

NANCY WYNNE SEES THE SAD SIDE OF WAR PROSPECT FOR BRIDES

Many of the Men Who Have Left for Mt. Gretna are Recent Bridegrooms or Have Announced Their Matrimonial Intentions

IT'S NO JOKE, let me tell you, for the poor little recent brides and bridegrooms who have just lately launched into the sea of matrimony and have had no time for any rite in the sky of their happiness to be suddenly separated, and that too for the grim presence of war and all its horrors and possible death and illness.

Why, as I read the roster of the City Troop, for instance, I was positively shocked to see how many bridegrooms and lately engaged men were among them, and what is true of the Troop is true of all the regiments. There have been many hurried weddings, and engagements have been announced during the week which would otherwise have been kept secret until the fall.

It was a great surprise in one way, when the phone rang on Saturday around 4 o'clock, to hear that Elizabeth Griffith and Neddy Page had decided not to wait until this return for their marriage, and were going to be married that very evening. And so they were, wedding gown and all. Poor little Elizabeth looks so pathetically young, too. She is not yet 18 years old. However, she is now Mrs. Edward Crozer Page, and the soldier boys have not yet started for the border, and there is one thing—one can go up to Mt. Gretna to visit one's husband unchaperoned.

A recent bridegroom among the officers of the troop is George Gordon Meade, grandson of the famous General for whom he was named, and whose wonderful generalship won the battle of Gettysburg in the Civil War and saved the Union by turning the tide of victory. George Meade married Gladys Williams a little over two weeks ago in St. Luke's Church in Germantown and they had only just returned from their wedding trip. Another even more recent bridegroom than George Meade who is in the Troop is Theodore Paul. He and Adelaide Pepper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper, were married on the 16th of this month. Roddy Page is another, though he was married in December, and Joe Du Barry, who married Ella Brock in November, is another young husband who must leave and answer his country's call.

Thomas McKean Downs is in the Troop; he and his brother Norton announced their engagements last week when the call came for Mt. Gretna. Tom is engaged to Anne Merrick and Norton to Alice Thompson. Then young Edgar Felton, whose marriage to Marie Agassiz, of Boston, is scheduled for the late summer, is another trooper; and so it goes.

The women have been wonderfully brave about it all. In fact, women can be usually counted on to be brave and strong when there is anything to suffer, and they are the ones who suffer most in these times, for there is a glamour about the fighting, there is the feeling that one is doing something, and there are ever-changing conditions for the men on the march and in the fight, while the women sit at home, sew and work for their loved ones, and wait and wait for the least news, dreading to read the papers for fear a name will be printed there, fearing not to read them lest something be there and they not know of it. War is a terrible thing, terrible far beyond imagination, but there seems to be a cure for it in this world, when our country's honor is assailed.

With the opening of the great advertising convention there will be many social doings, starting in with the big general reception which was held this morning at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel at 10:30 o'clock, and the luncheon which will be given out at Houston Hall for the visiting delegates and their wives at 1 o'clock. In the afternoon the Philadelphia League of Advertising Women will hold a "net to gether" reception at the Hotel Adelphia from 4 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Leon B. Heacock is head of the league's Entertainment Committee. Of course, all the hotels have provided special dances and the Ritz will hold dances every afternoon on the roof garden, while virtually every hotel in town will have dancing every evening from 10 or 11 until 2 in the morning. Altogether it is going to be some strenuous week and it seems to me a very delightful one as well.

We next climbed 3400 feet to cross the Cajon Pass in the San Bernardino Mountains, and how that car did climb! She had more speed on the steep grades than the 'thank-you-marms' would permit."

"My Hat's Off To The Cadillac 'Eight'" —"CANNON BALL" BAKER "The Cadillac people told me to drive to the limit at all times, because the car would stand it. For the first time in my long and varied experience I have had a car which could travel faster and stand more pounding than I could give it."

That this standard stock Cadillac broke the trans-continental record by nearly four days is incidental. The real achievement rests in the fact that it emerged from the fray as good a Cadillac as it began. In little more than a week it was put through a more terrific trial of stamina than most cars encounter in ten years of travel. It is still a Cadillac with many thousands of miles of service ahead of it. Thus has the Cadillac again proven itself to be
