

ILLUSTRATED

Evening Ledger

MONDAY
June 26, 1916

PICTORIAL SIDELIGHTS ON THE ADVERTISING MEN'S CONVENTION AND ITS FEMININE CONTINGENT

POINTS AND PERSONALITIES DEVELOPED BY THE PICTURE MEN OF THE EVENING LEDGER'S STAFF WHILE THE SESSIONS ARE BEING HELD IN THE COMMERCIAL MUSEUM. Photos by Ledger Photo Staff.

Heading from left to right at the top is Miss Madelyn Meryer, who is here to distribute literature reciting the glories of Denver, Col. Next the Boston delegation is seen entering the convention hall. The third picture reveals Miss Hester Love, who is cashier of the Advertising Committee and the president girl at the convention, many persons omitted. Her large companion is Fred McJunkin, who is proud to admit that he is from Dallas, Tex. Below, on the left, Governor Brumbaugh appears standing in a group the center of which is E. M. Durbin, president of the Four Richard Club. On the right's right is Col. Louis J. Kell. On the other side of the Governor is Secretary Hall, with some Chicago delegates. The fifth picture is that of the Homestead delegation. Below, on the left, Everett E. Fahn Smith, of the University of Pennsylvania, stands in a group of Chicagoans, while the last group reveals the Charlestonians who are present.