LEDGER PROTOPLAY CAST CONTEST OPENS

Entries of Philadelphia Organ-Isations Begin Today for Parts in Prize Script

By the Photoplay Editor

The Eventing Language Scenario Contest under way. Before it terminates the oting competition for a Philadelphia cast to act the prize winner will be in full swing. The Scapario Contest ends July 22. The hotoplay Cast Contest opens today with the nominating of candidates. The complets list of entries will be printed in the Amusement Section of July 15. Voting will begin Monday, July 17, and end Thursday, August 31.

For seven weeks the readers of the Eventso Lengua will vote daily for the members of the cast which will appear in the prise-winning All-Philadelphia scenario. They will be chosen from among entries made by social, dramstic, scholastic, fraterbusiness and other organizations in adelphia. Any groups of Philadelphiworking together in some general line of effort may enter candidates in the Pho-toplay Cast Contest by sending their names to the Photoplay Cast Contest, Box 964. Philadelphia. An organization may con-centrate support upon a single candidate or. If it wishes, it may nominate and work for two, a man and a woman.

Under the term organization, the EVEN-LEDGER will consider such bodies as lness men's clubs, dramatic associations, labor unions, settlement house groups, pri-mary schools, high schools, welfare asso-ciations in stores and manufactories, fraternities, clubs, athletic associations, Y. M. C. A.s. and in fact any group of Phila-delphians whose common aims will lend responsibility to their entries. The candi-dates need not be possessed of marked dra-matic talent, though almost all organiza-tions have amateur players among their Further announcement will ap-

Thomas H. Ince has been granted the for of presenting his 11-reel feature sto-drama, "Civilization," at the White une before President and Mrs. Wilson. Details for this event are now being completed even to elaborate preparations being made for special scenery. The prologue, in which 70 persons take part in a war and peace pantomime story preceding the picture at the Criterion Theatre in New York will also be expectably talented. He finds the work so easy, in fact, that he can find time to stop and take a drink even when the Nork, will also be given. The chorus of $5 voices heard at the Criterion will be sugmented in Washington by about 100 young women of prominent choral ocieties there, who will participate in this

The other day, between scenes, Roland Bottomley, the English star, who has been engaged to play opposite Jackle Saunders in the forthcoming Pathe-Balboa serial, "The Grip of Evil," entertained the bunch of onlookers with one of his inimitable stories of stage experience.

"We were doing 'Hamlet.' " said Roland. "and the ambitious director not only wanted the play to get over, but wanted the dia logue 'put acrost them.' as he phrased it The Ophelia mad scene was his pet. Laertes if you remember, comes on and finds Ophelia mad—a very telling situation. "The director threw down his scenario

Police Court Chronicle

It annoys Tom Barry to see any one taking things easy. He believes there are too many loafers in the world. The hard work should be more evenly divided. Tom contends. He is especially opposed to those who have nothing to do but push buttom and have some one elve do the work. Barry says the world has the wrong idea about compensation in this connection.

"The man who shovels and digs and makes things in the big mills ought to get more money than the fancy dressed feller who tells letters to a typewriter," declares Barry.

Barry.

Tom can do a number of things in the way of industrial pursuits himself. He can wield a pick or shovel with the best of them, make screens, put up awnings, white-wash cellars, "chauffeur an auto," drive a team, trim a lawn, move a plane or tend saloon is crowded with customers. His talent in this line is not always appreciated. Being such an advocate of all-round industry. it was with sheer disgust, therefore, that Barry saw a fancy looking artist sketching in a meadow near Stone House

He approached the stranger with angry "You're one of these drawin' fellers, ain" rer?" asked Tom.

The artist looked at him and yawned.

Had he struck Tom with a sledge ham-mer the effect could not have been greater. "I've a mind to break up your claptrap stuff." shouted Tom. "an' give yer a good

"Better change your mind," suggested the stranger as he touched up the clouds on the picture. "I'll show yer," shouted Barry, as he dangled his fist near the eye of the artist.

But the fist of Tom got no further.

There was a sharp report like a side of beef failing out the window as the man of industry locked at the sky horizontally.

When Tom came to be found himself star ing in the face of Magistrate Baker. Barry was slightly conscious of the fact that one eye felt wider than the other.

"I don't understand," said Tom.

A cop who stood beside him then informed the prisoner that he had witnessed the interview with the artist. He also told Tom that he had arrested him to save the rest of his face.
