Adoption of Offensive and Defensive Program by the Entente Allies Causes Some Alarm

MUST MEET CUT PRICES

WASHINGTON, July 11 .- Serious con-WASHINGTON, July 11.—Serious con-cern is growing in administration circles over the now certain assaults to be made upon American trade supremacy when the European war ends. Much of the alarm is due to study of the reports made by the American embassy in Paris on the recent conference of the representatives of the Entente powers.

The fact that they adopted a program of offense and defense along trade lines indicates, officials say, that after the war they will try to extend their boycott to neutral nations in order that their own trade may recover from the effects of the great conflict.

It will not alone be the Entente powers that must be reckoned with. Naturally, officials say, the Teutonic powers do not intend quietly to submit to any general boycott. As a result the economic pressure will be extreme and the United States must be in a position to compete with reduced prices and cut rates along all lines of production. Fortunately, officials say, this country's financial reserve will be so vast that it will have a material advantage at all times.

Senators Stone and Lodge agreed in their speeches in the Senate yesterday that the speeches in the Senate yesterday that the situation was one that demanded the greatest care in shaping a future policy. It has been decided by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations that it will carefully examine all of the data submitted by the State Department through the President yesterday and try to decide on nonpartisan remedial legislation. This will make three separate investigations along this line in progress as follows: progress as follows:
By Secretary of Commerce Redheld and merce. By the Federal Trade Commission. By the Senate Foreign Relations Com-

Up to the present no data is available as to the effect the proposed commercial agreement among the Entente Allies will have upon the trade of neutral nations. This is the information that the Senate Committee is most anxious to get and it is expected that the President will be asked to have it gathered in Paris, London and Petrograd.

New Jersey Executive Resumes Weekly Entertainment at Sea Girt

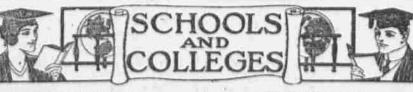

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 11 .- Governor Fielder has completed arrangements for entertaining 2500 politicians of the State on Fridays for the next five weeks, at least 500 being expected each Friday. The Ex-ecutive, in view of the interest in the presi-dential, gubernatorial, congressional and other elections, has decided to resume the gatherings at the "Little White House" here, after a year's lapse.

The first group to come will be those from Essex, this week. With them will come politicians from Morris and Ocean counties. It is expected that several candidates for Governor in both parties will be present at each gathering, and if Presi dent Wilson gets to Shadow Lawn, at Long Branch, before the last of the series of "Governor's days" is held he has promised to attend one. A hig tent will be erected on Robin Lawn, adjoining the Governor's cottage, and here luncheon will be served to the guests. The Court of Pardons will hold its regu-

DURBAN, NATAL, HAS NET TO BAR SHARKS FROM BATHERS Inclosed Bathing Beach Cuts Down

Mortality From Mancaters

Durban, Natal, a city of $6,000 popula tion on the southwest coast of South Africa. 250 miles from Capetown, has solved the sturk problem. Lying, as it does, along the more tropical currents of the Indian Ocean which are numerously infested with sharks and other deep sea monsters, the city had suffered the loss of five citizens a day during the bathing seasons through the hunger and ferocity of man-eating sharks.

Now Durban, Natal, has a bathing beach entirely inclosed in a pier made of piles, interwoven with iron netting. The piles are of iron and are imbedded in cement. The iron netting is strung between. No shark can come within it.

"Bathers there," says Fred Browne, of 6207 Webster street, who resided in the South African city 14 years, "often watched sharks nose up to this iron netting in search of human food. But they know they are safe. The sharks, too, have now learned that they cannot get into the in-closure and have virtually abandoned the place. When they want to eat a man they go up the Indian Ocean to some primi-tive beach where a native South African cometimes-but not very often-may be had."

Mr. Brown says the protective pier is built in the shape of a half moon, extending out from the shore about 250 feet.

JAPANESE SHOW CLASS IN PLAY ON UTICA COURTS

Orientals/Easily Triumph in | Hasselbacker Starts Against First-Round Matches, Winning in Straight Sets

UTICA, N. Y., July 11.—The Japanese stars, Kumague and Makimi, played their first Eastern attack in the New York State tennic championship tournament here this morning, at the golf club, and amply lived up to every prediction that has been made for them. In the matches they showed skill, power and endurance, winning easily under a blastne sun that slowed up nearly every other entry. The appearance of the Orientals has raised a question as to their amateur stand-ing, and in discussing this Secretary Edwin Torrey, of the United States Lawn Ten nis Association, said their trip to this country was made possible by several prominent Japanese bankers and merchants interested in developing tennis in their country.

"The interest these Japanese gentlemens showed in sending a distinguished teams to this country." Mr. Torrey said. "Is simular to the interest shown by Sidney L. Marvin, of San Francisco, who was the principal spoke in the wheel that started the California sending to the Atlantic. Californians rolling toward the Atlantic coast and which has developed our recent national champion."

WILLIS DAVIS DEFAULTS LAWRY AT SECOND BASE

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

SHIRE PARK, July 11.—Those same St. ouls Browns who so ruthlessly tore into the Athletics on their last trans-Mississippl trip appeared here this afternoon, ready to send the tottering Mackmen further down the ladder, if possible. On the other hand up a fight.

Mack's board of strategy believed that Young Hascelbacher was the man who could stop the losing stresk. Consequently, he was sent into the fray.

The opposing moundaman was Koob,

Shotton muffed Lajole's fly. Pick fouled to Severoid. Mitterling pushed a single past second, Lajole going to third. Murphy lined to Miller. Hasselbacher fanned. No runs, one hit, one error.

THIRD INNING.

Strunk made a sensational catch of Sizier's long fly. Pratt bounced a home run into the centre field bleachers. Wally into the centre field bleachers. Wally Schang made a great running catch of Marsans' liner, which looked like another home run. Lavan walked. Tavan was caught sleeping and thrown out, Hasselbacher to Lajole to King. One run, one hit, no errors.

Lawry filed to Shotton. King was thrown out by Pratt. Strunk doubled against the right field fence. Strunk was caught off second. Koob to Lavan. No runs, one hit, Williams now pitching for the Athletics. Severoid took two bases on King's wild throw to first. Koob walked. Shotton also walked filling the bases. Austin was called out on strikes. Miller dumped a grounder at Williams' feet and the pitcher heaved the ball to the grandstand, Severoid and Koob scoring, and when Murphy had a brainstorm and rolled the ball to Charley Pick, at third, Shotton came home. In the meantime. Miller, seeing third base alone and inguarded, rushed around to that sta-tion without any oposition whatever. Siser's hit was too hot for Williams to handle and Miller scored. Sieler was cought off first, Williams to Lajoie to King to Lajoie. Fratt hit a feeble grounder to King, and by remarkable presence of mind, he threw the ball to Larry instead of hurling it against runs, one hite, and three errors.

HE MUCKER

DILLY BRYNE was a product of the streets and slums of Chicago's West Side. His education commenced in an alley back of a feed store, the rendezvous of pickpockets and second-story men, made and in the making. At twelve he was robbing freight cars; later he employed himself "sticking up" saloons in the watches of the night; accused of murder, the powerful, brutal and utterly unprincipled Billy left Chicago and made his way to San Francisco. From this point Edgar Rice Burroughs puts his strange "hero" through many wondrous paces, and eventually evolves something that functions like a man-with a strong undercurrent of mucker. It is a strange study in psychology, and readers who have followed the Burroughs serials in the Evening Ledger will find the "The Mucker" a story so different from the previous Burroughs romances as to make them question the authorship, were it not for the vivid narrative power and moving incident which stamp all Burroughs' stories.
