

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

WEDNESDAY
July 12, 1916

PICTORIAL SIDELIGHTS ON THE VARIED NEWS OF THE DAY FROM HOME AND ABROAD

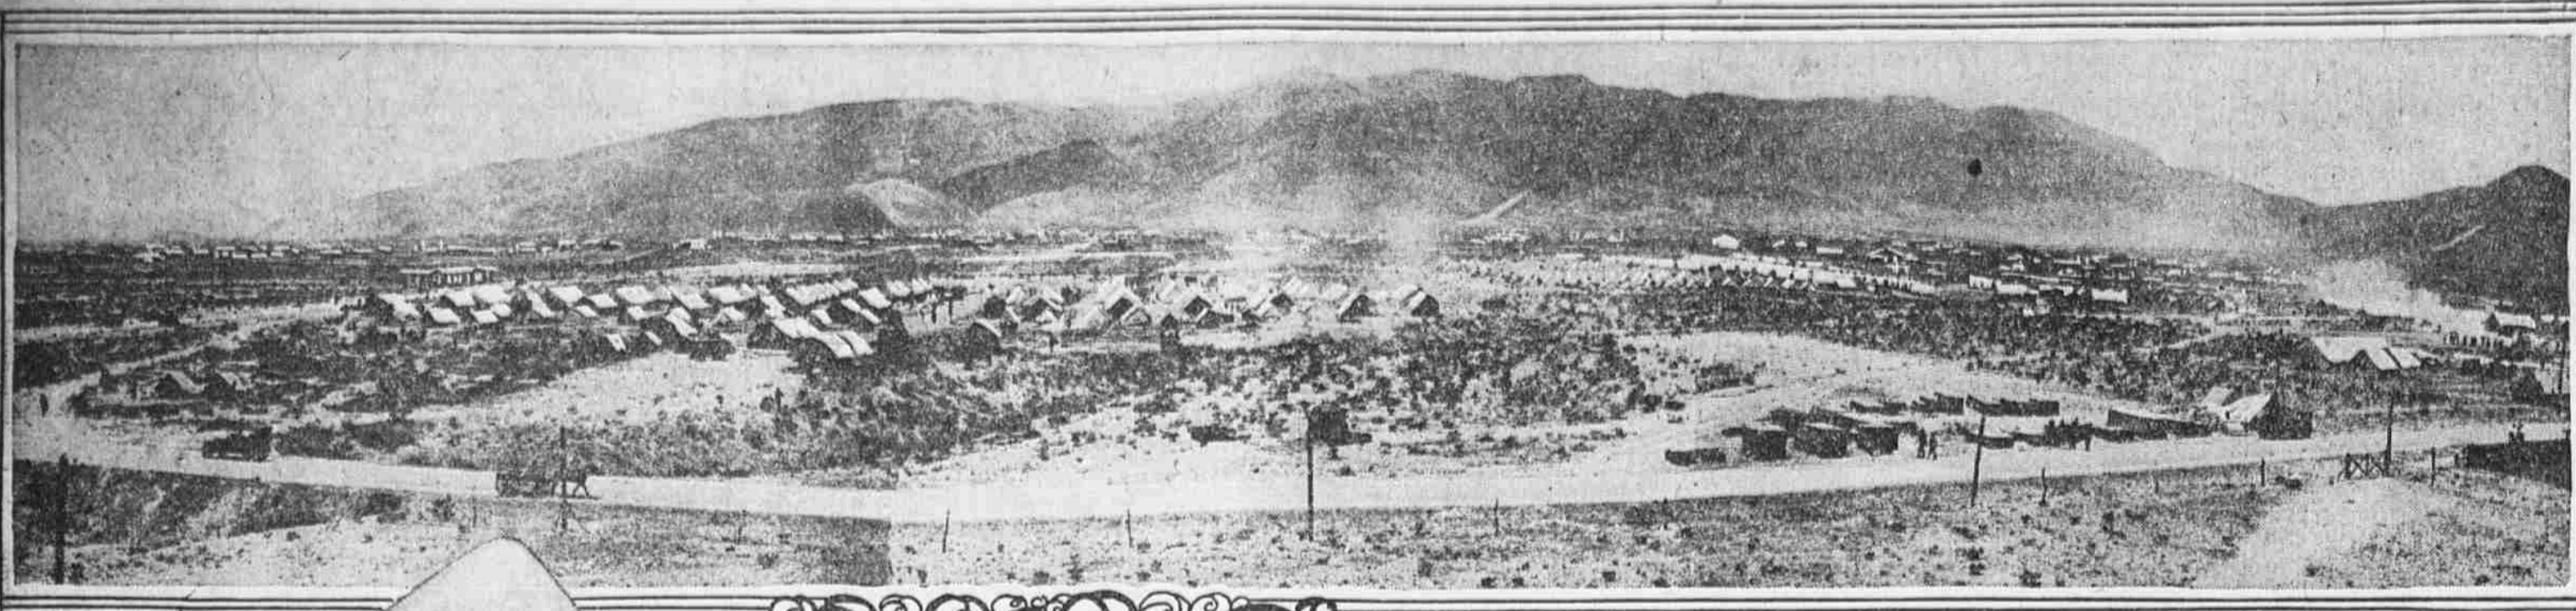

Photo by Evening Ledger Staff Photographer with First Brigade.
QUARTERS OF FIRST BRIGADE OF PENNSYLVANIA AT CAMP PERSHING, EL PASO, TEXAS

RUSSIANS IN FRANCE OFF TO FRONT
Wearing the now-famous steel helmets and ready to help their allies.

OUTDOOR BEDROOMS IDEAL THESE DAYS
The young man has just awakened from a refreshing nap taken in the shade of a cool sidewalk near his home in South Phila.

GOOD DIGESTION DEFIES MIDSUMMER HEAT—A MIDDAY LUNCH ON RACE STREET PIER
Youthful patrons and patronesses of the recreation centre on the Municipal Pier at Race street derive health and appetite from the fresh air wafted from the Delaware. The decreasing infant mortality attests its value as a baby-saving instrument, especially in summer.

MEXICAN BEAUTIES WHO CHARM PHILADELPHIA'S SOLDIERS AT EL PASO
A group of señoritas from over the border such as romantic guardsmen have been dreaming of ever since mobilization was ordered. That in some cases they have found their vision of dark-eyed señoritas a reality is evidenced by this picture just received from Camp Pershing.

WHERE GERMS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS MAY LURK—PROLIFIC SOURCE OF INFECTION
This picture, taken on South Fourth street, is sufficient evidence that the municipal injunction to "can your rubbish" is not unwarranted. Announcement of the exact location is not necessary, as the city contains other spots equally favorable for propagating deadly germs.