LAW WAITS ON BEAUTY TO FINISH HER NAP

Constable Balks at Arresting Mrs. Charles R. Snowden, Society Woman

MRS. CHARLES R. SNOWDEN

quired. He was told that Mrs. Snowden could not be seen before 1 p. m.

"I'll wait," said the Constable. But he did not wait very long, for within an hour he returned to Magistrate Buckland's office and explained the difficulty.

"How could I take the lady when she was in bed?" he said. "It would not be right to disturb her rest that way. She will be here at 1 o'clock."

And so Mrs. Snowden was. It was the third time she has appeared before Magistrate Buckland on a similar charge. Police-men Gove and Clemence, of the Radnor township force, testified that they found Mrs. Snowden's machine with stopwatches as she proceeded west on Lancaster turnpike, crossing the dangerous Radnor road, at Radnor. They said she was traveling at about 32 miles an hour.

"That seems strange to me," Mrs. Snowden said, "as I cut down the speed of my car considerably, knowing the crossing to be a dangerous one."

"Then you must have been going 'some fast,'" Magistrate Buckland commented, "before you cut down speed." The last time Mrs. Snowden appeared before Magistrate Buckland she said some caustic things, but yesterday she promptly paid a fine of $10 and costs.

After she left the magistrate found an English shilling among the pieces that paid part of the fine.

"I'll keep that as a souvenir," he said.

HETTY GREEN'S WEALTH GOES TO TWO CHILDREN

Few Small Bequests Made to Few Friends of Woman Financier

MOOSE PUZZLED OVER ELECTORS

Washington Party Men and Progressive Delegates to Solve Problem at Conference

BELLOW FALLS, Vt., July 6.—The will of Mrs. Hetty Green, long known as the wealthiest woman in America, leaves the bulk of her estate to her son, Colonel E. H. R. Green, and her daughter, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks.

The remainder is distributed in smaller bequests to old friends of Mrs. Green.

The body of Mrs. Green was buried here yesterday in the family plot adjoining Immanuel Episcopal church in a grave beside that of her husband, Edward H. Green. A plain granite shaft, inscribed only with the family name, marks the spot. Services were held at Immanuel church.

The body was brought here on a train arriving late in the forenoon. It was accompanied by Mrs. Green's son, Colonel E. H. R. Green, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilks, and Mrs. Herbert P. Bancroft, a life-long friend.

No estimate of the total value of the estate is contained in the will, and the closing clause provides that the son and daughter shall not be required to file an inventory or appraisement or give bonds, and "shall not be required to account in or to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Probate Court."

The will, a document of nine typewritten pages with 16 items, was filed by Colonel Green and Charles W. Pierson, an attorney of New York, in the office of Probate Judge Warner A. Graham after the funeral of Mrs. Green. The instrument is dated March 15, 1911.

After directing that all expenses incurred through Mrs. Green's illness and funeral shall be paid promptly, the following "tokens of esteem" are bequeathed: Mrs. Herbert P. Bancroft, of New York, a friend of Mrs. Green, $5000; Amery A. Lawrence, of Boston, $10,000; Ruth Lawrence, New York, $5000, and Matthew Astor Wilks, husband of Mrs. Green's daughter, $5000, "an appreciation of having made an ancestral relinquishment of any claim on his wife's property."

The will disposed of the estate of Mrs. Green's husband as directed in his will. This property goes to the son and daughter. All jewelry, household furniture, porcelains, paintings and other personal effects of Mrs. Green are to be divided equally between son and daughter as they may agree. A trust fund is then provided for the daughter, and the son is directed to serve as trustee without pay in order that the daughter may have the benefit of his experience.

The will provides that nearly $5,000,000 in bonds and real estate, North held in trust by the son and daughter for 10 years, the income to be given to the daughter every three months and the capital to revert to her at the expiration of the trust. The residue of the estate is left to the son and daughter "in trust for 10 years." No stipulation appears in the will as to the disposition of the estate after the trust expires.

The Washington party State leaders are in a quandary over the selection of the third party electors.

A meeting or conference of all the members of the Washington Party State Committee, the delegates and the alternates to the Progressive National Convention has been called to decide the problem which confronts the third party.

The meeting will be held at the Board of Trade, Harrisburg, on Tuesday, July 11. The formal call was sent out today by State Chairman A. Nevitt Dietrich.

The fact that the Progressives are without a candidate for President has caused the complications. Under the Pennsylvania law the electors must be elected by the presidential candidate within 30 days after his nomination. Theodore Roosevelt was nominated at the Progressive National Convention, but later declined the nomination. The National Committee was empowered to fill any vacancy on the national ticket, but at its meeting a week ago it simply endorsed the candidacy of Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee.

The question to be solved by the Washington party leaders, who favor a reunion with the Republicans, is whether the clause in the law which designates how the electors shall be chosen would still be applicable if the Progressives finally place Hughes on their ticket. If this construction cannot be placed on the law, John M. Parker, of Louisiana, nominee for Vice President and leader of the bolt within the Progressive party, will be permitted to name the electors in Pennsylvania as well as all of the other States, as their meeting is to be held on July 11, the day after the expiration of the regular 30-day time limit.

They are seeking to avoid this, as they feel that Parker would name a complete ticket of electors who would be opposed to Hughes' candidacy, and who would, therefore, work against the Republican nominee.

William Plinn, of Pittsburgh, Progressive National Committee man from Pennsylvania and Progressive leader in this State, has been placed on the Republican ticket as elector-at-large. He will confer with other Progressive leaders of the State within the next two or three days in an effort to arrive at some solution of the Washington party problem.

MOTORCYCLIST BADLY INJURED IN COLLISION

Carpenter's Mate of the Columbia in Crash With Auto—Car's Occupants Arrested

John Lindell, chief-carpenter's mate on the United States steamship Columbia at League Island, was terribly mutilated early today when a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with a small touring car. He is in the Methodist Hospital in a serious condition.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 o'clock on Broad street below Oregon avenue. The automobile was running north on Broad street, while Lindell was proceeding toward League Island. The motorcar was being driven by John Rumball, North 6th street. The occupants were Miss Fannie Goldberg, of 817 Calowhill street; Alexander Mayer, of 977 North Marshall street, and Morris Field, of 314 Wharton street.

All of the occupants of the car were arrested by Policeman Lyford, of the 4th street and Snyder avenue station, who witnessed the accident. At a hearing before Magistrate Buckland the driver was held under $1000 bail for a further hearing next Saturday, and bail was fixed for his companions at $500.

The disposition of the case on Saturday will be determined by the injured man's condition. His head was almost crushed, his face and body bruised and scratched and he suffered severe wounds of the abdomen.

The occupants of the car told the police they had been riding through the Park and decided to go as far as League Island before returning to their homes. The wind shield of the car was smashed by the collision and Lindell was cut by the broken glass.

HUGHES IN DEMAND FOR CAMPAIGN WORK

Deluged With Invitations to Speak on Transcontinental Tour

NEW YORK, July 6.—Announcement by Justice Hughes' campaign managers that the nominee is planning a coast-to-coast trip has resulted in a deluge of invitations for him to speak en route. Hughes originally planned not to make any train platform talks and to confine his speaking to perhaps a dozen set speeches at big gatherings in the large cities, possibly Chicago, Omaha, St. Louis, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, New Orleans, Baltimore and others. Demands for his presence and an utterance of his views have come from scores of other cities en route and it appeared likely today that the transcontinental trip would be lengthened considerably.

Within the next couple of days headquarters for both parties will be going in full blast. Chairman Wilcox, of the G. O. P., expected to move into the Postal Building, 43d street and 5th avenue, within 48 hours. A big suite has been taken there for the Republicans. The Democrats are already installed on the second floor of the 43d Street Building and today were fast getting their forces of clerks distributed and organized effectively.

MRS. PERCY M. CHANDLER

Mrs. Emma B. Chandler, society woman, charity worker and a member of a distinguished family, died yesterday. She was 45 years old. She succumbed to an illness from which she had been suffering for two years, at her home, 135 South 18th street.

Mrs. Chandler was the wife of Percy M. Chandler, of the banking firm of Chandler Brothers & Co., with offices at 1338 Chestnut street. Possessed of great wealth, she was a generous donor to various philanthropic undertakings, but gave as liberally of her time as her money. Before her marriage, she was Miss Emma B. Mendonell.

The homestead, in which she was born, Cottage Rest, was one of the famous "underground stations" of Civil War times in which such famous abolitionists as Wendell Phillips and William Lloyd Garrison held their secret conferences. The house was also the scene of brilliant social functions and Mrs. Chandler, inheriting instincts of hospitality, was herself a delightful entertainer.

She was active in various educational fields, but was most interested in Temple University—particularly its medical school. Auxiliary of the university since its organization. When she became ill and offered her resignation her fellow-workers refused to accept it, and not until her condition became extremely serious did she relinquish the office. The success of entertainments which provided large funds for the upkeep of Temple was due to Mrs. Chandler's efforts.

The Philadelphia Indoor Horse Show was established by a group of women in which she was prominent and until last April she served on the Executive Committee. The proceeds of this undertaking were given to charity.

Mrs. Chandler was a member of the Philomathean Club, the Quaker City Ladies' Motor Club, the Charlotte Cushman Club, the Matinee Musical Club and a subscriber to the Philadelphia Orchestra. Until illness made her attendance at the opera impossible she was always a noted figure in the boxes.

When Mrs. Chandler first became ill she was taken to Hot Springs and subsequently to Atlantic City. This failed to improve her health and she was brought home several months ago. Her death was not unexpected.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning. A special train will convey relatives and friends to the Longwood Cemetery, near her old home. A member of the Society of Friends, she will be buried in accordance with the ceremonies of that faith. She was educated at the Friends' Central School.

Mrs. Chandler had no children. She is survived by her husband and a brother.

Medical Reserve Corps Called

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The first general call to field duty of the recently created medical reserve corps of the army was issued today by the War Department, when 48 civilian physicians were ordered to report to General Funston for assignment to duty. They are expected to arrive at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., as soon as possible and be distributed among the militia.

NEIGHBORS SAVE FURNITURE WHEN FLAMES ATTACK HOME

Only Flaming Bed Remains When Fire Company Arrives

Harlan street's salvage corps covered itself with glory today when it carried out of the home of Petrona every article of furniture except a blazing bedstead and mattress. Firemen tossed the latter from a window and returned to their stations, after congratulating the amateur rescuers.

Mrs. Petrona lives at 518 Harlan street. She was downstairs this morning when she smelled smoke. Nine-months-old Thomas was in her arms. The smoke proceeded from a back bedroom where a 4-year-old Dominic and 2-year-old Loretta had been playing. Mrs. Petrona gathered her little family about her and ran into the street, shouting that her home was afire. One neighbor sent in an alarm while others devoted themselves to dragging out the contents of the Petrona dwelling. The blaze yielded quickly to the firemen, who thought Dominic might be able to explain its origin. His mother suggested that he might have been playing with matches, but Dominic, when questioned, was too much frightened to give coherent answers.
