

PHILS' PURPOSE ACCOMPLISHED WHEN BROOKLYN USED UP PITCHING STAFF IN THREE GAMES

MORAN REFUSED TO SACRIFICE ALEXANDER TO CLINCH GAME, BUT ROBINSON RUINED STAFF

Brooklyn Manager Repeats Blunder Which Cost Phillies Pennant in 1911, But Champions' Pilot Did Not Lose Head

BROOKLYN'S come-back at the expense of the Phillies yesterday was a great surprise to Manager Moran and his men, but it was not accomplished without crippling the Brooklyn pitching staff to such an extent that Manager Robinson will be exceedingly lucky to break even with either New York or Boston in the next two series.

The Dodgers are fighting with their back to the wall. They had all to gain and nothing to lose and it was a good chance to take. If even one of the two games was lost, Robinson knew that his tottering team would be in bad shape, and probably would lose valuable ground in the next two weeks, so he wrecked his pitching staff to stop the mad rush of the Phils. Even at that the Phils would have won one of the games if it had not been for the failure of Erskine Mayer and Milton Stock to think quickly.

If Manager Moran really had been worried about the loss of the second game yesterday, he easily could have saved it by sending Alexander the Great to the mound for the last two innings, because it was apparent that Bender was in no shape to continue after his collision with Catcher McCarty at the plate. It is a question whether Moran did not make a mistake in not sending his star to the rescue, but the Philly pilot declares that he was not worrying about that defeat and was content to allow Brooklyn to wreck its pitching staff in order to save Alexander for the Braves.

It frequently has been said that Robinson would kill off his pitchers when the Dodgers failed to get all the best of the breaks, as has been the case throughout the season, and the last series proved this conclusively. Today the Dodgers are in a bad way for pitchers, whereas when the series with the Phillies started Robinson had seven star hurlers in first-class trim. All were badly overworked in the last series and it will be a week or two before the staff is straightened out.

Philly Pitchers in Splendid Trim Despite Defeats

ON THE other hand the Phillies are in great shape so far as pitching is concerned, as Moran's hurling corps appears to be in better shape than before the series. It is true that Bender and McQuillan were driven from the mound, but only one man was sent to the relief of each, and Moran did not have the remainder of his staff warming up each afternoon as was the case with Robinson.

Moran could have sent Alexander back in the second game and clinched it. He knew this as well as any one, but he is looking ahead. He said before the game that the moral effect of the series would be the same regardless of the outcome of the second game and that he would let Robinson do the worrying about the future. The Philly pilot really fears the Braves more than the Dodgers and wanted to have his hurlers in excellent shape for the present series.

Barring the two splendid games Preffer pitched, not a single Brooklyn hurler was able to go the route, and in the other three games, 11 pitchers were sent to the mound. It was a repetition of the wrecking of the Philly staff in 1913. In that season the Phils were enjoying a comfortable lead and sailing along smoothly early in August. They feared the Giants to such an extent that either Alexander or Seaton were on the mound in every contest of a five-game series.

The Phils came back strong in the series, due to the overworking of Alexander and Seaton, but when Manager Dooin looked about for available pitching material for the series with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, he then realized that he had made a mistake. Neither Alexander nor Seaton came back for two weeks and by that time the Phils were out of the race. Four straight games were lost to Brooklyn and the next four dropped to the Pirates. Then the lowly Cardinals nicked the Phils for three out of four and it was good-bye to the pennant dreams. It was a repetition of just such a thing that Moran avoided while Robinson courted it.

Inferior Work by Stock and Mayer Costly

WHILE Erskine Mayer's failure to field his position or think properly was the climax to a horrible inning which lost the second game, there was one little thing which happened in that session which was entirely overlooked in the shuffle and which, to our way of thinking, lost the game. It was one of those little by-plays which the fan seldom hears about but which frequently change the whole game.

The Phils were leading by one run when Morrow opened the last half of the seventh with a single to centre. Cutchaw was passed. There were two men on bases with nobody out. It was a 29 to 1 shot that Olson would punt the tying run over to third base. Naturally Stock came in on the grass for a punt. Olson tried to sacrifice twice, but the ball rolled foul each time.

Here is where the whole ball game was turned. With two strikes called on Olson, there was not a chance of his bunting at that stage of the game, but Stock forgot himself and did not return to his position. The next ball pitched was a ball, making the count three balls and two strikes. It was apparent that Bender would have to groove the ball, and it was the policy of the infielders to play it safe, but Stock failed to awaken in time. He was still on the grass when Olson's bouncer slipped past him into left field.

If Stock had switched, as he has been told to do in such cases and as he knows should be done, the trouble would have been averted and Mayer would never even have entered the game, as an easy double play would have resulted on Olson's tap if the defense had played properly. Therefore, Stock is more to blame than Mayer for the defeat.

Myers and Lajoie Break A's Losing Streak

ANY baseball team looks bad when it is losing and the Athletics never were the exception. For the first time during the month of June the members of the Mack clan yesterday tasted of victory and this after dropping 11 consecutive contests. St. Louis, Cleveland and Detroit refused to be victims of the A's and in the first home game Joe Bush almost started the American League trail on a winning road, but a one run margin separated Connie's hopes from a triumph. Yesterday it remained for Elmer Myers to turn the trick, and aided by the veteran Larry Lajoie, he subdued the Senators in the first end of the twin bill at Shibe Park.

The Athletics are far from being the worst team that ever donned the spanglers. Their playing was snappy and once that string of reverses was checked it was a different Mack team that the more than 6000 customers saw in action. The Athletics made seven hits for nine bases off Rice and Gillin, only one error marred their record and on the whole they put up a championship exhibition. While the record of one win was stopped about two hours after it was registered, it did not serve to discourage or disconcert the happy band.

The losing streak is broken. Though the A's have started to lose again Connie and his merry band now feel certain that no such a collection of consecutive defeats will be charged against them during the remainder of the season. What makes the victory all the more sweet is the part one Larry Lajoie played in it. This nimble youth of some 40 winters and as many summers cavorted and frolicked like a recruit, fielded sensationally, hit like the much feared Larry of a decade ago and oh, how he ran the bases. From such personages as Cobb, Milan, Collins and Sisler, base running is a part of their stock in trade, but what Larry did on the base paths yesterday caused those present to forget all about the past performances of these illustrious gentlemen, for the invigorated Larry dashed around the bases as though he were on board a Mercedes or a Fiat.

Larry and His Achievements

IN THE first game he scored the initial tally when he stole third, and on Henry's throw into left field Larry sped on with the first tally. Later his double drove Strunk in with the second run. When the final two went over the rubber in the eighth Larry played a part, and while it was not a prominent one, it was in the nature of a sacrifice and helped in the scoring. His record for the first game read something like this: At bat three times, one run, two hits; total bases, three; two stolen bases, two putouts, one assist and no error. Some record for youthful Larry? And then they will ask, is Larry all in? With the veteran setting such a wonderful example it is no wonder the Athletics came to life long enough to reward him for his efforts and to put a few drops of joy in Connie's overflowing cup of sorrow.

Larry continued his brilliant work in the second contest and while the Mack's lost, no part of the defeat could be traced to the Grand Old Larry. He made one hit out of four times up, stole two bases, had three putouts and six assists. Some record for a youth of more than 40. Four thefts in one afternoon is a very creditable performance for Cobb or Collins, but for Larry, supposed to be decrepit with age, it really is a very brilliant accomplishment and should be an incentive to the lads who work with him to emulate the Grand Old Larry.

Nabors left the mound not because he lost his nerve; not because Connie was worried or lacked confidence in his twirler. It was because the reliable Nabors knew he was in no condition to continue. Nabors has been troubled with a floating cartilage in his pitching hand all season and the injury has failed to respond to treatment. Jack stopped a fast one with this hand and the stopping of the speedster sphere did not help the injured member. He was unable to grip the ball, and in trying to put "stuf" on the ball he lost control, and with his loss of control his effectiveness disappeared.

SOMEBODY IS ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE

Scraps About Scappers

Favored with good weather conditions, the second open-air show of the season will be at the Campana A. C. tonight. Johnny Nelson and Buck Fleming have been on edge for their wind-up mix for a week, and when the ball rolls tonight they probably will be chock full of 18 minutes of hitting.

West Philadelphia ring followers will get another glimpse of "Y" Y. Erie in action tonight. The last time the strap's Perry veteran appeared at the Lincoln Club he defeated Al Winters. Tonight he meets a much better batter in Young Jack O'Brien, and "Y" will have to work tail sticking to make a showing.

New York fans are due for their "bom-bom" tonight, when Vic Sorensen tries to hit Benny Leonard in a 10-rounder at the Harlem Sporting Club. Moran has as much of a chance against Benny as Leonard would have against Jack Willard.

Eddie Cavanaugh and Andy Burns, principals in the semifinal at the Cambria tonight, are bantamweights. While the former is a tough, bit of a clever boxer, and the latter is the favorite of the house, the latter is the favorite of the house, the latter is the favorite of the house, the latter is the favorite of the house.

Lincoln patrons were less fascinated by the style displayed by George Blackburn, and the crowd was less interested in the fight between West Philly fans. Tonight he pairs off with Jimmy Keenan in the semi to the Ernie O'Brien mix. In the other numbers Paday Straley opposes Jimmy Bradley, Joe Gavin tackles Charley Austin and Bobby Jeffries boxes Stanley O'Seara.

Young Jack O'Brien is going to Mexico. The West Philadelphia welterweight is a member of the National Guard and will leave with his regiment tomorrow morning for Mount Gretna, the mobilization camp.

A recent report from Boston states that Gilbert Talant, at one time a promising contender for lightweight laurels, has retired from the ring. Sam Robbins's knockout win over Gilbert had a lot to do with putting the New Englander on the decline. Gilbert has accumulated quite a little fortune in the use of his mitts, according to his friends.

While the Charley Hein-Joe Ross case is billed for a preliminary number at the Ryan Club next Tuesday night, it probably will result in the best bout of the night as long as it lasts. It is reported the boys are boxing for the love of a girl, but while this cannot be ascertained, their meeting is more than for a financial consideration. Much interest is being shown by 18th and 20th Ward residents to the Harry Smith-Charley Ward wind-up.

Another lightweight who has developed into a welterweight boxer is Johnny Griffith, of Akron. He was offered a deal by Charley White, but the best weight Griffith would agree to make was 137 pounds at 10 a. m. on the day of the match.

Jack Blackburn did not let up in his training following his win over Willie Becker, and on Monday night he will appear in his third match in two weeks, when he is opposed to Knockout Sam at the Broadway. Samson is not the best fighter in the world, but he is a tough bird who can be used as a trial horse for the best of 'em.

Bobby Reynolds had Gene Delmont boxing Jake Schiffer, the Indian Kid, in Buffalo the other night, and according to reports, Gene was handed a nifty licking. Reynolds and his charge returned to Cleveland, where Bobby will remain until July 4 before coming home.

TIGERS, NOW AIDED BY GOOD PITCHING, MOST FORMIDABLE CONTENDERS FOR LEAGUE FLAG

The Break Is Soon Due and the Club to Be Watched Is Detroit, Beyond Any Other Contender in the Field

By GRANTLAND RICE

"HANS WAGNER," says Johnny Evers, "is playing the best ball I have seen him play for a good many years. I think his work this season is by far the most wonderful thing in all the history of baseball. Hans must be at least 45 in spite of his printed age, and today he is making plays that no one else could get away with. Over in Boston he beat us by two remarkable stops; a day or two ago he ran down 11 chances without an error, and he is batting around .315. In place of sitting up I can take an oath that he is faster and surer this year than he has been for three or four seasons. He is the 'Superman of Sport,' with no rival in sight. 'I asked Houton,' continued Johnny, 'when he intended to quit. 'Whenever they'll let me,' he answered. But I'll bet it would take an army corps to drive him away from short or out of the game. If he had $20,000,000 he wouldn't buy as much fun with all of it as he gets in a ball game. 'Which is the answer to his ball career.'"

The Break
For over two months now the first six clubs in the American League have been running under a blanket—less than five games apart. So for once the early dog that suggested at least six clubs had a chance has made good. The two surprises, of course, have been Cleveland and Washington, clubs that deserve exceptional credit for their fine play.

By the second stage of the race now is on July generally brings a change. It was early in July last season that the White Sox faltered and blew as the Tigers and Red Sox rushed to the front. In the last three weeks the Tigers have been the best club in the game. They have been getting better pitching, and as things stand today are the most formidable contenders for the October top. Cobb, Burns and Hellman are well over .300, while Bobby Veach is on his way back in a hurry.

It is hardly probable that six ball clubs will stay very long within four or five games of each other. The break is soon due and when it comes the club to be watched is Detroit, beyond any other contender in the field.

With quaking soul and shaking knees,
And having put two out of bounds
Have pondered where the fun might be.*

CARMAN WINS BIG RACE

Champion Covers 40 Miles in 49 Minutes 14 1-5 Seconds at Point Breeze

Charles Carman, the king of race followers, demonstrated his class last night, by winning the big 40-mile paced race at the Point Breeze Park, Montross, defeating three of the best American riders in the fast time of 49 minutes 14 1-5 seconds. Worth Mitter, who finished second, three laps behind the champion, had a bad start, came strong in the last three miles and beat George Willard, Jr., Syracuse, for third prize.

Willy Armstrong, of this city, broke the two-mile motorcycle track record in a special event. The record on until last night was 1 minute 22 1-2 seconds. Armstrong rode the distance in exactly 1 minute 22 seconds, shaving two years ago. He rode the first mile in 44 seconds and when the veteran after getting off to a bad start, came strong in the last three miles and beat George Willard, Jr., Syracuse, for third prize.

The motor races caused the usual excitement, and Herman Veda increased his point lead for the silver cup from 21 to 42, as he finished first in one race and second in two others, giving him 11 points. Henri St. Yves did not fare so well, and finished third in both races in which he started.

Devon Reds Win Polo Trophy

The Devon Reds defeated the Bryn Mawr Whites in a game for the Devon cup, donated by the Devon Polo Association, on Devon Field, yesterday, by the score of 4-1. The trophy was the delay in arrival of some of the ponies the game was held at 6 o'clock. The match was decided to play only six periods.

Tufts Captain to Join Giants

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—Henry Stafford, captain of the 1916 Tufts baseball team and one of the leading players in college baseball, will join the New York Giants this week. Stafford, who is a second baseman, was on the varsity nine at Tufts, where he won the MVP award as a star at Deane Academy. He batted .420 this season and stole 30 bases.

ROAD DRIVERS TO HOLD BIG CARNIVAL

Fourteen Events in Horse Show and Six Harness Races Are Listed

The Road Drivers' Association will hold its annual carnival in Fairmount Park tomorrow, with a horse show and racing events. E. Clifford Durall, secretary, has received a good lot of entries for both the show events and the races. The tankard ring will be opposite the clubhouse, at Chamounix.

Fourteen events are listed for the horse show and six races are scheduled for the trotting and pacing contests. As a feature a squad of mounted police will give an exhibition drill.
