Widener Building Arcade
Juniper & Filbert Sts.
20 South 15th Street