MISS MOLLA MAY PLAY GOLF WHEN HER TENNIS LAURELS WITHER; SHE LIKES GAME

Looks Easier Than Tennis—Philadelphia Women Team Loss Best Despite Loss

By SANDY McBRICK MISS MOLLA BJURSTEDT, successful defender of her national tennis championship title at the Cricket Club, flashed her most glorious smile on her congratulatory in the clubhouse right after her record-breaking match with Mrs. Raymond.

After the flurry had died down around her she found herself near a window where she could see the teeing off on the links of the folk who had more serious things to do than tennis. They were a golfing.

She suggested that it must be easier to play than tennis. There wasn't any running around to do and all a person had to do was hit the ball. That was nothing at all in tennis.

Any one could hit the ball and thought nothing of it and they hit it a mile if they wanted to. But she thought golf would be a lot more fun.

She thought she would get to playing it some day—when she couldn't play tennis any more!

A Post-Mortem A post-mortem over the records of the Grimsco Cup match which took place on Saturday at the Philadelphia team had had the second guess it is most likely that it would have returned home with the cup.

Mrs. A. S. Rossin, New York, sank a putt, and Miss Ruth Elmhorn, Boston, did not, at the 15th hole of one of the four games on Saturday. If the putt had gone down the way it should have won against Mrs. Raymond by the score of 11 to 10.

Then Boston would have beaten New York, which beat Philadelphia, which beat Boston.

One defeat would have been chalked up against each team, and possession of the cup would have been decided on points. The Philadelphia team would have won by three matches. The result of the matches was most disappointing, but it really leaves the Philadelphia women looking like the best team.

They were winning all but 2 of the 15 singles matches. Philadelphia won, 55 up and 40 to go.

Boston's Weakness Boston showed its weakness in four games by losing all but one out of six to New York, and Philadelphia might have made a clean sweep of the Beantown foursomes if they had been played instead of divided.

Mrs. G. Henry Stetson deserved a better fate than was hers. She showed the greatest pluck in playing at all, for she suffered all through the week from an attack of the grip. Her courage was really remarkable. The rain fell most of the time and the mud was deep. But Mrs. Stetson carried out the week from an attack of the grip in the other only by a small margin.

She won easily with Mrs. Fox in the foursomes. Mrs. Barlow played a great game all week, finishing third in the Grimsco Cup by wide margins. Miss Mildred Caverly, who recently won the Philadelphia championship, was also in fine form and showed no tendencies of having been overplayed, as was feared. She played No. 1 in the team and won her matches both ways. Mrs. Caleb Fox was another who beat Philadelphia team, as was expected. Mrs. Ethel Campbell did so well against New York that she was moved up to play Mich. on Wednesday and start its winning streak by trimming the team which had been metropolis in some league out there.

New records in baseball are mighty hard to establish, but Stanley Coveleskie made a bid for one yesterday, when he fanned three heavy hitters in the ninth inning. Two men were on base and one out when Stanley was shooed from the dugout by Leo Fohl, and when he retired Oldring, Schang and Steilbauer in a row, there was cause for much rejoicing.

Way back in 1904 Rube Waddell was called upon to rescue Andy Coakley, who got in bad with the Red Sox in the eighth inning, and the Rube fanned five out of six. In 1911 Joe Wood struck out three Chicago batters sent in to pinch hit in the ninth, but Joseph was not pinch pitching that day. He started the game and pulled himself out of a tight hole.

Elmer Myers is due to take the field against the Tribe today, and Coveleskie will play a return engagement for Mr. Fohl.

IMPRESSIONS OF ALEXANDER'S GREAT VICTORY

ALEXANDER PITCHED BUT FEW BALLS IN DEFEATING PIRATES; HE HAD WONDERFUL CONTROL

By CHANDLER D. RICHTER ALEXANDER THE GREAT probably lost men were out in the ninth it is likely the game would have been lost.

Whitted scored the Phillies' first run by making a daring steal of home. He timed the play so well that the Pirates were caught napping and the play at the plate was not even close. In justice to Mamaux and Gibson, who were jeered by the crowd, it is no more than fair to place the blame where it belongs, and that is upon Joe Schultz, the young third baseman.

Against the Cardinals last season Alexander missed tying Matty's mark by only six balls, but yesterday he surely surpassed it, for he was not taken at the start of the game and the wonderful Philly hurler is deprived of a unique record. It is likely that Alexander was several pitches below Matty's record, as he mowed the Pirates down in rapid succession.

Alexander's control was perfect. Only once in the game was three balls called on the Nebraska and although he was putting the ball straight over the heart of the plate the Pirates were helpless, so much "stuff" did Alex have on the ball.

Mamaux Eliminated The victory in the first clash with the Pirates was particularly important to the Phils, as they succeeded in eliminating Al Mamaux, the star of the Pittsburgh staff, for the balance of the series. While Manager Callahan has two or three other twirlers who usually bother the Phils, none is quite so effective as Mamaux.

While Alexander clearly outpitched Mamaux and his victory was clean cut and deserved, the youthful Pirate showed wonderful form. He looked even better than he did in his first appearance here last season. The Phillies got enough hits and had runners in position to score several times, but aside from Whitted all of the champions were absolutely helpless before the blinding speed and sharp-breaking drop ball of Mamaux in the pinches.

If there is a better fast ball pitcher in baseball than Mamaux we have never seen him. Walter Johnson and Joe Bush have a trifle more speed than the Pittsburgh lad, but the latter's fast ball has a much faster break and is harder to follow.

Many of the fans wondered why the Phils were not clouting Mamaux's fast ball hard, as he grooved the ball continually, but it had such a fast break and hop on it that it was impossible to follow when he put all his "work" on it.

Alex in Grand Form Alexander's pitching was the most important factor in the Philly victory, but George Whitted also was largely responsible for the triumph. Had it not been for Whitted's offensive play and alertness the Phils would have been blanked, and as the Pirates scored an earned run after two

JACK BLACKBURN SHOWS UP WELL, DEFEATING JOE ROSEN

Veteran Negro Middleweight Wins Easily in Bout at Broadway

Jack Blackburn, at one time one of the best colored middleweight boxers in the country, displayed his old-time prowess in a four-round bout with the former ability last night in the main bout at the Broadway Athletic Club and at the first round Young Athletic, Tommy Esler cut in and spunked show Lenathy Joe Rosen as the winner.

With cool precision, Blackburn used a neat left jab and a hard right uppercut, which had a carotid of blood flowing over Rosen's body from his mouth and nose.

Eddie Hinkle disposed of Jack Buchanan, of Nevada, in four rounds, landing the finishing blow when he sent a right cross to the forehead. While Blackburn was beaten by Young Al Wagner, Young Sammy Smith cut in in the first round to Young Athletic, Tommy Esler cut in in the opening scene to Young Stinger.

LAJOIE WILL BE LARGE NOISE IN CLEVELAND PARK

Indian Fans to Pay Tribute to Veteran Larry at Today's Game

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL CLEVELAND, O., June 13.—This is a big day in the Forest City, which sometimes is referred to as Cleveland, the home of the Indians. They aren't regular Indians, just a gang of ball players who are paid so much per day for winning a pennant, and the Elks, or Eagles, or something are going to celebrate just because they are going to celebrate.

Johnny O'Leary, the Canadian lightweight champion, came east to get bouts with Benny Lewis and Johnny Kilbane. He was successful while in Philadelphia, but tonight in Cleveland he was outboxed by the featherweight king in a 10-round mix. O'Leary and Kilbane will meet at 132 pounds.

Tommy Jamison, friends say, is confident he will add Danny Murphy's scalp to his K. O. list when they clash at the Ryan Club tonight. But the Schurz kid may find himself up against a harder nut than he expects. He will be punched good, too.

A much-disputed argument will be decided tonight when Barney Ford sends Mickey Gallagher and Pat Moore to each other in the wind-up of the Model Club. This is a long South Philly fans have been anxious to see for some time.

Pennsylvania professional and amateur bouts are prepared for the Gayety Theatre tomorrow night. Joe Taylor and Young Mike will be the main event, with each man to have three rounds. Other bouts will be Frankie Sparks vs. Wally Nelson, Eddie Rando vs. Sidney Kelly, and a contest between Dick White and Stoney vs. Frankie Smith.

KING EIGHT CYLINDER

for ROAD MASTERY

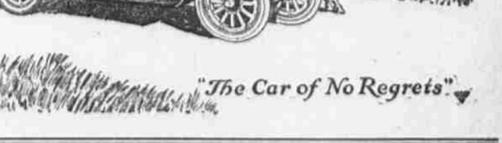

Only an EIGHT can compete with an EIGHT—and there are but two Pioneer cars of this class

WHY the eight cylinder motor gives the quickest acceleration, practically eliminates gear-shifting, takes all but the steepest hills on "high," banishes vibration, develops great power and speed at small fuel expense, and adds years to the car's life, is explained in the words—CONSTANT POWER.

The Eight has four power impulses per revolution; the Six, three; and the Four, two. An Eight's power strokes overlap at the point of their highest efficiency. No gaps between strokes to be bridged by the momentum of a heavy, power-wasting fly-wheel; no high and low power periods to cause vibration and wear, but a constant, swift flowing stream of energy, composed of strokes received at right angles, instead of vertically, and giving a smoothness of power that relieves mechanism and tires of the "killing" effects of violent power strokes. In accessibility the King's motor surpasses all other engine types.

The King is the original popular-priced Eight and has been in operation the world over for more than a year. A demonstration in the new Model E is a most necessary part of your "before buying" experience.

How the Dutchman Fears God and Takes His Own Part

THE Dutchman is not pro-Ally. He is not pro-German. He IS pro-Dutch. Holland anticipates a military attack by Germany—but does not fear it. She sees in the restrictions England puts on her trade an attempt to win markets for British traders, and she resents it. To Germany and England she says, "A plague on both your houses." But meantime she stands ready to maintain her boundaries. William C. Bullitt, of the Public Ledger staff, contributes an interesting article on Holland as a buffer nation to
